

Detroit River Schooner Program

ABOUT

For the fourth straight year, U-M's Detroit River Story Lab will be sponsoring educational sails for organized youth groups on board the schooner Inland Seas in July and August. These three-hour outings will provide a unique opportunity for local students to experience the river from the decks of a tall ship while learning about the environmental and cultural heritage of their home communities.

The hands-on curriculum, presented by Inland Seas instructors, U-M faculty, and community experts, will focus on local marine ecology and the rich historical legacies of the river, including its important role in the Underground Railroad and current struggles for environmental justice.

THE SCHOONER

The Inland Seas is a 77-foot, traditionally rigged tall ship of the kind frequently seen on the river and throughout the Great Lakes during the 18th and 19th centuries. She is licensed by the U.S. Coast Guard to carry up to 30 passengers.

This program is a partnership between U-M's Detroit River Story Lab and the Inland Seas Education Association. For more information or to be added to our mailing list, email DRSL-Admin@umich.edu.
