Shutters with a View: Reinventing a Classic Window Covering.

Mixed-media artist, Rosemary Chase, turns shutters into works of art that can bring a view to any room.

Rosemary Chase is a mixed-media artist based in Manhattan, NY, who began her career as a fashion designer in New York's Garment District. However, she has primarily operated as a solopreneur throughout her creative journey. Her diverse creations encompass various art forms, including clothing, footwear, repurposed furniture, home staging, and wall art.

Rosemary Chase's journey with creating art on shutters started in 2021 when she stumbled upon a set of shutters on the side of the road in her Manhattan, New York neighborhood. It was almost as if they were meant for her, and she decided to repurpose them into something creative. The last piece in the collection, a shutter-like room divider, was completed by Spring 2023.

Rosemary used the decoupage technique and acrylic paints to create art on 20 shutters. "The idea of transforming something discarded or considered worthless into something beautiful and valuable is often a motivation for my projects," says Rosemary. In 2015, Rosemary was a former winning contestant on the HGTV series, "Flea Market Flip", a show whose theme is all about up-cycling or repurposing items found at a local flea market.

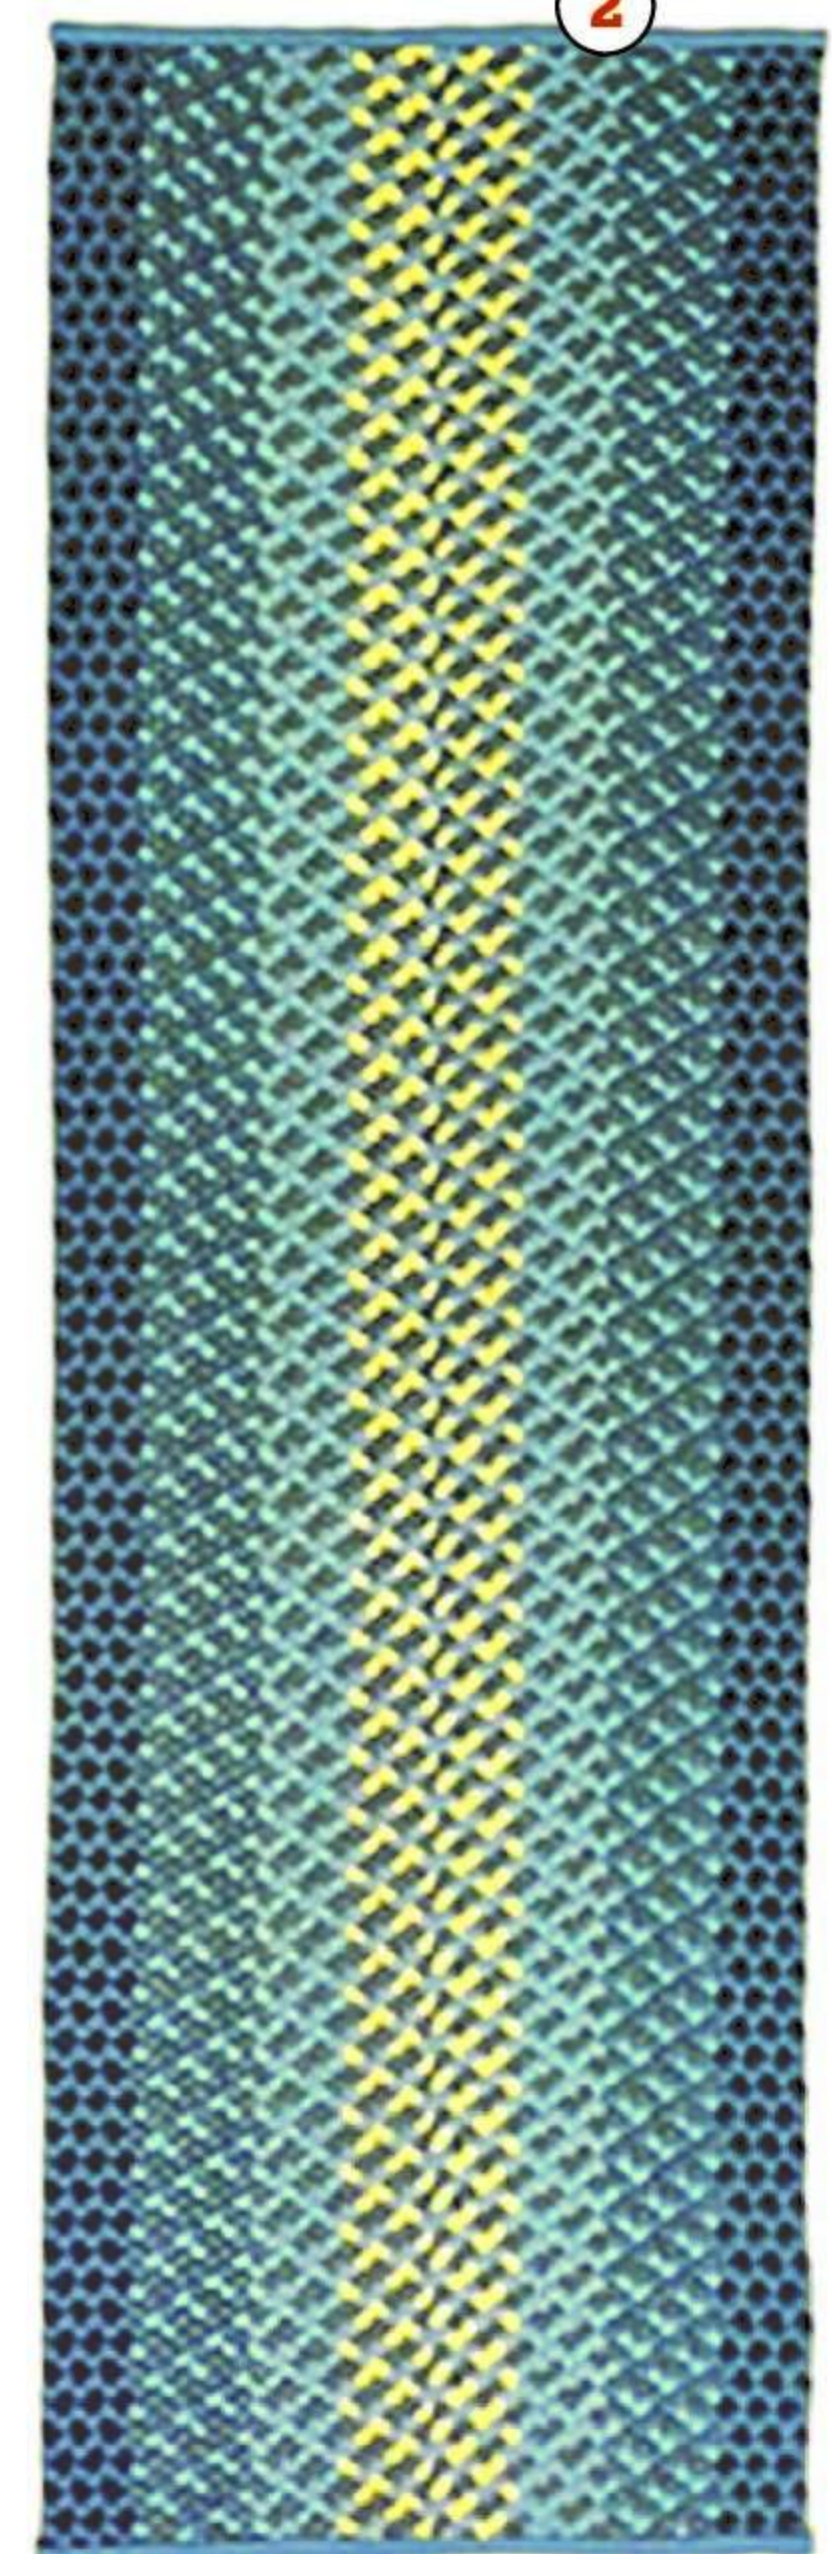

A solo exhibition was held on October 1st in the lobster trap tunnel of Burger & Lobster Bryant Park, 132 W 43rd St, New York, NY 10036. <https://www.burgerandlobster.com/>.
