ABOUT AMY SHANNON

Amy Shannon is an American Storyteller, living in upstate New York, where she grew up. She shares the stories in her head by putting them on paper (virtual or real), and most of her stories focus on the strength of women. Amy is Professional Book Reviewer, and her site Amy's Bookshelf Reviews is very popular among Indie Authors.

In 2004, Amy was a cancer survivor. In 2005, she survived a domestic violence assault, which resulted in her spouse going to prison, and lifelong migraine headaches.

Amy has four sons, who are very supportive of their family, and her passions. Amy went back to school in 2011, and since then has received her bachelor's in English, master's in Adult Education, and master's in business administration.

Amy has written over 140 novels, short stories, poetry, and nonfiction books. In 2024, she published her first nonfiction historical book, Balls-Town: A Community of History, Friends, Neighbors, and Lingerin Spirits. She believes in preserving history, especially local history, and sharing stories of those who may not have been famous, but their lives were just as important.

Amy Shannon suffers from chronic daily migraines from her domestic violence assault. In the past two years, she had developed neurological movement disorders that include tremors that affect her hands and torso, leg spasms and muscle jerks, which affect her gait, sleep, and ability to be steady on her feet. She was recently diagnosed with Rheumatoid Arthritis, which provides her joints with constant pain. She still does work for authors, such as writing reviews, and creating promotions, as well as Literary Consultant Services.

Amy also is an advocate for disabled persons, especially the mobility impaired, and has her own YouTube Playlist Series for this issue.

EXPOSED: MOBILITY IMPAIRED DENIED

About:

Amy Shannon started a video series that shows the way and the wrong way, to be mobility impaired accessible. Just because the regulations are vague, people should know what it is like to be mobility impaired, and how to use aids, so the disabled can maintain at least some of their independence.

Primary Mission:

Abolish the Architectural Barriers Act (ABA) of 1968

Amend the American Disabilities Act (ADA) of 2010 to include Federal facilities and buildings have the same regulations for EASILY accessible entrances and exits. Amend ALL public access buildings have mandated automatic doors, or a button that can be pushed to make them automatic (light weight doors cannot accommodate everyone).

Amy Shannon's workbook for writers!

Depths of Characters:

A writer's resource & workbook for character building

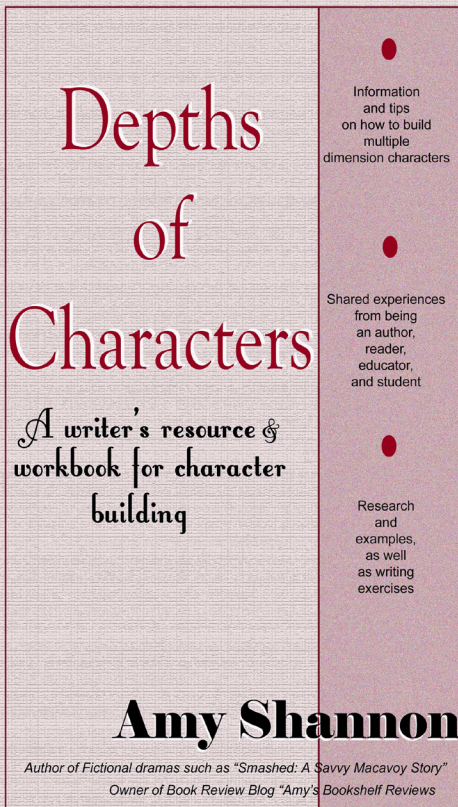

Amy Shannon is an author, Book Reviewer (Amy's Bookshelf Reviews) and host of the Amy's Bookshelf Reviews Podcast.

Amy has written over 140 novels, poetry, short stories, and two nonfiction books. This being the first nonfiction workbook, and her second nonfiction book was published in March of 2024, called Balls-Town: A Community of History, Friends, Neighbors, and Lingering Spirits

