CASHA is pleased to announce the formation of a new annual scholarship fund to benefit one of our active juvenile CASHA members each year, beginning in 2013. The Murr Family Scholarship Fund is offering a $1,000.00 scholarship for the purpose of encouraging continuing education for our CASHA juvenile members. This scholarship is designed to reward our young members for their participation, dedication, and service within our Saddlebred community. This scholarship will be awarded to a member who is a junior or senior in high school, and who has shown in a minimum of 2 Colorado Saddlebred shows during the year for which they are applying. Community service performed in areas besides the horse world also will be considered. Financial need is not a requirement for this scholarship. Funds will be paid directly to the school of the recipient's choice prior to the beginning of the recipient's first semester. The recipient will be announced during the State Championship performance at the Denver Queen City Horse Show each year. Members may only win this award once.

Please submit your application by July 11th, either to the above mail or email address.

Please discuss the following:

List the local Saddlebred shows which you participated in during the last twelve months.

List the ways in which you have assisted with the horse shows and within our horse community within the last twelve months.

Please describe how you are an ambassador for the Saddlebred community.

List your community service through your school, church, or other community in which you participate.

What is your current year in school?

Where do you currently plan to attend college?

Please provide any additional information you wish us to consider.

Thank you for applying for this scholarship!
