City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by Quintin Chaplin and Richard Amble

The City of North Charleston's Cultural Arts Department is pleased to announce that paintings by the current City of North Charleston Artist-in-Residence Quintin Chaplin, in the exhibit, The Culture – Paintings by Quintin Chaplin, as well as photographs by local artist Richard Amble, in the exhibit, Coastal Views – Photographs by Richard Amble, will be on exhibit at the North Charleston City Gallery, through Jan. 31, 2019.

Quintin Chaplin is a local muralist, illustrator, and portrait artist. While he is skilled in many forms of two-dimensional media, the new works featured in his exhibition, The Culture, are primarily in acrylic and watercolor. In this exhibition, Chaplin highlights a variety of themes and issues of modern society that we all face on a day to day basis. Many of the pieces combine imagery from politics, fashion, music, sports, movies, race, childhood, and religion, and explore their evolution through time.

A native of the Lowcountry, Chaplin graduated from R.B. Stall High School and earned an Associate's Degree in Art from Trident Technical College in 2013 and a certificate from Pixar Animation Studios in Los Angeles, CA, in 2015. His work has been exhibited in solo and group exhibitions throughout the Lowcountry and has received a number of awards from judged art competitions at the Coastal Carolina Fair, the North Charleston Arts Fest, and more.

Chaplin worked as an apprentice for Walt Disney animation studios, served as the artist-in-residence for Ladson Elementary School in 2012, and has offered art instruction in the North Charleston Cultural Arts Department's after school and summer arts enrichment programs since 2017. He has also been creating murals, portraits, and other commissioned pieces for local businesses, schools, organizations, and individuals as a freelance artist since 2011.

In addition, Chaplin currently offers residencies to North Charleston schools and community groups as the City of North Charleston's 2018/19 Artist-in-Residence.

In Coastal Views, Richard Amble presents a series of drone photography captured off the coast of Morris Island in South Carolina. Amble is interested in the coastline as a subject because it is a unique place where sea life and land creatures coexist. "The beach environment is invigorated by the water, which provides the life sustaining minerals and material needed for food," say Amble. "The ebb and flow of the seawater not only brings nourishment, but is part of the many rhythms of nature."

By using a drone, Amble is able to view the familiar Atlantic coastline from a bird's eye view. The results are both familiar and

Editorial COMMENTARY

Best Kept Secrets in the South Carolina Visual Art Community

For someone who has produced an arts publication in South Carolina for over 30 years and started covering both North and South Carolina's visual art community over 20 years ago - best kept secrets are no friend of mine. Our mission is to let our readers know what's going on, as far as visual art exhibitions taking place all over the Carolinas each month. There are a few exceptions where for one reason or another we no longer seek out info from, what I call a few bad players (we'll include their info if they send it, but we won't seek it out), but the rest of what we can't inform our readers about is because: either someone doesn't know how to tell others what they are offering, an inability to inform the public by our deadline as to what they are offering, or what I call the "who cares if others know what we're offering - it's too much work". So there are some best kept secrets in South Carolina, but not because of our efforts to find out what's going on and offering it to our readers. One of those areas is Spartanburg, SC.

The Spartanburg story begins with the Chapman Cultural Center. Spartanburg doesn't have an art council and arts councils in general seem to be a dying breed in SC - at least those that cover art communities in cities. Some cities have set up city government agencies that "control" the arts in that city. In those cities it would be hard for an arts council to compete or survive, as funding is always the key to everything in the arts. So, in Spartanburg, most of the money is filtered through the Chapman Cultural Center.

Its mission statement is: "Provide cultural leadership for Greater Spartanburg by developing, strengthening, and promoting the scope, excellence and educational role of the arts, humanities and sciences, and to further their significance in the life of our community and all of its citizens."

It's not just an agency, but a physical facility including: Chapman's Administration & Business Office; Spartanburg Art Museum; Spartanburg Regional History Museum; Artists' Guild of Spartanburg Gallery & Student Galleries; and the John F. Green Spartanburg Science Center. It also includes a theatre, but our main focus is on the visual arts in Spartanburg.

