We can't wait to see our little ones arrive – tiny hands waving goodbye, brave smiles on their faces, backpacks almost as big as they are.

Embrace the moment while holding your heart as you watch them walk in, growing just a little more independent each day.

They have grown – and every single day, you prove to be their very first and most important teacher.

When you place your little one in our arms, take comfort knowing that the Hedgerows team has you, your child, and their very best interests at heart. We walk this journey with you, step by step, hand in hand.

This year will be filled with a thousand new learnings – but with every new word, every new skill, and every tiny discovery, little blossoms of self-confidence will begin to grow. So take a moment.

SO – Look deep into those bright, shiny eyes... and watch with us as your child grows, explores, and blossoms into who they are meant to be.

Feel free to check in on how the day is going via WhatsApp.
