Smoke Signals

Steve Kenyatta Briggs (Yayayar)

February 19th, 2026 (Greg); February 6th, 2026 (Julian).

February 14th, 2026 (Gregorian), I saw news a story about some rocket company or government branch launching a rocket. I glanced up. The image looked fairly fake. Western A.I. is good. But thankfully Satan –or whatever Western AI producer makes you most comfortable– deliberately infuses his/their most widely utilized AI images with veiled but detectable giveaways –imperfections and messages, seemingly designed to prove everyone who grew up under the influence of Western media and values is an idiot.

Since I grew bored debunking AI videos a few weeks ago, I didn't bother to look online, for the rocket video footage, for a couple of hours. But when I did, every image of a rocket I found online was an AI fake. Below is a screenshot of the first 10 images that appeared in my Google browser image results for the search words “rocket launch.”

All of the images are fake.

The fact that all of my results were/are falsified could indicate that everyone connected to a Western owned internet system is getting completely falsified results. Or it could just mean people in Mexico are receiving falsified results –or that some portion of the Americas receives falsified results. Or it could mean, I receive the results that Western elite criminals (under Satan's rule) want me to receive. That final possibility is very likely. That possibility was first suggested, using deliberately opaque language, by US Intelligence, in 2020, as I recall, shortly after I posted a low quality video of my computer being hacked into. Of the various possibilities set forth, that final option –living in a world where we each receive the personally falsified search results that unfit, evil and unable-to-compete elites want us to receive– is the most dangerous, as we then all believe and act as the evil elites wish –based on differing false sets of facts.

Below are five AI images of five fake rocket launches. There are a few signs of fraud.
Can you spot the most obvious sign of deliberate AI fakery?

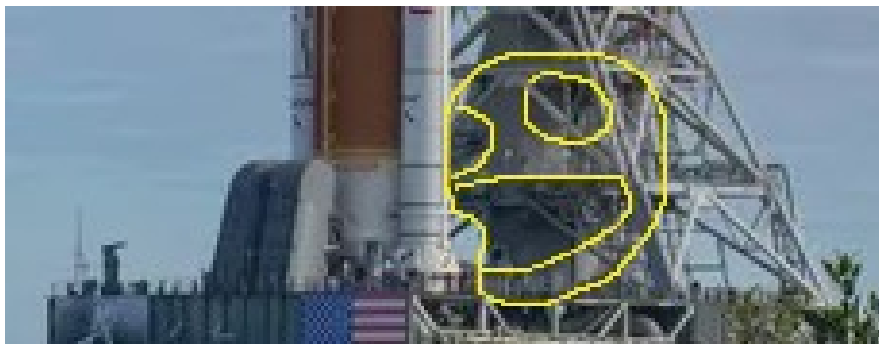

Take a close look at the images, and I'll explain the most obvious sign on the following page, and reveal some of the hidden messages and images.

If you are a deliberately observant and curious person, you are going to spot AI fakes more easily than other people.

