Dear Friends,

It is my pleasure to extend heartfelt congratulations to this year's honorees, Assemblyman Steve Stern, Dr. Scott Muller, and Kathryn Costa, who are being recognized at the Huntington Youth Bureau Institute's Farewell to Summer fundraiser. Their leadership, dedication, and commitment to service have made a lasting impact on our community, and they are most deserving of this honor.

Events like this make it possible for the Huntington Youth Bureau Institute to continue its important mission of promoting the growth, development, and well-being of our youth. By delivering programs and services that respond to the needs of young people, their families, and the community at large, the Institute builds a strong foundation for success and strengthens the future of Huntington.

I would also like to thank Janine Salgado, Executive Director of the Huntington Youth Bureau and her team, for their leadership and dedication to ensuring the success of these programs and for the positive impact she has on so many lives.

On behalf of the Town of Huntington, I thank the organizers, sponsors, and supporters whose generosity makes this work possible. Together, we are building a community where every young person has the opportunity to thrive.

With best wishes for a wonderful evening,

Ed Smyth

Message from the Executive Director:

Janine Salgado, LCSW-R

The Huntington Youth Bureau Youth Development Research Institute, Inc. (aka the Institute) is proud of the work that has enriched the lives of youth in Huntington for 47 years. The Institute was established in 1979 with the mandate to assist in the development of a coordinated system of programs and services that would enhance the quality of life and promote the growth and well-being of youth and their families in the Town of Huntington.

The Institute is an integral part of the Town of Huntington Youth Bureau's system of comprehensive services, focused on the commitment of helping youth and families develop to their highest potential by practicing youth development which empowers youth to engage in all aspects of programming design to ensure that programs meet their current and emerging needs. As the separate not-for-profit arm of the Town of Huntington Youth Bureau, the Institute is comprised of five specialized Town-wide Projects, serving all 8 public school districts, as well as private and parochial schools.

These programs are designed to address the many experiences that emerge during the adolescent years, and include: Huntington Sanctuary - strengthening families to stay together and helping runaway kids stay safe; Project Excel - an employment, education and creative arts program; Huntington Drug and Alcohol Counseling Center - providing substance abuse education, prevention and treatment for youth and adults; Huntington Youth Court - follows the principles of restorative justice and guides youth through positive peer influence, strengthening of self-esteem, instilling motivation for self-improvement, and enhancement of a sense of community.

Project C.A.S.T. (Communities and Schools Together) - a violence prevention program in partnership with Tri Community and Youth Agency, provides advocacy, case management and family strengthening programming to at-risk youth in grades 5-9 and their families.

Through the decades, staff have provided guidance, nurturance, support and opportunity to an adolescent population. None of this work would be possible if not for the support of the Town Supervisor Ed Smyth and the Town Board who continuously value youth and the role they play in our community. Their support allows the Institute to serve youth in a very customizable way. There is a belief that youth can successfully navigate life's journey through adolescence when service is delivered with respect and engagement. Youth are given a voice in their program design and recognized for their strengths.

We stand committed to the well-being of youth through the establishment of positive influences through program design, mentorship and a foundational belief that youth matter. Much of our work cannot be done alone. The shared passion for working with youth is evident in our three honorees. Volunteers serve as the community connection whether by serving as a board member on the Youth Board, giving of time to serve youth, advocating for the destigmatizing of substance abuse addiction, or connecting with community resources to teach youth the importance of accountability. Thank you to all the staff and volunteers for their involvement among youth.

NYS Assemblyman

Steve Stern

Steve Stern is proud to have been re-elected to serve his fourth term as the New York State Assemblyman representing the 10th Assembly District and named Chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Committee of the New York State Assembly. Steve was elected to the Assembly in a special election in April, 2018, and hit the ground running, passing an impressive 6 bills in his first 6 weeks, including laws to safeguard our precious groundwater, services for veterans and measures to protect children's health. Steve has also secured unprecedented funding for our local schools and for law enforcement in the fight against the deadly opioid epidemic and gang violence.

