

A detailed black and white illustration of a small, scruffy puppy. The puppy is sitting and looking directly at the viewer with dark, expressive eyes. Its fur is thick and textured, with darker patches around its eyes and on its ears, and lighter fur on its chest and paws. The puppy's ears are floppy and pointed slightly forward. The background is plain white, and the puppy is sitting on a surface indicated by some light shading.

[illegible]

Border Terriers can squeeze through very small gaps—a trait prized by farmers for fox control.