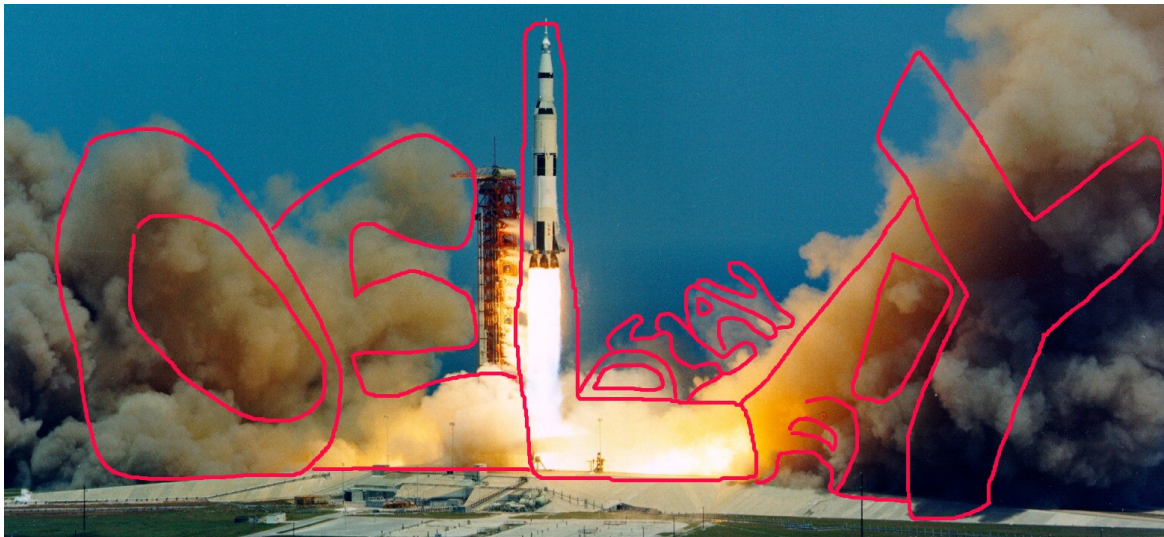

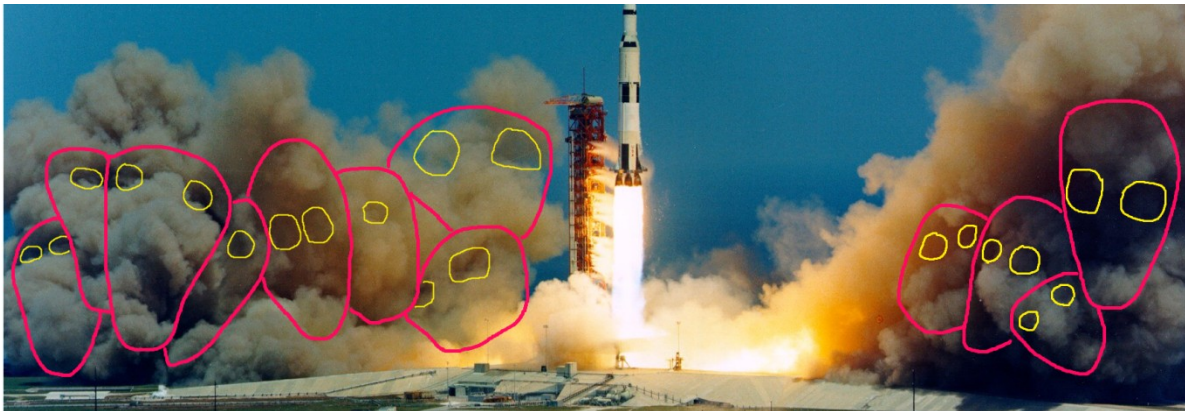

The image to the right is an IA fake (that's all I was able to find). There are a few signs of fakery on the image, but the smiling head at the base of the stabilizing tower (enlarged, bottom right) is the most obvious sign. The smiling male face, looking up at the giant rocket, is Satan's way of laughing at how he turned so many Western men (and men in nations that welcomed Western values, media and tech) into big-penis-obsessed homosexuals, by promulgating images and elusions to big penises.

The image to the upper right is for demonstration. In a legitimate rocket launch, emissions -smoke and steam- almost always burst out and spread fairly evenly in all directions (as seen in the image below). The emission spread is worse with manned-rockets (with people in them), because if the rate of acceleration is not carefully controlled, they astronauts will die. (I added the fake smoke and steam to the image below with my Paint program.) If you go back and look at the previous five rocket launch images, you'll notice the AI moved the steam and exhaust out of the way -to the back, left and right- to give the viewer a better look at the rocket. This is the most obvious sign of A.I. fakery.

Satan has made the Western internet his kingdom, where he rules. On Satan's internet, the regular rules of nature don't apply. To the right, Satan expresses this by having the rocket exhaust form a neat, semi straight diagonal line, to the right of the rocket; very unlikely in nature.

