Dear Mr. President,

I hope this letter finds you in good health. I am writing to bring to your attention a matter of profound historical and moral significance, both for the people of Togo and the values that the United States espouses worldwide.

Sylvanus Olympio, the first President of the Togolese Republic, was tragically assassinated on January 13, 1963. This event has left a lasting impact on the Togolese nation, and it is widely believed that elements within the United States government may have been involved in this tragic incident.

As a concerned member of the Togolese diaspora, I respectfully request that the U.S. government:

1-officially recognize having failed on January 13, 1963, in their mission of protecting people in danger towards the father of Togo's independence, Sylvanus Olympio

2- declassify all documents related to the assassination of President Sylvanus Olympio and conduct an in-depth investigation to recognize and condemn all people, institutions, or countries having participated directly or indirectly in this crime.

The declassification of these documents is crucial for uncovering the truth and bringing closure to a painful chapter in Togolese history. Transparency will reaffirm the United States' commitment to justice and accountability.

3- correct their error by providing a response to the dearest wish of the Togolese in this year 2025, by purely and simply asking the dictator Faure Gnassingbé, heir to the villainous assassination of the father of Togo's independence, to leave power without bloodshed at the end of his current illegitimate mandate which ends in May 2025.

Furthermore, I urge you to consider taking actions that would help to heal the historical wounds and foster goodwill between the United States and Togo. This could include formally acknowledging any involvement, supporting educational initiatives in Togo, or promoting cultural and economic cooperation between our two nations.

Such steps would honor President Olympio's memory and strengthen the bonds of friendship and mutual respect between the United States and Togo. Your leadership would be a powerful testament to the United States' dedication to human rights, justice, and international solidarity.

Thank you for your attention to this critical issue. I look forward to your positive response.

Sincerely, [Votre Nom]
