Ellison Gibbs is a self-taught painter who is based in Bushwick, Brooklyn. His work has previously shown at 57 W. 57th Arts in NYC, and NADA Miami. He was recently written about in the publication Cult Classic Mag, and his most recent solo show at EUROPA Gallery You Cry A Lot When You're Alone, Don't You? ran from June 7 - June 9, 2023. Gibbs was a November 2023 artist-in-resident at the Fountainhead in Miami, FL.

This body of work expands on Gibbs' ongoing investigation into the theme of man versus nature. Gibbs' works with an interest in how the naked vulnerability of human nature interacts with the agitation of our natural environment. There is an unspoken interconnectedness which exists between our bodies and the earth. Gibbs' work ruminates on how unexpected changes in our natural surroundings can affect humanity.