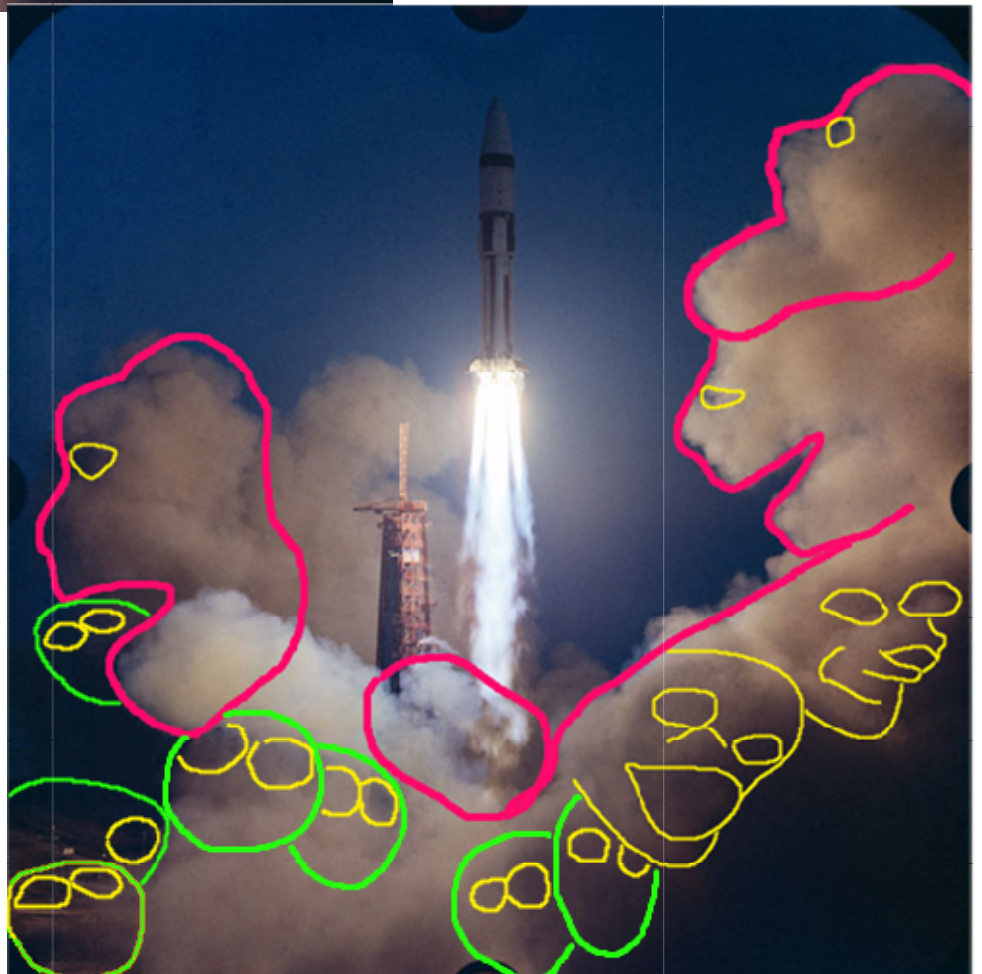

To top that off, Satan hid scared, screaming and gasping faces in his rocket emission clouds -with the words "delay" and/or "delayed", seen in the images below.

