Editor's Message

September 1, 2026

Greetings,

We greet you in the name of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Welcome back to a new school term and a new church year. We hope that you have had a good summer of pleasurable activities, rest, serenity, and restoration so that you are ready, willing, and able to meet the tasks and challenges ahead.

In keeping with our 175th Anniversary theme in 2025, "The Path to Restoration", the church is in the midst of physical restorations - capital improvements. As with previous generations, we are committed to restoring our church building and growing our church family.

We recognize that the church is not just the building; we, the people, are the church with a vision to be and make disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world and a mission to be a beacon of love and hope for the community by spreading the Word of Jesus Christ. We are known as "the church where hearts are strangely warmed, and everybody is somebody". Like our predecessors, we strive to keep God first in all that we do and to love one another as God loves us. For the Church is the Body of Christ, where "there may be no division in the body, but that the members may have the same care for one another. If one member suffers, all suffer together; if one member is honored, all rejoice together" - 1 Corinthians 12: 25-26.

The summer is over. Let's get to work. There is much to do to restore and preserve our church. We want the doors to remain open and welcoming. As God says, "For now, I have chosen and sanctified this house, that My name may be there forever; and My eyes and My heart will be there perpetually" - 2 Chronicles 7:36.

Students, as you go back to school, go with God (vaya con Dios). Strive to do your best. Have a great year!

Sincerely,
Deborah Williams

A Message from
Rev. Dr. Kenneth Percell Moore, Pastor

Dear Beloved John Wesley United Methodist Church Family,

As we have departed the warm days of summer, rest, relaxation and vacation, we transition into a season revived, refreshed and renewed to continue in fruitful ministry. Transitioning into a new season of ministry, I would like each of you to contemplate our mandate to be good Christian stewards. Each Sunday, the worship leader states before the collection, "Stewardship, stewardship, stewardship!!!" While the phrase always brings smiles, laughter and anticipation, it has a much deeper meaning and implication. It reminds us of our identity and purpose as children of God through Jesus Christ.

Good Christian stewardship is a core principle in the faith, rooted in the belief that everything we have (time, talents, finances, and the environment) belongs to God and is entrusted to us for His glory and the good of others. The Bible teaches that God is the ultimate owner of all creation (Genesis 1:27; Psalm 24:1). As stewards, we are called to manage these gifts wisely, faithfully, and lovingly. The parable of the talents (Matthew 25:14-30) shows that faithful use of God's resources leads to greater responsibility and reward and suggests the following:

- Honoring and Worshiping God – Stewardship is an act of worship, reflecting gratitude and trust in God's provision;
- Serving Others – Generosity with time, talent, and treasure blesses the community and embodies Christ's love (1 Peter 4:10);
- Promoting Justice and Compassion – Stewards share resources to address needs, support the marginalized, and advance God's mission;
- Protecting Creation – Environmental stewardship means caring for God's creation through sustainable living, conservation, and respect for all life;
- Fostering Spiritual Growth – Practicing stewardship deepens our relationship with God, cultivates humility, and aligns our lives with His purposes;
- Building the Kingdom – Investing in ministries, missions, and community projects and supports God's redemptive work in the world.

In short, being a good Christian steward is not just about giving money; it's about living a life of faithfulness, generosity, and responsibility that honors God and transforms the world for His Kingdom. I hope this will give you a better understanding of who we are and how we can be more effective stewards who care for the assets that God has given us as tools for fruitful ministry!

In humble grace,

Rev. Dr. Kenneth Percell Moore, Sr. Pastor, Lady Tonica & Noelle

Ushers' Anniversary

We celebrated the Ushers' Anniversary on May 17, 2026. Usher Diane Jones was the speaker, who based her sermon on the theme, “Standing Firm in the House of the Lord.” She talked about dedication, service, and commitment in ushering, a ministry of hospitality wherein ushers are called to face challenges, be dependable and anchored in faith, welcome everyone, set the tone for worship, and create an atmosphere of love. She referenced, among many scriptures, Psalm 84:19, “For a day in Your courts is better than a thousand; I would rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God than dwell in the tents of wickedness”, and Psalm 100:2, “Serve the Lord with gladness; come before His presence with singing”.

