About

La Vallée des Couleurs Nature Park in Mauritius has become a popular tourist attraction since the discovery of its 23 colored earth in 1998. This nature park offers a unique experience for nature enthusiasts, showcasing indigenous fauna and flora. Visitors can explore a variety of natural landscapes, including plateaus, mountains, valleys, waterfalls, craters, and crater-lakes, while enjoying a panoramic view of the south coast. The journey begins with an exhibition room highlighting the park's wonders, followed by a visit to the enchanting fern garden, featuring tree ferns, wild orchids, and native flowers like the Trochetia and Bouquet Banane. The park is also home to diverse wildlife, including tortoises, monkeys, stags, fish, and various bird species.

La Vallée des Couleurs Nature Park offers an immersive experience that showcases the rich biodiversity of Mauritius, making it a must-visit destination for nature lovers.