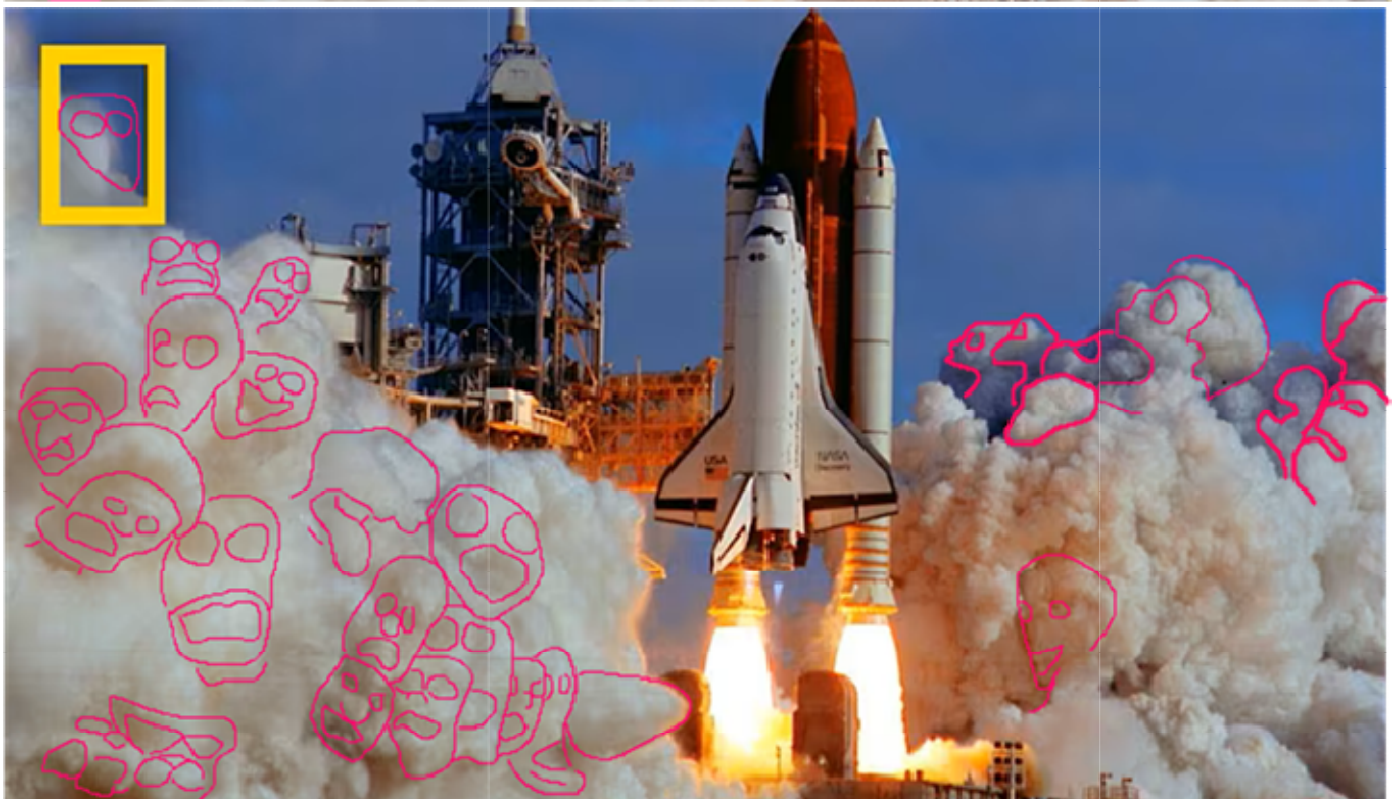

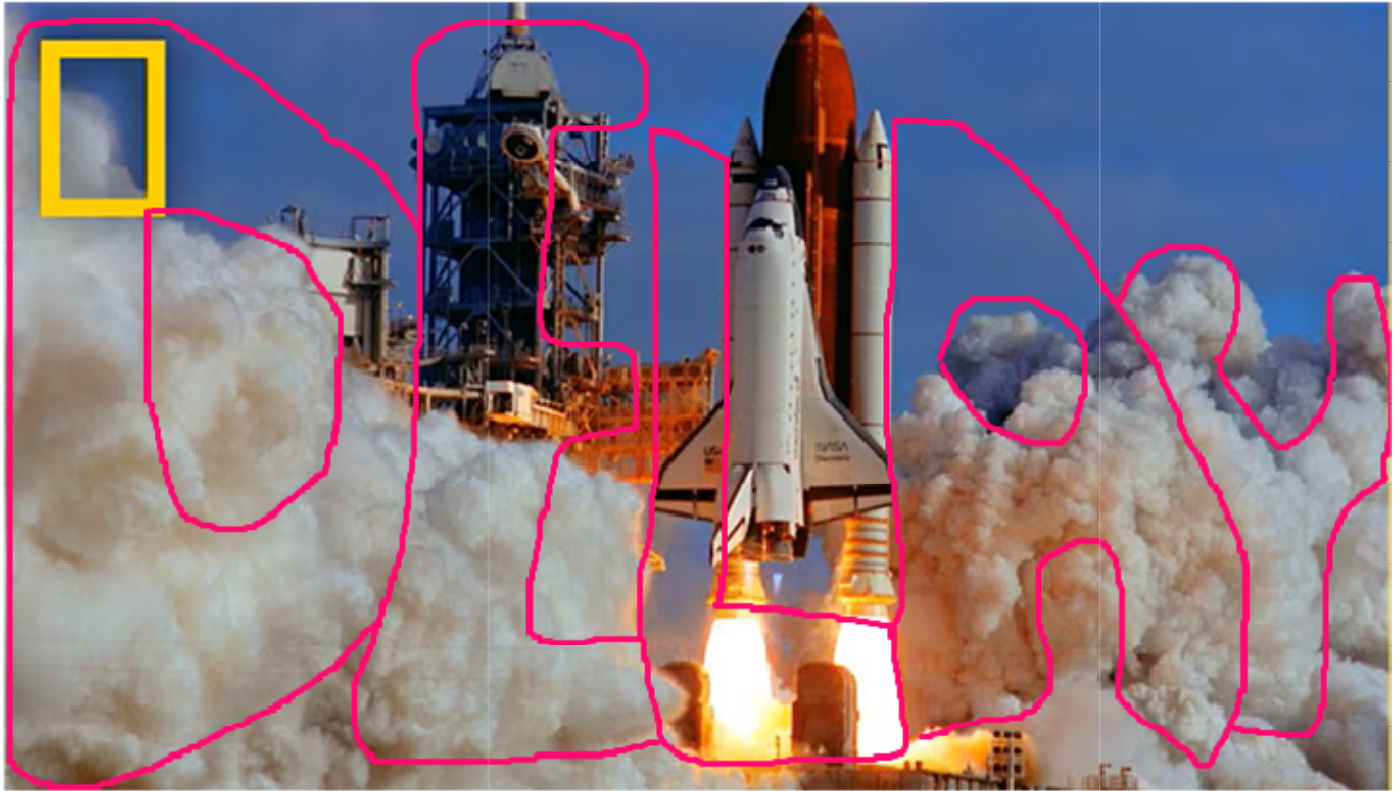

In the image to the left, Satan uses his AI to create a world where rocket emissions clouds form well-organized square-ish and diamond shapes –lots of straight line (which smoke and clouds don't do naturally).

If you zoom in on the image above, you may be able to see the shapes of faces, outlined to the right.

In the images below, you'll notice Satan used his IA tools to scoop the rocket emissions out of the shot. And on both sides of the rocket, in the white-ish rocket emission plumes, you'll find the word "delay," and faces –many of which appear distressed, gazing at something –perhaps some fast approaching danger.