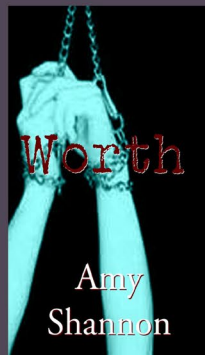

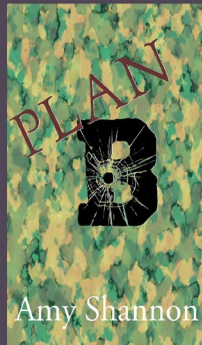

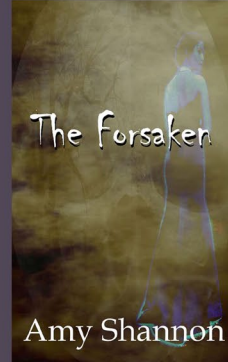

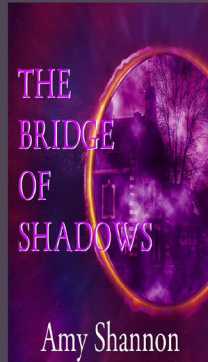

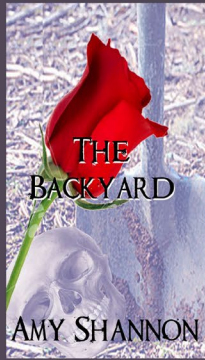

Most of her stories are fictional dramas featuring strong, female characters, though a few of her stories have a male protagonist and main character.

Depths of Characters is meant to be a writer's workbook for character development. Inside, this book provides tips, shares experiences, and gives examples that fit the character categories. Categories include, but are not limited to character names, building character profiles, protagonists and antagonist.

"Don't just write what you know, write what you want to know," -Amy Shannon

Amy Shannon Presents Fettering Shadows

In the quiet town in Oklahoma, former Texas Ranger Jake Dalton faces his darkest fears as a new case brings the deadly past to his doorstep

Private Investigator Jake Dalton, once a respected Texas Ranger, now enjoys the quiet life in a small Oklahoma town, meticulously crafting a new existence far from the chaos of his past. Even when his former partner reaches out for help with a series of unsolved serial murders, Jake is more interested in his present routine than revisiting old shadows.

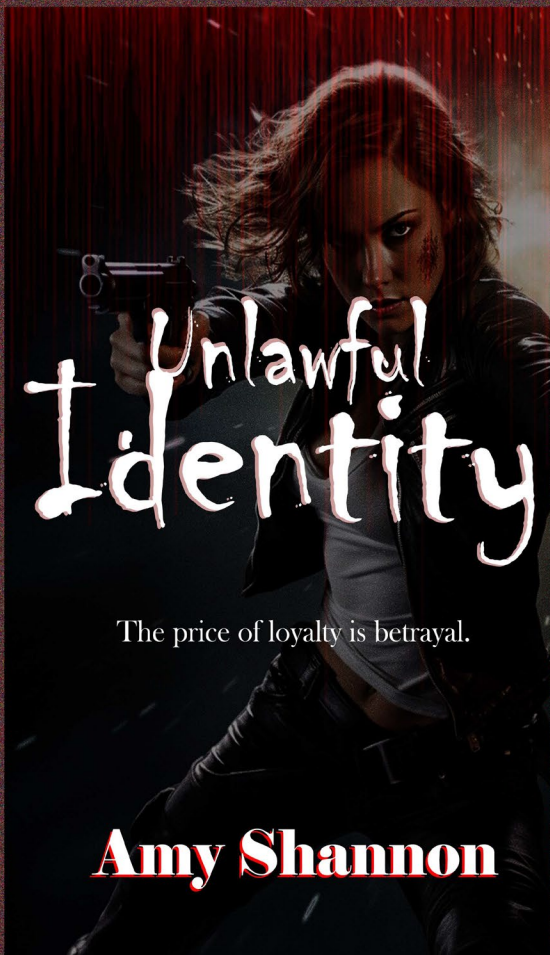

Everything changes when Dr. Agatha "Aggie" Constantine walks through his office door. Hiring Jake to track down her stalker, Aggie believes that this very stalker might also be the elusive serial killer known only as Icarus.

Amy Shannon
Presents

Unlawful Identity

Loyalty comes with a price. Betrayal.

NYPD Detective Samantha "Sam" Lange, haunted by the sudden death of her brother, finds herself irresistibly drawn to the enigmatic FBI Agent Parker Carlisle. Carlisle presents her with a stark choice: to ensure her family's safety, she must abandon her former life and work for him as a hitwoman.

Amy Shannon's

Fractured Tears:

A Struggle for Justice

Anna's second chance ignited a fierce fight for her life and the pursuit of justice.

