

Justin Ross

UIM and Wings of the Way

Justin grew up in Southern California. He started flight lessons at age 18, shortly after graduating from High School. From an early age, his desire was to serve the Lord in full-time ministry. Justin decided to combine his love for aviation and ministry by attending Moody Bible Institute's Missionary Aviation program in Spokane, Washington.

After graduating in May, 2014, he and his college sweetheart, Callene, were married. The couple serves with two U.S. based aviation ministries: UIM Aviation and Wings of the Way. Justin and Callene combine their passion for ministry by using the airplane as a tool to reach those in need. Their ministry goals include using the airplane to provide transportation for human trafficking victims, after they have been rescued, as well as for pastors and missionaries seeking to establish churches and minister to isolated communities in the Four Corners region of the United States.

Justin and Callene have been privileged to see the Lord at work in numerous capacities in 6 countries on 3 continents. Justin is also a Certified Flight Instructor and Airframe and Power plant (A&P) Mechanic.