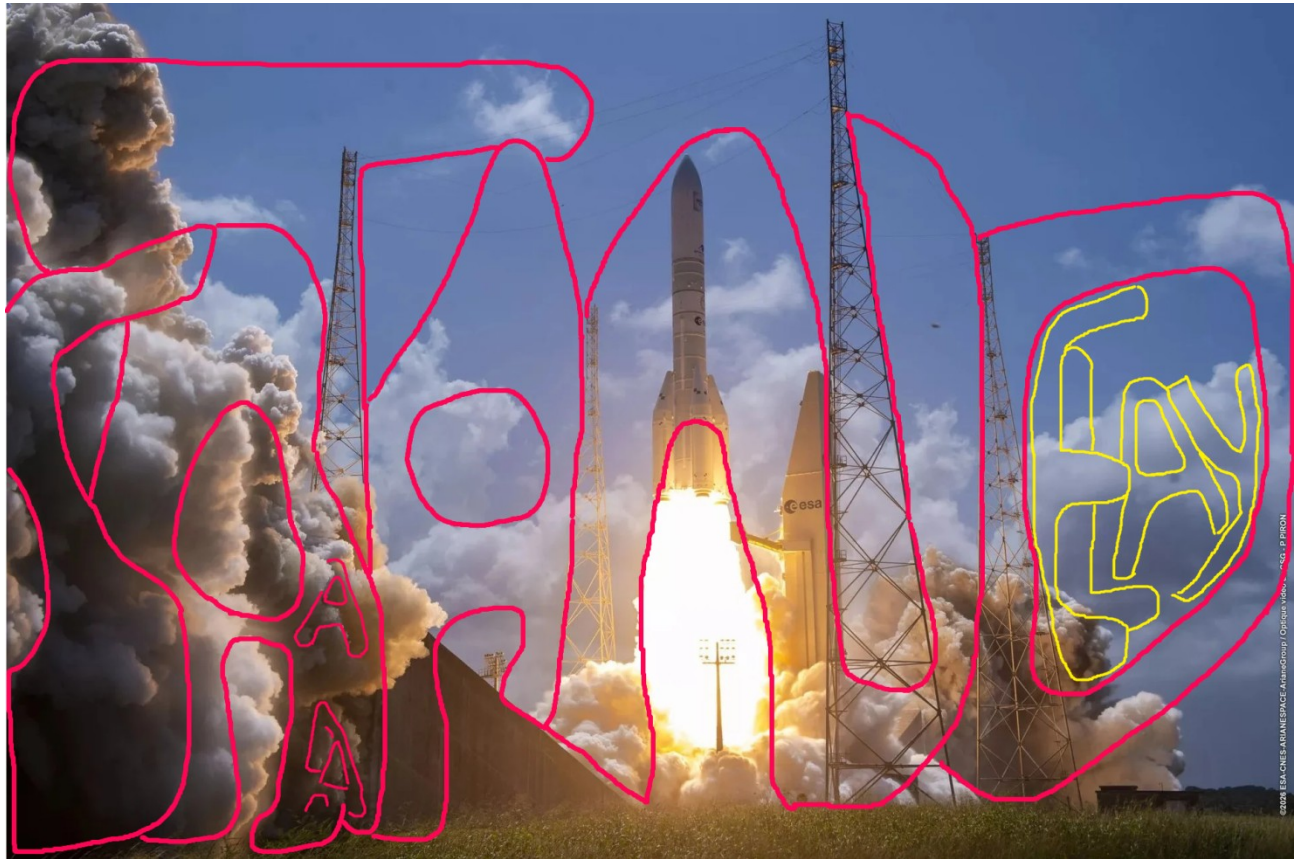

And again, in the rocket emissions, above, you will find the word “delayed,” outlined below.

And in the image below, a section enlargement of the previous image, around the final “D” in delayed, you may be able to make out the images of concerned faces, who seem to be observing something approaching (outlined below).

