A Milestone Rooted in Military Service and Entrepreneurial Leadership

"Receiving NVBDC certification represents a significant milestone for Collaborative Shared Technologies LLC® and reflects the values of service, accountability, discipline, and continuous improvement that have shaped my leadership throughout my military and entrepreneurial career," said Asha Aziza Peterson, Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Collaborative Shared Technologies LLC®.

Collaborative Shared Technologies LLC®, an NVBDC-certified Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned Business, delivers Knowledge Management, Enterprise Intelligence™, AI Readiness, and Digital Transformation solutions to government and commercial organizations.

“As a retired United States Air Force veteran and business owner, I understand the importance of building resilient organizations, developing capable teams, and transforming knowledge into measurable organizational value. This certification strengthens our ability to establish meaningful relationships with corporations, prime contractors, and strategic partners that recognize the capabilities and contributions of service-disabled veteran-owned businesses.”

NVBDC certification is an important milestone that strengthens our position for corporate contracting, supplier diversity, and strategic partnership opportunities.”

Asha Aziza Peterson, Founder & CEO

Peterson added, "Our mission extends beyond delivering consulting services. We are committed to helping organizations build intelligent, adaptable, and knowledge-driven enterprises prepared to navigate technological change, workforce transformation, and the evolving demands of artificial intelligence."

Strengthening a Growing Supplier Diversity Portfolio

The NVBDC certification further expands Collaborative Shared Technologies LLC®'s supplier diversity credentials, complementing its existing business certifications and designations, including:

- National Minority Supplier Development Council (NMSDC) Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) certification.
- Maryland Veteran-Owned Small Business Enterprise (VSBE) designation.
- Prince George's County Certified-Based Small Business (CBSB) certification.

Together, these credentials support the company's efforts to expand relationships with corporate procurement teams, supplier diversity professionals, government contractors, and organizations committed to inclusive sourcing and diverse supplier participation.

These certifications collectively position Collaborative Shared Technologies LLC® to compete for supplier diversity opportunities across both public- and private-sector markets.

The company intends to leverage its NVBDC certification to pursue corporate supplier registration opportunities, supplier diversity matchmaking programs, strategic teaming arrangements, and subcontracting partnerships.

Advancing Knowledge-Driven Enterprise Transformation

As organizations face increasing challenges associated with information fragmentation, workforce transitions, digital modernization, and artificial intelligence adoption, Collaborative Shared Technologies LLC® continues to focus on solutions that strengthen enterprise knowledge capabilities and operational performance.

Through its consulting services and KnowledgeRoots™ intellectual property ecosystem, the company supports organizations in developing knowledge-centered strategies, improving business processes, strengthening information governance, and preparing for the future of intelligent enterprise operations.

The NVBDC certification marks another step in the company's long-term strategy to expand its commercial market presence while continuing to serve government agencies, prime contractors, and organizations pursuing enterprise transformation.
