A detailed botanical illustration of a pomegranate branch. The branch is dark brown and woody, with several smaller, lighter brown stems branching off. The leaves are elongated, pointed, and have a greenish-brown hue. Interspersed among the leaves are several pomegranate flowers, which are small and white with five petals. There are also several pomegranate fruits (pomegranates) on the branch. Some are whole and round, while others are partially open, revealing the seeds inside. The background is a solid, muted pinkish-brown color.

A long, low wooden table with a distressed finish and a potted plant. The table is made of dark wood with a weathered, greyish-brown patina. It has a simple, rectangular top and a slightly curved front edge. The legs are thick and carved with a fluted, column-like design. A potted plant with green, leafy branches sits on the table. The background is a plain, light grey wall.