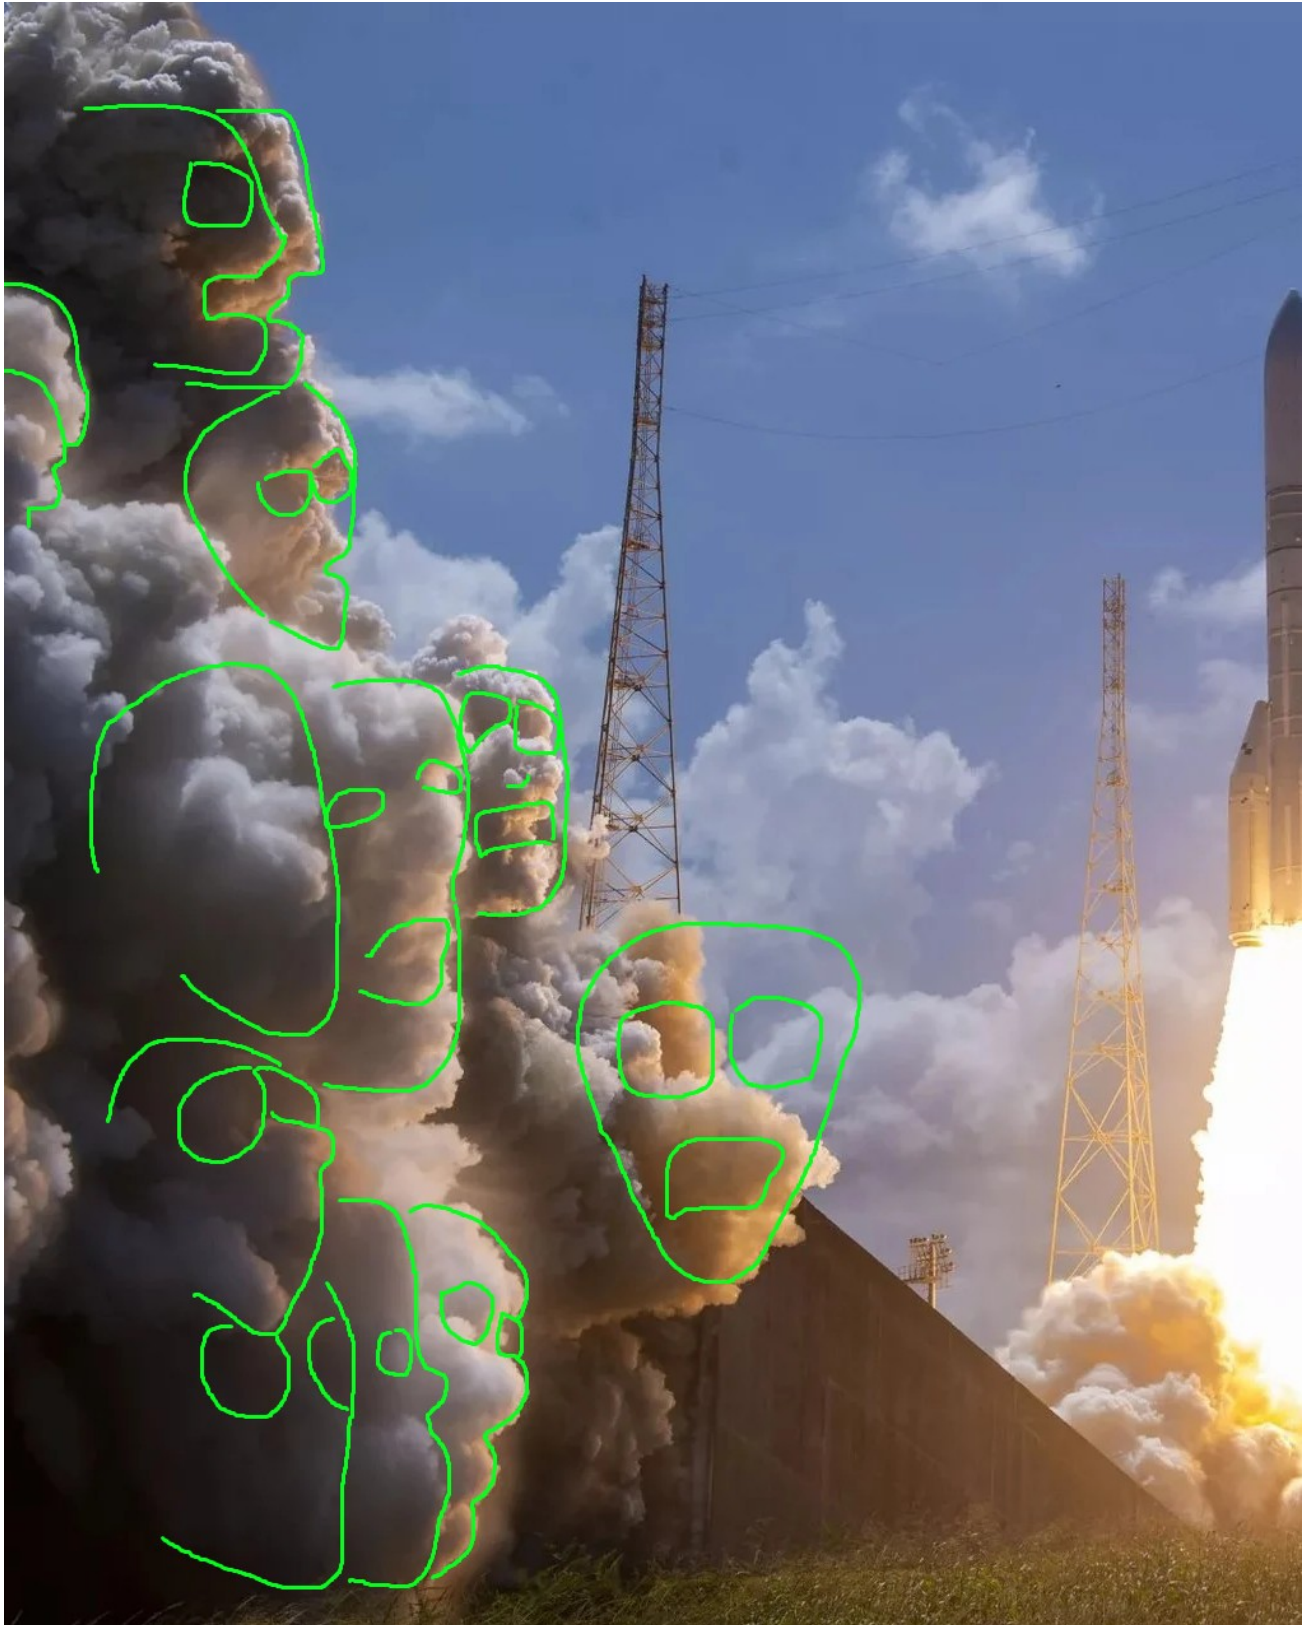

And in the image(s) below, you may be able to make out the words “Satan”, and “delay,” and “delayed”.

And on the left side of the previous image, enlarged below, you may be able to make out some of the many distraught faces, clearly outlined below.

What does Satan mean with all of these anguished faces?

Solution on the next page.