Anna Coleman extended a final opportunity to her husband, hoping to mend their fractured marriage. Instead, Ted seized that chance to attempt to kill her. Refusing to be defeated or broken,

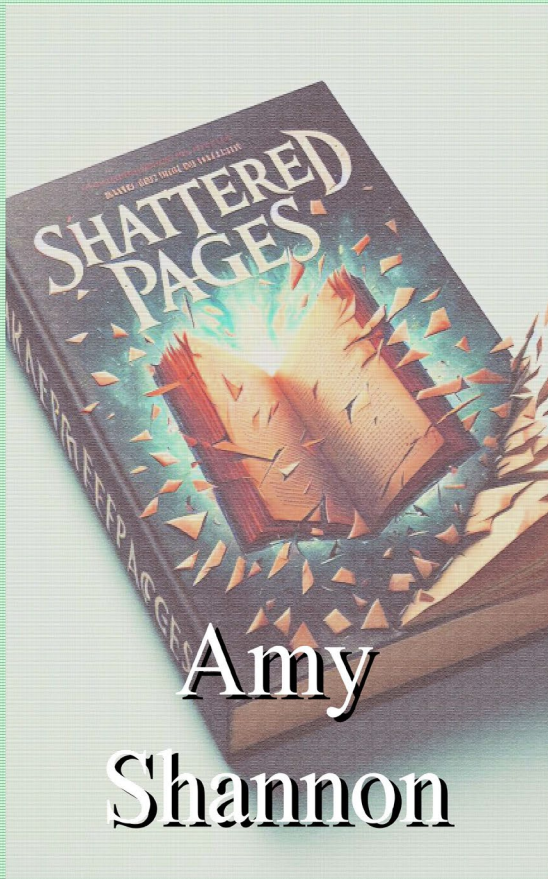

Discover how Anna navigates her struggle for justice and confronts the personal demons born from years of betrayal and abuse at the hands of her husband of 13 years.

Anna's Story is a fictionalized account of the author's real-life experiences.

Amy Shannon's Shattered Pages

When fiction becomes reality, the line between author and suspect blurs.

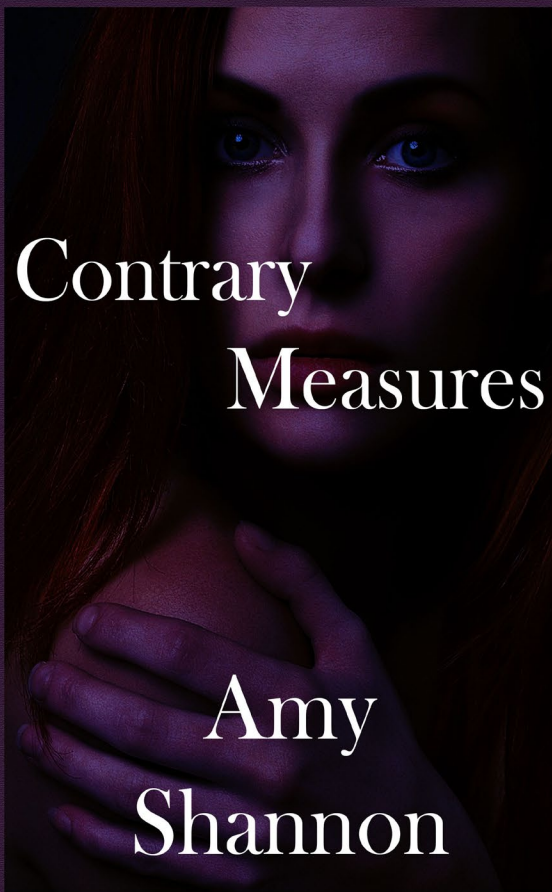

Best-selling mystery author Tristan Wyatt, as known by his pen name, is really Lincoln McLaren. He is deep into writing the third volume of his series. As he trains his new assistant and navigates life beyond his novels, his neighbors view him as the eccentric recluse in the large, imposing house — just the way Link likes it. His house assistant, Sally, does her best to keep him focused. Past losses have only added to his quirks, including his preference for minimal clothing.

Suddenly, Link becomes entangled in a series of murders in his small town of Bridgeport. These crimes eerily mirror the plots of his books, including the one he's currently writing.

Amy Shannon's Contrary Measures

Rayna's quest for truth and trust leads her through a maze of secrets that could either shatter or save her.

Rayna's world fell apart in a single, devastating moment, pushing her to the brink of loneliness. Determined to rebuild her life, she embarks on a journey to find something anything—that will bring meaning and improvement. Her emotions and memories clash and contradict, leaving her questioning the past and uncertain about the future.
