

Writing can be a lonely and, often times, a frustrating pursuit.

That's why it's important to keep in touch with people who share your passion.

The Southern California Writers Association is dedicated to helping writers in multiple genres hone their skills, learn the ins and outs of the publishing industry, and advance their writing careers.

Once a month, we feature speakers who cover a wide variety of subjects: from writing habits and the creative process to breaking into the business and getting the best publishing deal you can. You will learn from authors who have been there and from agents and lawyers that make it happen. You can learn about issues such as writer's block, revisions, query letters, and proposals.

You will also meet writers like yourself--people who put thoughts into words every day. Members network, share information, and listen to informative lectures.

The Southern California Writers Association is open to writers of all levels, whether they are just starting out or if they are already published. The group meets on the third Saturday of every month in the Banquet Room of the Claim Jumper Restaurant. Meetings are from 10:00am to 1:30pm and lunch is provided.