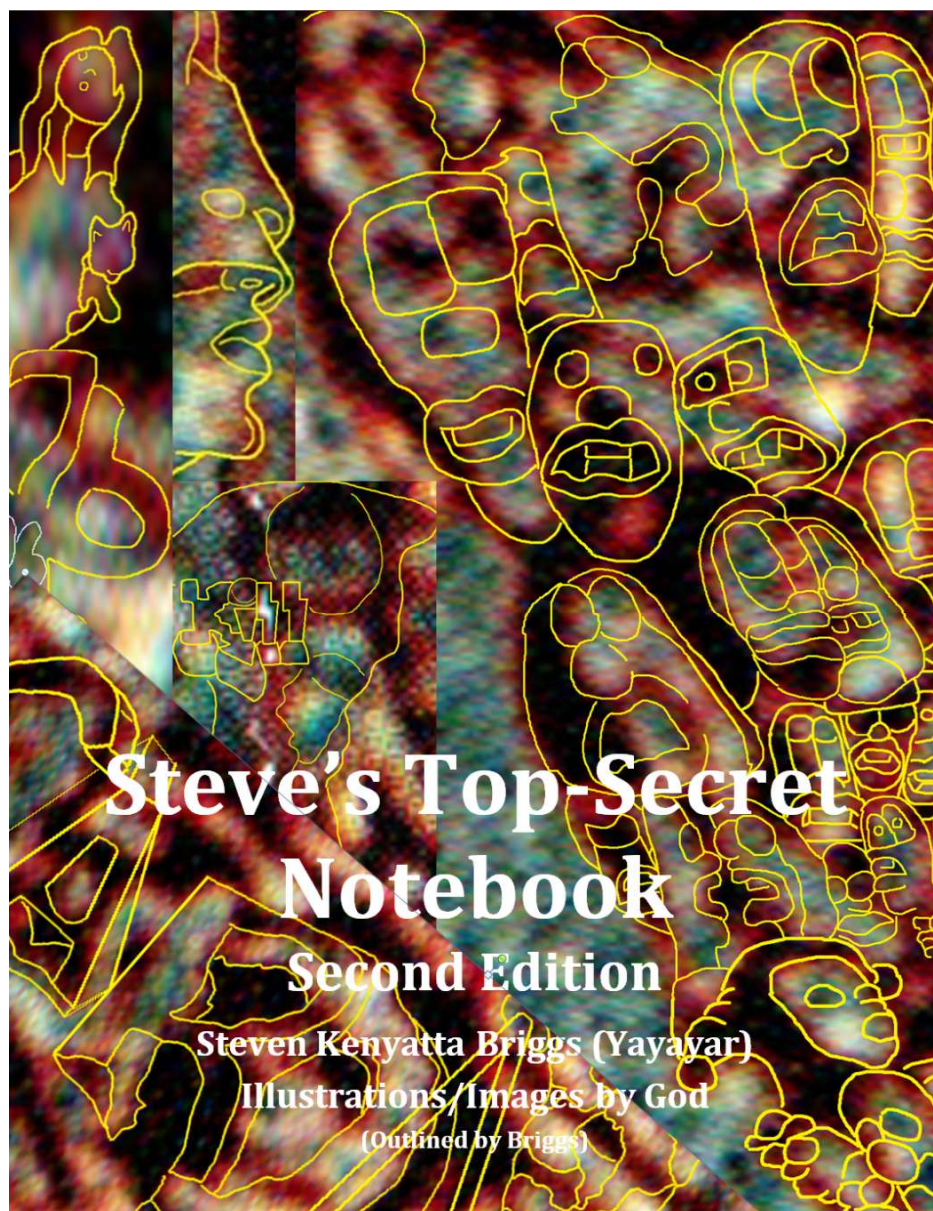

The faces are a reference to the faces on the cover of Steve's Top-Secret Notebook, pictured below. Some of you may know the faces are found in the Elder Badge (from the lower left corner of Nuestra Señora de Guadalupe). You also may know that God used the faces to help reveal the date of His One Hour War (Jan 7th, 2026, Gregorian, and December 25th, 2026, Julian).

According to my recent writing, research and decoding, Satan was going to make the event appear as if it occurred 38 days later (Feb 14th, Greg; or Feb 1st, Julian). But the event didn't occur at the expected time.

Satan appears to be saying the event was delayed.

I'm not sure when Satan will initiate the event.

It's also possible that one, or more -or many- of my well-supported theories are wrong –except for the date of the OHW. Only God –or a news media with too much integrity to ever proffer AI images as legit, and too ethical to ever accept a bribe– can prove me wrong about that.
