

Declaration for fellow citizens without (good) knowledge of the German language

Dear fellow citizens, this page provides information from the so-called “Querdenken“ movement (in English: “Lateralthinking“). We are part of a large citizens' initiative that is quite concerned about our future. Mass media and government affront us as “deniers of Corona“. What we do deny is the lack of commensurability concerning the Corona measures.

More and more experts worldwide are of the same opinion but the media willingly conceals this.

“What do these „Querdenker“ (Lateralthinkers) actually want?“ An immediate stop of all Corona measures, that we consider to be absolutely exaggerated. This is the very demand that unites every stream of our movement. We have good reasons for that.

Fellow campaigners who behave violently are usually attributed to Querdenken (Lateralthinking) by the media but that happens only to defame us. Violent criminals do not belong to us! We are also not career politicians or full time protesters, but citizens from the midst of society who immolate their free time to oppose a development that we do not believe to be democratically legitimised and therefore deem to be extremely dangerous.

The common attitude “I give up a little bit of my freedom, always do what my government commands and I will get through this crisis safely“ is not our mantra because we don't think that Corona is the actual problem. This is why we are being attacked as „conspiracists“, „Nazis“ and much more. If you want to believe that, we cannot change it.

We are appealing specifically to the skeptics who have already realized that there's „something“ wrong here.

Technically, all Corona measures should be stopped for the simple reason that they are ultimately based on the PCR test which is not approved or appropriate for diagnostic purposes. Shouldn't that give reason to wonder? The mass media fuels the panic by citing rising numbers of cases without context, using terminology without explanation but instead a lot of potential for confusion. At the end of the day, the question that we should ask ourselves is this:

Are there really more deaths in Germany during Corona than before? Are medical practices and hospitals overwhelmed? Are more people actually sick? No, no and no.

And the reason for that were not the government's measures. These measures had not been implemented until the first wave was already subsiding. By the way, shouldn't countries without those measures such as Sweden and certain US states already be on their way to extinction?

Is it therefore justified to damage people economically or mentally?

Please look up the numbers at the Federal Statistical Office in Wiesbaden that you can easily find on the internet. Apparently, Corona cannot be as dangerous as the mass media would like us to believe and it is only one of so many common risks of life that people have to live with and always have. Why should we focus on that one risk among so many and create a never ending wave of measures? Are we conspiracists for asking these questions?

Well, if it is not about a medical problem, who or what is behind it?

It is not our goal to find out. For us, it is sufficient to recognize: Corona is not what we are supposed to believe it is. Therefore, we need to stop all Corona measures. Immediately. This is our right – and maybe even our duty.
