

BAND BIOGRAPHIES

THE NANCY ATLAS PROJECT

Nancy Atlas and her band of journey-men (Johnny Blood, Brett King, Neal Surreal and Richard Rosch) have been dominating the East End Music scene on Long Island for quite some time. Known for her raw, live performances and stellar songwriting, Nancy and her band, The Nancy Atlas Project, are celebrating 22 years together during which time they have opened for almost everyone under the sun. To name a few: Elvis Costello, Lucinda Williams, Toots and the Maytals, Jimmy Buffett, Crosby, Stills and Nash. The reason is simple. When people want a solid act to open their show and get the crowd warmed up, they call Nancy and her boys because they know they will deliver.

Nancy grew up in Commack, NY with gypsy blood in her veins. Eager to get the buck out of dodge she spent her college years abroad at both Cambridge University in England and Richmond College in London and Florence. She majored in art history, fine art, drinking lots of wine and talking shit. There was a serious recession going on the year she graduated college so instead of becoming a mad advertising executive she walked down to Portabello Road, London, bought a guitar for 60 quid and never looked back. It was pouring buckets of English rain that day so they gave her a black plastic bag to cover her guitar, as it didn't come with a case. Nothing, it is said, can stop true desire.

right hand while sipping her beloved PG Tibs English Tea and smiling out into the East End Mist.

DAN BAILEY TRIBE

A native of New York's infamous Hamptons, Bailey's South African roots and his command of the West African djembe channel a vibration of celebration. As a boy, he taught himself guitar and received the gift of rhythm from his godfather Babatunde Olatunji, world-renowned Master Drummer and cultural ambassador. Bailey studied Olatunji's unique method of teaching West African djembe and by the age of 13, was hosting his own drumming workshops and performing for African dance classes.

BODEGA TALL BOYS

A gang of barnstormers from New York City and Brooklyn, The Tallboys sound is the timeless kind, born of lost highways and deep woods. Collectors of roughhewn country and soul tunes, rambling ballads, original barnyard stompers, and classics turned on their heads, this five-piece heart-on-its-sleeve outfit of guitars, mandolin, banjo, dobro and percussion, plays musical chairs every time they take the stage. They swap instruments, trade off vocals, and always deliver a high-octane performance and their infectious brand of urban Americana.

THE BUZZARDS

Besides inciting riotous mayhem and general debauchery, The Buzzards have performed at every rockabilly hot spot, including the Rodeo Bar in Manhattan and the Blue Comet just outside of Philly. BAND BIOGRAPHIES

GENE CASEY & THE LONE SHARKS

Gene Casey formed the Lone Sharks after moving to Long Island's East End in 1988, having received his baptism performing in the NYC / NJ area (Mudd Club, CBGBs, Maxwell's, et. al) the waning days of punk/new wave. The Lone Sharks became a mainstay in the late 1990s Hamptons music scene, when bars were plentiful and audiences robust and loyal. Throughout the 90s and into the new century Gene and the evolving line-up of Sharks men were the house band at The Wild Rose Cafe, a Bridgehampton night spot where packed houses danced to the roots rock and swing. Gene's original music emerged periodically to great acclaim and local and international indie radio play. Several of Gene's roots-drenched songs have been used on the soundtracks to television and feature films, including "Justified" and "Sons of Anarchy"; the 2012 thriller "The Tall Man" starring Jessica Biel, the 2013 release "The Killing Season" starring Robert DeNiro, and Rob Reiner's acclaimed "Being Charlie". March 2017 saw the release of Gene's latest CD, "Guitar In The Rain" an album celebrating the roots of contemporary Americana with original songs that evoke the romantic sweep of 60s pop, classic C&W and the raw untamed spirit of early rock & roll. Selections from the album and those preceding were featured at a wildly successful concert at the prestigious Westhampton Beach Performing Arts Center.

In 2014 Gene and the Lone Sharks were inducted into the Dan's Papers "Best of the Best" Hall of Fame, having been honored for the better part of 20 Years as favorite musicians/band. In 2015, Gene Casey received the LISA, aka , the Long Island Sound Award by the Long Island Music Hall of Fame, for his contributions to the Island's musical landscape. In 2017, the Northforker.com (the on-line arm of the Suffolk Times) named Gene and the group "People of the Year" for 2016.