Assemblyman Stern has worked closely throughout his career with the brave men and women who serve our great nation. Steve has sponsored and passed legislation to improve access to critical veteran benefits they deserve, and to improve veterans' employment opportunities. He has also passed legislation to protect veteran homebuyers from fraud through loan counseling and assistance, and to expand opportunity for Service-Disabled Veteran Owned Business Enterprises.

Steve has supported meaningful incentives for innovative housing options to keep our seniors in the communities they love, and to support our young adults who strive for home ownership on Long Island. He secured a property tax rebate credit for STAR and Enhanced STAR and led the successful effort to protect homeowners and ensure prompt resolution of insurance claims after natural disasters to provide peace of mind and to return residents home.

With our Long Island environment facing unprecedented threats, Steve is working to protect the air we breathe, the water we drink and our environment from the dangers of a rapidly changing climate. Assemblyman Stern has co-sponsored and passed initiatives to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and incentivize renewable and sustainable energy; prohibit offshore drilling in our Long Island coastal waters; ban products that contain 1,4 dioxane that contaminate our drinking water; and prohibited the disposal of toxic spoils into New York's Marine District.

Steve secured vital funding for clean water infrastructure to protect our water quality and brought home $22 million to complete Huntington Station sewer infrastructure to support downtown revitalization and protect our precious sole-source aquifer.

Assemblyman Stern also believes that reducing gun violence and protecting public safety is one of the great moral issues of our time. He is the proud co-sponsor of New York's "Red Flag Law" which helps keep guns out of the hands of those who should not have them and allows immediate intervention when individuals demonstrate dangerous or violent behavior that poses a risk to public safety. His commitment to youth in Huntington includes the strong support of funding for CAST (Community and Schools Together) and new vans for Youth Bureau services.

Assemblyman Stern previously served six terms as Suffolk County Legislator representing the 16th District. In addition to representing our community with distinction and a commitment to providing outstanding constituent services, Steve has also authored several legislative initiatives that have been the first in New York State and even in the nation.

Steve strongly believes that when a soldier goes off to protect the ground we stand on, it is unacceptable that he or she should have to come home to sleep on it. He introduced and passed the "Housing Our Homeless Heroes Act", an important legislative initiative to end veteran homelessness and ensure that our veterans and their families always have a place to call home. Steve also authored the "Protect Our Fallen Heroes Act," which protects military funerals from reprehensible and disrespectful protests while families are grieving the loss of their loved ones to ensure respect for those who made the ultimate sacrifice for our great nation.

Steve created New York State's first Silver Alert system, which – like an Amber Alert – assists in the safe return of our loved ones with Alzheimer's Disease and other cognitive disorders. It has since been expanded by the Suffolk County Police Department to include those with special needs, such as autism, developmental disabilities and severe mental illness.

Assemblyman Stern graduated from Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana and received his law degree from Western Michigan University TMC Law School, graduating cum laude. He is a Certified Elder Law Attorney (CELA) through the National Elder Law Foundation and is admitted to practice law in New York and Florida. He was also elected a Fellow of The New York Bar Foundation. In addition, Steve has served as an adjunct professor of law at Touro School of Law, is a past trustee of the Long Island Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society and a past vice president of the Suffolk Y JCC. He has been featured in Newsday, The New York Times and Long Island Business News. Steve is also proud to have been chosen as Man of the Year in Government by the Times of Huntington.

Honoree

Kathryn Costa

Born and raised in Huntington, New York, Kathryn Costa earned her Bachelor's degree in Social Work from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in 1980. She began her career as a youth worker with the Half Hollow Hills Youth Development Association before becoming the Director of the Islip-East Islip Youth Development Corporation. In 1986, she received her Master's degree in Social Work from Adelphi University.

