MULTI-YEAR STRATEGY FOR BIPARTISAN INFRASTRUCTURE LAW FEDERAL GRANTS

Services will cross reference your capital improvement program with more than 100 grants from the BIL.

Once the Notice of Funding Opportunity has been released, it is likely too late…

Competition for federal discretionary grants is fierce and, in general, agencies that are most prepared by completing foundational tasks for each targeted project will have greater success in receiving awards. If no award is received, those agencies will be that much farther ahead for the next cycle after obtaining feedback from the granting federal agency. For most Bipartisan Infrastructure Law (BIL) grant programs, two cycles (of the total five cycles) have already been awarded providing key details on successful project types, typical award amounts, and general opportunity release and submittal timelines.

Your agency can act now to prepare for the release of future grant notifications.

STAGE 01	STAGE 02	STAGE 03	STAGE 04	STAGE 05
Kick off conversation with goal setting and resource identification	Review of CIP and selection of initial projects or initiatives	Cross analyze projects against 100 BIL federal grant programs	Develop multi-year targeted grant matrix with annual action plan	Support agency with advocacy and additional resources for submittals

What you receive*: A multi-year targeted grant strategy to align your capital program and ideas with a refined list of the 100 plus BIL discretionary programs.

When can I get my plan*: The level of effort required varies by size of organization and the availability of staff, but generally 1 to 2 months.

How much*: These services are normally delivered via a time & materials structure and have a customized cost per agency based on scope.
