Phone booth placement

The bare

Minimum

In fields where individual work dominates over meetings, one silent space per 10 people is a good rule of thumb. This means that an open office with 50 people should include at least 5 Spaces. Divide the spaces between differently sized rooms.

Silen Spaces are perfect dividers for work and relaxation areas. Place your Space in a visible spot, not hidden in or around a corner.

For generating

Super teams

When your office is the serious playground for constant brainstorming and meetings, and your business also facilitates a lot of phone calls, make sure to have one silent space per 2 people. This guarantees that everyone can focus when they need to and that phone calls or meetings will not disturb the work flow of other team members.

The air circulation system in Silen phone booths does not require air ducts on the sides of the pods; Silen can be installed side-by-side with no space in between.

Other phone booths have air ducts in the walls of the pod and require spacing in between.

S1

Our S1 phone booth has one of the largest interior footprints on the market. Featuring a built-in laptop table with a ferrous metal back, this acoustic pod is perfect for individual work and phone calls.

S2, S4, S6

If you need space for group meetings or one-on-one conversations, look no further than our multiperson meeting pods. Our S2, S4, and S6 models are reconfigurable, meaning you can combine and split the unit to fit your needs.