Light refreshments were served after the worship service. We thank our ushers for their dedicated service to our church community.

United Women in Faith's 87th Anniversary

Theme: "I Am With You Always."

Scripture: Matthew 28:20

Guest Speaker: CLM Ronnette Cook

CLM Ronnette Cook
Guest Speaker

The United Women in Faith celebrated their 87th Anniversary on Sunday, June 14, 2026. Certified Lay Minister (CLM) Ronnette Cook from The Journey of Faith UMC in Waldorf, MD, was the guest speaker. She recalled the story of Abram (later Abraham), Sarai (later Sarah), and Hagar, Sarai's servant who bore Abram's child at Sarai's request. Eventually, Hagar was thrown out into the wilderness and felt worthless. In her despair, God provided comfort and guidance, and she acknowledged Him as "The God who sees me".

Hagar's experiences illustrate God's compassion extending to all, regardless of their status or circumstances.

Lay Minister Cook reminded us that God sees us and is always with us.

Rika Evans Earns Bachelor's Degree

When God says, "I got you", believe Him! That is exactly what I did, and it is what led me to this point. When you feel a calling on your life, you are driven by faith that God will help you complete the steps that you need to get where He needs you to be. I was that person who always said, "I hate school", or "I will never go to college". A little after high school, I rededicated myself to God and wanted His guidance. At the time, I did not know what that fully entailed or the plans that He had for me. A couple of years after that, I found myself enrolling in college. Because I knew that I had an end goal, which was to gain as much knowledge as I could to work with youth, I went through the classes little by little.

With starting a family and working full time, I could only take classes here and there. I would take time off from school when needed, and when the opportunity presented itself to get back to it, that is what I did. It is easy to stay persistent when you can see God's vision. That is what kept me through the long nights and missed events due to assignment deadlines. I am grateful to God for His faithfulness and am excited for where He is leading me! I graduated from Liberty University with a Bachelor's Degree in Human Services.

Concerts and Album Recordings

David Griffiths

On May 9, our Choir Director, David Griffiths, performed in a live concert and album recording of “Life Review: The Hospice Musical” at the Arellano Theater, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. The play is about life, memory, and moments we carry into the end. Mr. Griffiths was one of four deceased characters who reflected on his life through song.

Benjamin Kintisch, AKA “Rabbi David”, is the creator, lyricist, playwright, and lead performer. He was inspired by his real-life experiences as a beginner hospice chaplain over ten years ago, has worked on the project ever since, and has finally brought the characters back to life from “death!”

Joyce Howard

Joyce Howard, a member of the JWUMC choir, recently joined the inter-denominational “Brett Lane and the Celebration Choir” that recorded an album on February 24. On May 31, the choir performed in a live concert at the Pathway Church of God in Brooklyn, MD. Upon arrival, each attendee received a sample CD consisting of five original selections, each composed by a choir member. The choir is a servant-focused music ministry that strives to bring glory to the Kingdom of God, unify singers and musicians, and serve the community.

BH4L

Over 20 years ago, what started as an interest in developing a clothing line depicting Black History, Charles McNeal, Deborah Williams’ brother, produced, had patented, and marketed Black History for Life (BH4L) clothing.

Because his job required him to travel a lot, he had to table his project, but now that he is retired, he’s back!

The logo is illustrated on the front of the caps, T-shirts, sweatshirts, and hoodies. A snapshot of an era in Black History is on the back. The lines of clothing tell the story of Black History in America. The back of one line says, “August 1619, 15 months before the Mayflower, 38 years before George Washington, a mystery ship landed 20 Blacks in Jamestown, VA, inaugurating the history of African-Americans, opening a new chapter in human history”.