Following her graduate studies, Ms. Costa joined the Huntington Union Free School District (HUFSD) as a Youth Counselor and Social Worker, launching her career in the district. Ms. Costa views her career in two distinct phases. The first was dedicated to drug and alcohol education. During this time, she provided K-8 instruction, developed curricula and educational materials, supervised therapists, established Safe Homes initiatives, and coordinated more than 40 parent forums alongside the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Act Committee.

As student needs evolved, she transitioned her focus to address rising rates of anxiety, depression, suicidal ideation, and school avoidance. Today, she works closely with students facing learning differences, attentional challenges, and emotional disabilities. A proud recipient of HUFSD's SEPTA Award, she remains deeply committed to helping students and their families navigate complex challenges and restore their well-being.

Ms. Costa has dedicated the past four decades of her career to the J. Taylor Finley Middle School community, which has remained her home base even while serving across multiple buildings in the district. She deeply values the daily collaboration with Finley colleagues who share her commitment to supporting all aspects of student mental health. In recent years, she has taken great pride in mentoring new social workers and contributing to initiatives like Finley's student/teacher mentoring program, restorative circles, and restorative justice practices.

Over the course of her career, he has served on the Huntington Youth Bureau's Sanctuary Board and has worked closely with nearly every program the Youth Bureau offers, reflecting a longstanding partnership grounded in a mutual dedication to supporting youth and families in the community.

Kathryn and her husband, Peter, have been married for 40 years and have two children: Laura, a senior editor for an advertising agency specializing in healthcare, and Daniel, the head of sales for a financial consulting company focused on systematic investing.

Honoree

Dr. Scott Muller

Dr. Muller has been Assistant Principal at Walt Whitman High School for 20 years. For him, that role is all about connecting; how he's interacting with the many different components that keep a school running successfully: the principal, the staff, the students, the families, and the community. "The main goal is to support the vision of the principal, but also to make sure you're connecting with kids and families," explained Dr. Muller. "You need leadership and you need management in a school. And a lot of the management usually falls on the assistant principal and the leadership falls on the principal. But there are many times that if you have the right principal who allows you to shine with your leadership, and if you have the right person as assistant principal, then you can bring out that leadership aspect as well."

That collaboration has been an asset for Walt Whitman High School. Dr. John Murphy, principal of Walt Whitman High School, has worked closely with Dr. Muller for over 10 years. "Dr. Muller's compassion and empathy towards all students, and in particular, our special education population and our ENL students, is a huge part of our success. Even though we have a diverse school, he makes sure that every one of those students feel important, valued and reach their fullest potential. And he gives the support to teachers to make sure that happens. He's always available no matter what the time of day and he's always willing to make sure that our building and our community are put first."

As seriously as he takes his job to make a difference in students' lives, Dr. Muller is always willing to poke fun at himself, and his students love it. "That's just as important as the academics," said Dr. Muller. "Those connections make the kids feel valued and safe. Because when you feel valued, you feel connected. If they can trust me and I can trust them and we can develop that relationship, then we're golden."

Dr. Muller received his Bachelor of Science in Biology from Binghamton University, his Masters of Science in Elementary Education from Dowling College, his Post-Master's Certification in School District Administration from SUNY Stony Brook, and his Doctorate of Education in Educational Administration and Supervision from St. John's University. He was selected as the 2025 New York State Assistant Principal of the Year by the School Administrators Association of New York State (SAANYYS). When speaking about his community, he stated, "I want to praise South Huntington. I love the communication between the school and the community, and that we're always looking for ways to improve. We're creating the future. I love that we never think we're done." He wants to thank the Huntington Youth Bureau for this honor but more importantly for helping develop the future and investing in the youth of this beautiful and supportive town. The South Huntington School Community, and the greater Huntington Community, are able to help students and families through programs such as Youth Court and Huntington Drug and Alcohol Counseling, and the relationship that has developed between the school district and the Town of Huntington has fostered trust and made a great impact on students.
