What Is My Interest Type?

“For customer Issac Lee, our result indicates stronger associations with Realistic and Investigative types compared to 4 other interest

Realistic

“A man of action”

You have technical and mechanical skills. You are more likely to prefer working with machines and solving practical problems over meeting people and researching academic curiosity. You are a patient person with strong adaptation skills, and you are also very reasonable, practical and independent.

Investigative

“A man of thought”

Scholastic, analyzing and exploratory. You like to explore and investigate scientific and social phenomenon. You have an exceptional math and science ability and highly inquisitive personality.

Enterprising

“A man of leadership”

You are extroverted, competitive and confident. You are very well spoken, optimistic and have great leadership skills. As a goal oriented person, you are talented in performing operational and sales work. You are at once sociable and responsible.

Complementing Your Personality

Down-to-earth and Pragmatic

You are someone who puts heavy emphasis on facts over concepts or ideas. You may be lacking in social and academic skills as you are likely to find repetitive work boring. Look for different tools and activities around you to keep yourself motivated.

Observing, Analyzing, and Scientific

You are someone who is very logical, intelligent and academically motivated. However, you may require more effort in making independent decisions and in understanding our community as a whole.

Leading, Persuading and Performing

You are someone who has strong desire for winning and seeks to be a leader. Likely to function most effectively in a competitive environment with great confidence and presentation skills, but may need further effort in developing detail-oriented mindset.
