Dear Parents and Students,

After today, we have just seven days of school left. While we are all excited to wrap up what has been a very tumultuous fourth quarter, it is not yet time to quit. Finish strong and end well! Stay engaged in the virtual classrooms and keep getting those assignments completed. Let me especially say to our seniors who will be finishing all their courses on Friday, "The finish line is just ahead - we are proud of you! Keep going until you make it all the way across the line."

Let me lay out some of the plans for next week for you as we look to finish up:

1. Finals or final projects ought to be completed by Wednesday. Thursday (6/4/20) is our final day, but we are primarily using it for last minute catch up on anyone who may have missed a day, an assignment, or a test.
2. Drop off of all school materials and Chromebooks, as well as pick up of awards and final packets from the teachers, will take place next Thursday and Friday (6/4-6/5). You may come in anytime on Thursday or Friday between 9:00am - 5:00pm. If there is a reason these two days will not work for you, please contact the office in advance of coming in.
3. We are planning to have a Commencement ceremony for our seniors and their families. While we would love to have everyone be able to come, we have restricted attendees to the immediate families (moms, dads, and siblings) of each senior and those who have a part in the ceremony. The graduation will be live streamed on the CCS Facebook page, and we encourage you to join in and add your encouraging comments to the proceedings.

Thank you for all your support and hard work this past quarter. As many of you have been asking about the fall, I would love to have answers for you, but we are unfortunately at an information standstill until more definitive decisions are made by the state government - most likely around the end of June or early July.

Praying for you all,

Pastor Dan Obinger
