

Who is Highland Copper?

1) A foreign company with zero on-paper mining experience which already has a history of violating permits and degrading wetlands

 Mining company responsible for muddy mess in Porcupine Mountains fined $25K <small>Published: Jan. 16, 2018, 3:23 p.m.</small>	According to Steve Casey, U.P. district coordinator for the DEQ's Water Resources Division in Marquette, the mining company's big mistake came when it continued to test drilling operations during spring snowmelt, in and around wetlands, without first obtaining the necessary wetlands or soil erosion and sediment control permits.

2) If Copperwood is such a great investment, why has Highland Copper had four CEOs in less than a decade?

And why did their last CEO step down just a few months ago with no explanation?

HIGHLAND COPPER ANNOUNCES LEADERSHIP CHANGE

Highland Board Chair Steve Hicks thanked Miville-Deschênes for his contributions to the company. A release from the company did not say why Miville-Deschênes is departing.

3) And if Copperwood is such a slamdunk, after ten years, where are all the investors?

Should Michigan be bailing out a failing foreign company which will board up shop in eleven years and leave behind 30+ million tons of waste in their wake?