She has opened for The Band, Alison Krauss and Tim O'Brien, among others. For the past four years she and her band The Ballad Makers have been featured performers at the annual Woody Guthrie Folk Festival in Okemah Oklahoma. Her songs and her voice have been heard on both large and small screens. Caroline received The Alexander Award from the Long Island Arts Council in 2017, and an official New York State Proclamation honoring her many years of work as a folksinger. She is the daughter of the late world-renowned author E.L. Doctorow.

DANTE

Combining acoustic indie folk and soul, Dante Mazzetti is known for his expressive vocals and multi-instrumental style. Described as a "standout songwriter" (New Music Weekly), "multi-talented musician" (The Independent) and "a marksman of both vocal skill and finger-plucking" (B-Sides and Badlands), Mazzetti is rooted in tradition yet fearlessly creative. As a multi-instrumentalist, Mazzetti plays most of the instruments on his recordings and during his live performances he plays a number of instruments in addition to switching instruments throughout his show. Dante was chosen to star in Levi's "What's True" commercial campaign, has won many awards for his songwriting, and was voted Best Male Musician by the popular Hampton's publication, Dan's Papers. Artists such as Ben Folds, Guster, and America have included him as an opening act for their tours and festival performances.

Dante released Hotel Vol 1 on July 26, 2019. "Hey Now," the first track off of this EP, was described as including "a sprinkle of Prince, a dash of Dylan, a hint of Guthrie" (LA on Lock) and "more than earns its four-minutes-plus run time" (B-Sides and Badlands). It was included in many "best of" lists in the music blogosphere. Dante is currently in the studio working on the second EP in this series, Hotel Vol. 2. This four song album is set to be released on November 22, 2019. A portion of the proceeds from Hotel Vol. 2 and it's release show will go to First Responders Children's Foundation.

SOFIA D'ANGELO

At 14 years old, Sofia busked in a small town in Long Island on a hot summer day. She played songs by all of her favorite artists, as well as a few originals she had written in her bedroom that she never thought would see the light of day. "It was truly an eye-opening moment," she recalls. "I knew I wanted to do music for the rest of my life, but now it seemed like the only thing to do. Why would I pursue anything else?" Now, at 20 years old, she studies Recorded Music at NYU.

When she's not in class, she is at home writing and producing more songs, and playing all of these tunes live in front of audiences around the city. "Producing is great because you can see the song building to where you want it to be, and I can now do that as I'm writing it. That's special about being a musician right now." Sofia says.

Taking inspiration from The 1975 ("I... love that band so damn much") to Led Zeppelin to Lorde to Joni Mitchell to Tears for Fears to Rihanna, Sofia's variety of taste comes together through her aesthetic filter to present a new, unique artist who uses the city, her relationships, and her femininity as powerful tools in her songs. She takes the stage recklessly but with care, ensuring everyone in the crowd is included and having fun. Sofia D'Angelo is one to watch.

HOPEFULLY FORGIVEN

Hopefully Forgiven - voted 'Best Band in the Hamptons' by Dan's Papers for the past two years - is a high-energy, mellow-vibin', harmony soaked cocktail of 100 years of American music and spirits. Singer/songwriters Telly Karoussos, and 'Alabama Brad' Penuel (fresh from Nashville) deliver big harmonies and authentic songwriting that transcend the 'Americana' genre and has attracted a devoted multi-generational fan base.

The brotherhood that is Hopefully Forgiven began shortly after a chance meeting through an internet post when Brad offered his Brooklyn railroad apartment to Telly in exchange for watching his dog. After sizing each other up and realizing they shared a passion for music and surfing, Brad said "I think this will work. My house is yours--you can even play my guitar if you want....just don't touch my boots."

Telly didn't and they soon began working up their favorite songs by the Stones, the Band, Van Morrison, etc. Brad even showed him some bluegrass tunes, and the course for Hopefully Forgiven was set. Hopefully Forgiven's debut EP, Soaked, is now available everywhere.
