Mayor of the Brodhead Airport, Jeanne Scholes, riding with Luke Lachendro.

By Jane Thibodeau Martin Reprinted with permission.

Mike and I camped in little Brodhead recently. The main purpose of the trip was to visit family in the area and attend "Cheese Days" in Monroe, but I was very intent on visiting a museum I've been intrigued by as

The museum is located on the grounds of the Brodhead airport. This is a privately-owned and maintained airport; it receives no government funding. Supporters mow and maintain the three turf landing strips and perform all required maintenance. The commitment among the people at the little airport to this special place is palpable; there is pride and ownership and it shows. There is a very active chapter of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA Chapter 431) at the airport, and Kelch Aviation Museum shares the field as well. There are close connections and synergy between the EAA group; the group at the museum; and the owners of the many private planes hangered

Cards Will Refocus After Loss

By Teresa Earleywine

It was a long ride home Friday night after Brodhead-Juda was handed their first loss of the season. As the Cardinals received the opening kickoff it looked as though the team was off to the races as Aidyn Vondra took the ball to the house with an 80+ yard run back. Gabe Bockhop was good for the pointafter-kick. Just 17 seconds into the game and Brodhead was up 7-0. As Adams Friendship moved the ball down the field, they were in the redzone when on a pass, Vondra is there to intercept. The Cardinals are third and 10 yards when Bockhop attempts a pass that is intercepted by the Green Devils. They are able to advance all the way to the fiveyard line when they fumble and B-J recovers. As the Cards take over on offense the Adams Friendship defense stiffens and able to get a stop. Early in the second quarter the Green Devils get their first touchdown, PAK is no good, Brodhead has a one-point lead. AF has decided any kickoffs will be a squib style kick as they recognize the potential power in Brodhead's special teams.

As the Cardinals move the ball, they find themselves third and long, a 15-yard penalty against the Green Devils puts B-J well into their opponents territory. Marcus McIntyre was able to get it to the six-yard line then Blake Matthys gets into the endzone. Brodhead leads 13-6. AF receives the ball and Isaac Saunders with a diving catch intercepts the ball but the Cardinals are unable to capitalize on their possession. The Green Devils are able to advance and will get a score to tie the game at 13 all. In the second half AF will get another score to take the lead 19-13. B-J's possession falls short of obtaining a first down. Now the Devils are on offense, Vondra again intercepts the ball and there is new life in the Cardinals but on a bad handoff BJ fumbles and AF recovers and will score again making it a 25-13 score and that will be the final.

AF gains passing yards—115, rushing—216 and receiving—265 yards. Brodhead-Juda had not submitted stats by press time.

On the road Friday the team will take on Prairie du Chien who remain undefeated.

Mayor of Brodhead Airport

The museum features the private aircraft collection of Alfred and Lois Kelch of Mequon, who donated their planes to a trust. Keeping their collection of ten antique planes intact was important to them, and the public is the richer for this generous gesture. I can't even begin to guess at the value of this collection but I am sure it is substantial. That resulted in the formation of a non-profit that operates the museum. It is supported entirely by donations and the efforts of the dedicated group of people who love the history represented by these old planes. All of the planes are from the 1920-1930's, and are in beautifully restored condition. Among them is a stagger wing, an iconic plane and since only 785 of them were built, a rather rare bird.

Looking at the 100-year old planes you can't help but be amazed at these direct ancestors to the airplanes of today. The friendly docent on duty, Michael John spent some time chatting with us and then asked if we'd like to meet the "mayor of the airport." I was immediately intrigued, and we proceeded out onto the hanger apron. Here is one of the wonderful things about this little airport. We came as casual museum visitors and soon were walking, without fences, security or barriers, onto the field. We were led toward a white car, parked on the grass under a tree, next to an incongruous parking meter standing in the turf.

Jeanne Scholes is 93 years old. She was the very first woman to fly a plane at the Brodhead airport, when she was just 15. Jeanne is provided with this private "parking meter" and title as mayor as a nod to her near-daily presence at the airport. It seems everyone there knows and respects her; and it doesn't hurt that she is charming and interesting too. Mike and I visited with her for a half hour, and meeting her was one of those serendipitous things that make visiting a new place fun. She said, more than once, "I don't want to bore you," but nothing about her was boring.

First of all, you have to admire any 15-year old girl who found a way to fly in the early years of flight. There were few women brave enough, and lucky enough, to make the necessary contacts. She wanted to join the WASPS, the Women Airforce Service Pilots, who became trained pilots who tested and ferried military aircraft in the U.S. during World War II. Unfortunately, she wasn't old enough to join.

Later, she enrolled in "ground school," part of the process to get a private pilot's license and there met the man who became her husband. They eventually started a family, and she put her flying on hold while her husband became a commercial pilot. But her passion for aviation never died, and she said "we talked aviation every single day of our married lives."

During her hiatus from flying, she became a bit bored and since she'd always been interested in skating, at age 39 she began taking lessons and competing in ice dancing. With her husband busy flying she lacked a full-time partner which made it hard to be competitive, so she began to take the training the U.S. Figure Skating organization offers for judges and was a judge at sanctioned competitions for 27 years. This passion for skating, though, never kept her from stopping on the way to get the mail, looking skyward because she was mesmerized by a plane overhead.

