MONITOR - ENFORCE - PROTECT

EMAP STAKEHOLDER ONE-PAGER

EMAP for Prosecutors

Know what happened and what action followed.

THE CHALLENGE

Prosecutors may need to evaluate a violation, prepare for court, or understand what happened during electronic monitoring. When provider notices, monitoring history, case information, supporting records, and court actions are scattered across separate systems and communications, the sequence of events can be difficult to reconstruct.

WHAT EMAP CAN HELP YOU DO

- Review monitoring activity within the authorized jurisdiction
- See case- and charge-connected monitoring and violation history
- Review violation reports, addendums, provider submissions, and supporting records
- Follow provider notices and time-stamped communication history
- See documented court actions, hearing outcomes, and follow-through when available
- Use a time-stamped, auditable record to support violation review and court preparation

WHY IT MATTERS

EMAP organizes the monitoring history around the case so authorized prosecutors can determine what happened, when it happened, what was documented, who took action, and what followed. That reduces the need to rebuild the record from multiple providers, emails, and files.