Cedar-Morris Hill Community Day

The Cedar-Morris Hill Community Day was celebrated on Saturday, June 13. It started with several politicians meeting with the community. Then there was a parade of 3 marching bands: The Baltimore Twilighters, The Marching Elite, and Diamonds of Heritage at Severn. There were several food trucks, free snowballs and popcorn, inside and outside activities, baked goods, potted flowers, and arts & crafts. Little kids enjoyed the Bounce Castle.

Many members of John Wesley UMC live in, lived in, and/or grew up in the Cedar-Morris Hill community.

Match the community with its description.

Historically Black Communities in Anne Arundel County, MD

- A. Founded in 1845, when James Spencer, a freeborn black farmer and entrepreneur, purchased an initial 56 acre tract of land
- B. Prominent waterfront community near Annapolis; founded in 1893 by Major Charles Remond Douglass, son of Frederick Douglass, after he was denied service at a whites-only resort
- C. Located along Whiskey Bottom Road north of Laurel, Maryland, in Anne Arundel County, and formed in 1860 when the Dorsey family freed Maria Bacon, an enslaved woman, and deeded 30 acres of property to her.
- D. Founded in the early 1900s by the Queen and Gaither families, who were originally enslaved at the White Marsh plantation in Bowie, MD
- E. Established as a suburban residential subdivision primarily between the late 1930s and post-World War II housing booms, when returning veterans and expanding industry led to rapid development in Northern Anne Arundel County
- F. Originally owned by Quakers, the area was gradually sold off after the Civil War and became one of the first established enclaves for free Black families and emancipated slaves in Anne Arundel County. This community has the dubious distinction of being in Anne Arundel County but having a Baltimore City zip code.

Celebration of Graduates and Honor Roll Students

On Sunday, June 21, the first day of summer and Father's Day, Lay Leader Michele Jacobs, "The Beautiful One", brought the Word, 'Trust God's Word for Your Next Step'. She cited Jer. 29:11, "I know the plans I have for you, says the Lord, plans of peace and not of evil, to give you a future and a hope." She reminded us that God knows our story from the time that we were in the womb, in the present, and in the future; He is always with us, especially through our storms.

The children presented a Father's Day tribute of most-often Father's sayings that brought knowing laughs from the audience.

The choir presented the pastor with several Father's Day gifts, including a banner expressing appreciation.

Howard University Legacy Graduate

I am proud to share that I recently graduated from Howard University with a Bachelor of Business Administration Degree in Finance. As a legacy graduate, following in the footsteps of my mother, Class of 2002, this achievement holds special meaning for me and my family. During my time at Howard, I had the privilege of competing as a student-athlete while also building lifelong relationships and developing both personally and professionally. The experience has shaped my discipline, leadership, and commitment to excellence.

Shortly after graduation, I successfully passed the SAFE MLO Exam and became a licensed Mortgage Loan Officer. I am currently licensed in eight states and eager to begin my career in the mortgage industry, where I look forward to continued growth and making a meaningful impact. I am deeply grateful for all that God has done in this season of my life, and I am excited for the opportunities and purpose that lie ahead.

Welcome Back, Educators

In September, we often welcome students back to school, but we sometimes forget to welcome the educators who serve them. School teachers and administrators are important and deserve to be acknowledged for their dedication, reliability, integrity, hard work, skills, endurance, perseverance, and compassion. The school is a microcosm of society where the educator is faced with every good and bad thing imaginable. The educator is expected to wear many hats: teacher, counselor, social worker, mentor, facilitator, mediator, and whatever else the situation demands. Hats off to you, educators, as you return to school! Wear your hats well.

A member of our church asked me for an article about myself. I, Deborah Williams, thought about it for a while but hadn't decided. As I was clearing out drawers of old papers, I discovered a letter. After some consideration, I decided that the best accolade for me is from someone whom I had served. Here is the letter that a student presented to me twenty years ago, when she was a tenth grader. She graduated in 2008, the year that I retired from the Baltimore City Public School System after 35 years. I had been her grade-level administrator throughout her high school years. I wish that I could find and hug her.