Later she did begin flying again, and her most recent flight was this year. She said it took a "few of my friends" to get her up into the cockpit, but she absolutely loved every minute of her flight. And nearly every day, she drives alone to the airport, parks in her spot with an excellent view of the action, and enjoys the aviation activities under the watchful eyes of her friends. You know something is a passion when just being present to watch is fulfilling and fun. And hers is a passion that has lasted nearly 80 years.

A private company called Gypsy Air tours also operates a 1930 yellow Waco taper wing, a stunning old biplane at this airport, and for a fee, you can take a ride over the lovely area. My 85 year old uncle went on a flight over his home town of Monroe last year and greatly enjoyed it.

The museum has three beautiful antique cars amongst the taildraggers in the hangers; there are also interesting exhibits of artifacts and pictures of aviation history, many specific to Wisconsin. We spent about an hour and a half there; we barely got started and we will be back.

The museum does not charge for admission, but of course greatly needs donations to fund the planes, buildings and maintenance. The museum is usually open Wednesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., but hours may vary by season so check ahead before planning your visit. You can reach them at 608-897-1175.

People who are passionate about anything are fascinating. This place utterly charmed me. I didn't tell the "mayor" that the evening before our visit to the museum, we had been parked in the airport lot with binoculars, looking up registration numbers and watching a gorgeous maroon Waco taxi. I love it so much I wish I lived closer, as I would ask if I could sit in the mayor's passenger seat sometime, and watch with her for a few hours.

Green County Youth Celebrate National 4-H Week

October 2-8 is National 4-HWeek and Green County is celebrating all the great opportunities that 4-H offers young people to learn, grow, and lead. "4-H empowers youth for success. 4-H is an experience you do not want to pass up. 4-H is a way of life," says Deb Myers, Organizational Leader for Next Generation 4-H Club.

As part of the National 4-H Week festivities, Green County 4-H families will be showing their 4-H pride on Wednesday, October 5th by wearing a 4-H t-shirt or a green shirt to school or work. 4-H clubs will also be putting up window displays in local communities throughout the county, showcasing the many opportunities 4-H offers.

Rachel Leonhard, a parent from the Jolly Mixers 4-H Club, says, "What I value most about 4-H is the pride and responsibility it teaches the kids. The responsibility it teaches the kids from their individual projects, the leadership within their club, or the responsibility to help the community. I love the pride it brings out in the kids when they accomplish and excel in any of those gram of the University of Wisconsin-Madison Division of Extension, engaging more than 500 4-H members and 160 adult volunteers.

4-H is a place to be seen, belong and be your best self. No matter your interests or background, 4-H has a place for you! The Juda Jolly Juniors 4-H Club members tell us what they love most about 4-H is "having fund at 4-H meetings" (Phoenix Homan), "the lessons you learn" (Jerzie Lerch), and "the friends you make" (John Bartels).

In 4-H, youth can also find what sparks their passion and gives them energy. For some youth, in this includes showcasing what they learned at the County Fair. Decatur 4-H Club member, Max Wenzel, says, "My favorite part of 4-H is the fair because I get to spend quality time with my animals while they are there and at home before the fair. I learned a lot about pigs this year."

Learn how you can grow with 4-H, as a youth member or adult leader, by going to www.greencounty4h.info or by contacting Ellen Andrews, 4-H Youth Development Educator, at Extension Green County at 608-328-9440 or ellen.andrews@ wisc.edu.

Green County 4-H Recognizes Members & Leaders

During National 4-H week and beyond, they celebrate their amazing members and dedicated volunteers. Green County 4-H would not be possible without the support and involvement of youth leaders, adult volunteers, and supporters who work tirelessly to create a place for all youth to belong and succeed.

This year, 4-H gave out several awards to individuals, groups, or companies for their outstanding support of the Green County 4-H Program. The Friend of 4-H Award was presented to Thrivent, the 4-H Volunteer of the Year Award was presented to Josh Montgomery of Monroe, and the 4-H Lifetime Volunteer Award was presented to Peter Bernstein of Brodhead and Pat Sleiter of Monroe.

Join us in also celebrating the accomplishments of our young people. The 4-H Key Award is the highest award a 4-H member can receive in Wisconsin 4-H. It is awarded to youth who have shown consistent growth in their 4-H program, developed leadership ability, and been helpful to other members in their club and community. Sponsors of the Wisconsin 4-H Key Award program include the Wisconsin Farm Bureau. The Key Award recipients this year were Rhylie Gough (Jolly Mixers), Caden Maire (Jolly Mixers), Katie Nusbaum (Next Generation), and Marissa Vosberg (Young Americans).

The Green County 4-H program feels fortunate to be in the position to support the ongoing learning and growth of our members, as they proceed into post-secondary education. The 4-H Adult Leaders Scholarship ($250 each) recognizes youth's engagement and achievements in the 4-H program.
