

Hallelujah

Heartfelt Praise

If we could only speak one word to God to express everything that is in our hearts, hallelujah could be that word. It is a word constructed linguistically, musically and soulfully, to praise and connect with the One who is beyond words. By deliberately staying on a single note, the chant below draws on a technique of prayer that has been used for centuries by Chazzanim and Gregorians alike. Somewhere between song and speech, a single repeated note strikes a deep emotional chord, one that aches for resolution with her Creator, one that longs for the wholeness of being One.
