Laclede, Missouri native, General of the Armies John J. “Blackjack” Pershing, convinced that war would come again, formed the ROA after the end of WWI to ensure that America would have a strong reserve force.

Nearly 100 years later, his vision remains as the mission of ROA — A strong Reserve Component force.

ROA is America’s ONLY exclusive advocate for the Reserve and National Guard; fighting for the readiness of those who serve and the well-being of their families as well as the retired veterans of reserve service.

As an official Department of ROA., Missouri ROA (MOROA) and its five Chapters recognize that Reserve duty has changed — We have transitioned from a strategic to an operational reserve. Accordingly, we serve more members of the reserve components than ever before. In doing so, we provide the tools, resources, support, education and advocacy needed to carry out the mission. Our goal is the success of the reservist—in and out of uniform.

Affiliate with a chapter at Whiteman AFB, Kansas City, MO, Springfield, MO or either of two chapters in St. Louis, MO...your choice. We are no longer just an organization of officers, we are the total reserve community E-1 to O-10.

WHY ROA / MOROA

- ◆ In partnership with our national headquarters, fighting for a strong national defense and a strong Reserve as an essential partner in the total force
- ◆ Driven by our State Executive Committee (EXCOM), we are taking the issues and concerns important to Missouri reservists to our federal and state legislative leadership in face-to-face meetings and through our biennial publication, the “MOROA Report to Congress”
- ◆ A Resource for Reserve Component career development through professional development seminars.
- ◆ Policy experts leveraging Reserve Component-specific knowledge of reservist needs.
- ◆ Five chapters, strategically located in the state’s major population centers, to foster the camaraderie of service branch and cross service branch experiences. As well as delivery of services to our state’s major command centers.
- ◆ Our Charitable Contingency Trust Fund, one of the strongest in the nation, ensures the fiscal stability needed to continue into the future.
- ◆ The Transmitter, a quarterly newsletter communication with all MOROA members and Missouri’s U.S. Congressional members.

ROA is the only national military association focused 100% on advocacy for Reserve Components, their families and veterans of the Reserve. Your membership in ROA/MOROA helps to ensure that the Reserve force is adequately supported and funded.

ROA membership offers:

- ⇒ The Reserve Voice, a twice monthly e-newsletter providing legislative updates and insights into the decision making process.
- ⇒ The Service Members Law Center provides guidance on civilian employment questions
- ⇒ The Reserve Kids School Kit is a family support tool through the ROA STARS Foundation.
- ⇒ Benefits ranging from savings on insurance, travel, financial services, education, career counseling and more...
