

Ideals Uniqueness Equality First

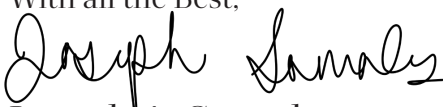

As an animator and illustrator in the industry, I have made a pledge towards retaining the wonder and mystery that artwork brings to our world. Growing up on the ASD, I believe that we should all be treated equally no matter where we come from, what we are, and what disagreements we may have. Thus, I conduct my business first and foremost with dedication and respect for my clients while expecting the same in return. I am not a machine, my brain is not made of artificial intelligence. I am a human being, I have my ideals and beliefs, and I have my boundaries just like all of you. Therefore, I expect you to uphold your end of, at the very least, respecting my craft. There is no negotiations when it comes to this theory of mine because my pieces are my communicative ways of navigating life.

My integrity lies with our legacy, our freedoms, and most of all, our respect and love for one another. Therefore, it is partially my duty to uphold my right towards closing any projects that I believe do not align with my values as a person. My terms of condition has a few simple rules:

- There is absolutely no room for hatred towards any individual! While you can disagree with ones policies and stances on how they run their life, you must respect that they are a person, too.
- Anything I deem as immoral and potentially damaging towards my professional career will result in an immediate denial of services for good!
- My pricing is negotiable, but I have the final say on the price that my work deserves.
- Any services that are added on outside of signing the contract will result in an increase of price for the final project or require a new project inquiry.
- I have the right to deny any projects that crosses my boundaries. Respect is a two-way relationship, so I expect you to be patient until the due date.

I know my values very well as a designer and artist, so I ask with this declaration to respect my craft. By signing this you agree to uphold your end of this contract. Thus, you will abide by all of what is outlined here and more policies if necessary. For any reason I find you crossing any boundaries with me, I will make sure to deny my design services to you immediately, whether it is for that particular project or for good. Like I said in the beginning, I am human and I expect to be respected as a human trying to get by in this life, just like you are doing, too! Sign below to proclaim that you understand what is expected of you as the client.

With all the Best,

Joseph A. Samoles
