BOOK DESCRIPTION

Contrary to what many believe, marriage was not created for woman; woman was created for marriage. No living creature in the Garden of Eden possessed the qualities God desired to serve as Adam's helper. Placing Adam into a deep sleep and removing his rib, God designed His final creation--WOMAN. The Bible doesn't speak of what God shared with Eve in the time leading up to the initial encounter with her companion, but Sleeping Adam offers a fresh perspective of marriage--one that is heavily rooted in its purpose as well as defines the dynamic and powerful role of a wife. Be refreshed and recharged with a holistic understanding of your role, and learn to war against spiritual attacks that tend to destroy marriages and leave its victims pointing fingers at each other. Refuse to simply manage marriage; with God, you can master it!

CHRISTINE RACHEAL

Christine Racheal Wilson is an author, screenwriter, educator, mentor, and founding owner of Airris Publishing, a consulting firm that assists new authors in achieving their publishing goals. Christine is the published author of the urban tale, Trickery and her newly published autobiographical text, Healed Women Don't Cry, which captures the struggles of a woman broken by childhood sexual abuse and rape and the power of God to restore, renew, and re-align a life headed towards destruction.
