Conclusion:

There's always been a certain area of mystery and intrigue in the Book of Revelation. In reality, God gives us the answers to the questions He wants us to know and leaves void or empty those places that he doesn't want us to know. Some things we can handle. Some things we cannot. As we look into this wonderful book of a glimpse into eternity past, present and future, we need not get frightened as John did. We need to realize that Jesus is in charge. The things we don't understand we don't need to stress over; Jesus knows! The things that we can clearly see; we need to adapt our lives to better serve Him through our lives. Those things which are here to come; we should take those as an encouragement to continue to do the work as Jesus did while He was here on earth – "seek and to save that which was lost". We get an insight of the future! With that we should look at what is coming with the expectation for ourselves, and a concern for those that may not know Christ! With this knowledge we should ready ourselves and drive ourselves to try to reach many of the lost to make sure they're safe so they do not have to face the judgment here to come. It's our insight to the judgment of God; and we need to do with it as we are instructed!