December 5, 2006

Dear Ms. Williams,

Throughout my few years at Dunbar High, a lot of things have occurred in my life. While going through all the obstacles that have been thrown my way, you have been right there, always trying to find a way to better the situation and always so concerned. For that I would like to say "Thank you", not only to you, but to Mr. Shaw, Mrs. Racquel Smith, Mrs. Dunston, and all the other administrators and staff who have been with me through the ups and downs. Even being as young as I am, I know there aren't a lot of teachers and administrators who really care about the well-being of the children at the school, but I am grateful for the ones at Dunbar who really care.

But that is not why I am writing this letter. I am writing to tell you how much I would like to apologize to you. I know that many times I am goofy and play a lot, and I would like to apologize for that. I also know that many times when I am told to do things, I have to be told more than once to do them, and for that, I apologize. Many times, I talk back and say things that I shouldn't say out of my mouth, and for that, I truly apologize. Overall, Ms. Williams, I have been being very disrespectful lately, and I would really like to apologize. Please don't stop showing that you care because even though you may think it is going unnoticed, it isn't. I really appreciate your concern.

Sincerely,

J.H.

Book Reviews

Have you read any good books lately? Can you suggest one for us? Are you willing to write a review of it for the December newsletter? If so, let us know. To arouse your interest, here are two books that we recommend for your reading pleasure:

Legacy: Portrait of an Ancestor

by Edward Bruce Bynum et al.

Have you ever been fascinated by the revelations in Henry Louis Gates, Jr.'s television show, "Finding Your Roots," which explores each guest's lineage? Have you ever considered researching your family history and thought, 'Maybe one day'? Well, our very own Anthony Bynum and his family traced and wrote about their family history in

Legacy: Portrait of an Ancestor.

The Bynum family story opens with the burial of E.B. Bynum, Anthony Bynum's father. E.B. was the great-grandson of Ashly Bynum, who was born a slave in 1842. His marriage to Annika Bynum was recorded in the Pitt County, North Carolina, register in 1880 when he was 38, and his wife was 36. Ashly and Anika Bynum had four sons: Snas, Eddie, Agrippa, and Festus. The book focuses on Agrippa's line of descendants. Agrippa migrated from Pitt County, North Carolina, to Drew County, Arkansas, where his son, Ashley Bynum, was born. Ashley and his wife, Lillie Mae Cobb Bynum, had a son, E.B., and a daughter, Irma Lee.

As an Air Force sergeant, E.B. Bynum moved his family to Grenier Air Force Base in New Hampshire. Later, they settled in Goffstown, New Hampshire. E.B. was a "Renaissance Man": a retired military sergeant, entrepreneur, civic activist, politician, member of social organizations, and family man. He instilled in his children the importance of education. All are professionals who share stories, paying tribute to their father, in this historical memoir where individuals come to life through vivid descriptions, informative interviews, and interesting stories. Reading this book made me understand why the Bynum siblings felt compelled to recount their rich family history.

Hope Rises

by David Baldacci

In Hope Rises, a follow up to Nash Falls, the author delivers a globe-trotting, action thriller that seamlessly transitions from a gripping character study to a high-stakes revenge tale. To avenge his daughter's death, Walter Nash, now living under the alias, Dillon Hope, and working as an informant for the FBI, infiltrates a lethal, global, criminal empire, headed by Victoria Steers. To succeed, Hope must rely on every ounce of his new, hard-earned skills to prove himself an ally to Steers.

The novel moves at a blistering pace, taking readers from Hong Kong to a secret prison in Myanmar. The intense twists and turns will keep the reader second-guessing until the end. The plot serves as a haunting exploration of how far a good person will go when he has nothing left to lose.

David Baldacci is an award-winning global #1 bestselling author of suspense novels and legal thrillers. It's imperative that you read Nash Falls before Hope Rises.
