November/December 2023 eFlash!

We're excited to announce our auction of learning opportunities. We have learning providers who have offered courses of a wide variety all beginning in January 2024. The monies raised will financially support new Canadians who are learning to participate in the Canadian voting process youth who are learning to plan and track their learning and financially needy learners of all ages and stages in their learning journey. Please join and have fun bidding on something great to learn for your self or perhaps to give to someone else. Here's where you can register for the auction, find out the other details and begin bidding on December 5. <https://www.32auctions.com/CLT2023>

The Board of Directors is pleased to welcome 3 new Directors. Wassim Ismail, Anita Huang Teshima, Lee Royko. They bring a wealth of business experience and education to add to what we already have on the Board. And the very best thing is that they all declare their passion for lifelong learning!

The Board of Directors is completing an organizational strategic plan for the Canadian Learning Trust. If you have suggestions about the top trends that will affect learning in your area of Canada, we'd love to hear. Email us at info@learningtrust.org with your ideas.

As we go into a busy season for everyone, either getting ready for holiday activities or preparing to end 2023 and begin a new calendar year, please take time to remember those who need your practical care, a kind word, some cash.

If you have extra, please share with those in need. The Canadian Learning Trust issues a charitable receipt for any donation over $25.

From all of us at CLT, Happy Holidays and all the best of the season. We wish you a prosperous 2024 filled with exciting learning!
