POSTPONE OR PERSEVERE

The decision to postpone or move forward with your wedding day at this uncertain time is a personal decision with no right or wrong option. Whichever choice you decide is right for you, the tips below will help you feel more at ease with your decision.

ASKING FOR HELP

There are a lot of decisions that need to be made at a time like this, but they don't have to be overwhelming. Make sure that you are leaning on those closest to you and taking advice from those you trust. And remember, your wedding planner is always there to ease your mind and help calm your fears!

TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF

Above all else, make sure that you are taking care of yourself both physically and emotionally. Take time away from stressful situations, hydrate and get rest. Your well being and the well being of those around you should be a top priority.

Adapting to Change

With recent global events impacting almost every aspect of our daily lives we know there is tremendous pressure on brides to make big decisions regarding their wedding day. But don't fret! There are plenty of ways to make you and your guests feel comfortable in a social setting while still moving forward with your day.

- Wash your hands before and after each physical interaction.
- Limit handshaking and hugging.
- Offer hand sanitizer stations.
- Keep a stock of gloves, disinfectant spray and wipes for your vendors and guests to use.
- Allow your caterers (or designated guests) to serve your guests in the buffet line.
- Add more tables and chairs than your guest count calls for to allow your guest to space out more during your events.
- Avoid having any additional props or items that encourage group participation, such as yard games, photo booths or photo props.
- Limit your wedding favors to being passed out by one individual.

Making the Difficult Choices

Should you feel uncertain about moving forward with your wedding, but are concerned with the safety and travel of your guests, consider scaling back your guest count and having a more intimate wedding instead. We are here to help if that is your decision! We will work through this stressful time to ensure your safety and the safety of your guests are high priority while making your day the best it can be! We've come together with vendors to help elevate the stress of pulling together a wedding during this time, and we will work hand-in-hand with them to ensure everything runs smoothly. If you would like assistance in planning an intimate wedding, then contact via email or phone to discuss your plans more in detail.
