

The Accountant's Corner

SEPTEMBER EDITION

Hey there,

Who else is getting ready for a fun Labor Day Weekend? We're spending the holiday for one last family trip to the beach before the school year begins.

Once you're done relaxing, it's time to worry about paying quarterly taxes on the labor you've been doing!

There's so much confusion regarding who needs to pay quarterly taxes, when to pay them, and how much you need to pay!

The best answer is - talk to your tax accountant. Everyone's situation is different, so it's best to find answers based on your specific business.

The second best answer is to check out my Quarterly Taxes 101 Guide below:

Download My Free Guide!

EMAIL ME and let me know you'd like a copy!

A laptop screen displaying a promotional graphic for a free guide. The graphic has a dark background with white text and a starburst icon. The text includes the title 'INTRO TO ESTIMATED TAXES' and a list of four topics with checkmarks. A white coffee cup is visible on the right side of the screen.

FREE GUIDE

INTRO TO ESTIMATED TAXES

- ✓ Who Has to Pay?
- ✓ When Do I Have to Pay?
- ✓ How Much Should I Pay?
- ✓ What If I Don't Pay?

Important Dates:

SEPTEMBER 15

Extended Form 1065 Due: Return of Partnership Income
Q3 1040 ES Due: Third Installment of 2022 Estimated Taxes

Remember that tax extension you filed all the way back in April? That extended deadline is coming up quick!

Whenever I think about the tax extension deadline, it reminds me of when someone is justtt about to start tailgating you.

You can see their car in the distance, and they're coming on just a little too fast. Before you know it... that car is right behind yours and it's looming large in your rearview mirror.

LET'S STOP THE TAILGATING DEADLINES!

Here's three steps you can take today to make sure you're ready to file your extended taxes in October:

- 1) Make sure your books are properly closed for 2021
- 2) Gather all of your tax documents
- 3) Set up a meeting with your tax preparer

Thank you for your support!

Your reviews help other business owners choose me as their trusted financial professional. I'd truly appreciate it if you took a second to leave a review on my Google Business Page or Facebook.

Get more of my finance tips + tricks by following me on Instagram
@hli_accountingservices

Enjoy the last bits of summer and Labor Day!

- Cynthia