During the course of the week at Heads Up! Hartford, the teens engage in a great deal of small group discussion that often results in significant self-reflection. If your child has been involved in psychological treatment or has been struggling with serious emotional issues that may make them more vulnerable, we suggest that you contact us for a confidential discussion with our psychologist to determine if this is the opportune time for them to come to camp.

Please circle if you would like to be contacted by a clinician to discuss your child's participation.

Yes No

Is there anything you would like to share with your child's counselors to help us better understand your child?
