ABOUT

Shannon was born and raised in Huntington Beach, CA and moved to the Eastern Sierra after college. She was introduced to aviation by her father, flying around the greater Los Angeles area and up and down the Owens Valley in his 1973 Grumman Traveler. Many years later, after her father's passing, Shannon decided she wanted to pursue aviation as a career.

In 2021, Shannon packed up her family and enrolled herself at ATP Flight School in Long Beach, California where she completed her flight training and ratings in one of the world's busiest airspaces. Shannon and her children have since returned home to the Sierra and she is now excited to share her love of flying with the Eastern Sierra community.

If she's not at the airport, you can catch her out trail running, climbing mountains, mining for crystals, or chasing some other obscure adventure in her favorite place on Earth.
