

Using a mind mapping tool ensures that I have covered all the material required for the project while avoiding extraneous material. It also makes it easy to create silos, sequencing, and scaffolding. I created this map for a project to create a style guide for all learning products that were being developed.