We used to receive press releases about exhibits at the Center (when they were provided to them on time, so they could get them to us on time) from the Marketing department at the Chapman Center, but after some change in personnel they now just refer us to the calendar provided on their website which is not very informative and doesn't replace a press release, which now falls into the, "it's too much work" category. Someone is not doing their job very well.

The Chapman Cultural Center also funds HUB-BUB, an artist-in-residence program in Spartanburg, designed to provide time and space for emerging artists to live free and create. The Artists-in-Residence program provides an unfurnished apartment in downtown Spartanburg. All utilities, including internet, will be provided, although the artists-in-residence must provide their own wireless router. A monthly stipend of $850 will be paid on the 5th of each month for the 11-month period, but no additional benefits will be provided. These artists are supposed to present exhibits, but we never hear about them and finding info about them isn't easy.

The Chapman Cultural Center also gives funding to many other visual art organizations and facilities in Spartanburg, as well as individual artists, and sponsoring art abstract. This vantage point allows him to create compositions that display the interplay of earth tones mixed with the green and blue of algae and water, while also capturing patterns and structures created by low and high tide.

Amble lives in Summerville, SC. He has worked as a high school educator, a photo studio manager, portrait and commercial photographer, and a media specialist for the Charleston County School District. He earned a BS in Biology from Mount Senario College and an MS in Educational Media from University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse, completed course work in Film Production at Trident Technical College, and is currently working toward an MFA in Photography from the Academy of Art University.

Editorial Commentary

projects. But giving money is as far as they seem to want to go, they don't seem to provide central marketing or publicity - at least not for the visual arts - as there is no center place of information where you can go to find out what's being offered as far as exhibits go in Spartanburg, except maybe Carolina Arts' gallery listings, but like I've said, we can only tell you about what we know about by our deadline. And, Spartanburg has been one of my long time frustrations.

The Chapman Cultural Center also helped bring an award-winning light and digital media artist Erwin Redl to Spartanburg in 2016 to create nine public art installations, a temporary art project, funded by $1 million from Bloomberg Philanthropies Public Art Challenge, but I could never get anyone there to send us a press release about the project.

Now all of the visual art venues in Spartanburg are not off our radar, some have been sending us info about their exhibits on a regular basis, such as the University of South Carolina Upstate, who run the Curtis R. Harley Art Gallery and the USC Upstate Outdoor Sculpture Collection (on campus) and the UPSTATE Gallery on Main (in downtown Spartanburg). USC Upstate is also a regular advertiser, which means they are the reason we can cover what's going on in Spartanburg - not the Chapman Cultural Center. Remember we are not a non-profit supported by any government agencies. And, we hear on a regular basis about exhibits taking place at the West Main Artists Cooperative in downtown Spartanburg. We hear from them courtesy of the former marketing guy at the Chapman Cultural Center, Steve Wong. They should have never let him go or gotten rid of him. And, sometimes we hear from a few of the other colleges in Spartanburg, but not on a regular basis. It all seems to depend on which of the art professors are responsible for the galleries each year.

Now that means each month we can tell our readers what's being offered at the two USC Upstate galleries, the West Main Artists Cooperative, which can present four exhibits at a time, and maybe one or two of the other galleries. But, here is a list of the other non-profit facilities offering or have offered exhibits at one time of another in Spartanburg:

The Milliken Art Gallery at Converse College (We just happened to get a press release from them this month, but we don't always.)

The Ellis Hall Gallery at Spartanburg Methodist College

The Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery at Wofford College

The new Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center for the Arts at Wofford College, which has an art museum and two other gallery spaces

The Sandor Teszler Library Gallery at Wofford College

And, sometimes the Great Oaks Hall in the Roger Milliken Science Center at Wofford College

And then there is the The Johnson Collection Gallery

There are the AT&T Exhibition Lobby Gallery and the Upper Level Gallery at the Spartanburg County Public Libraries' Headquarters Library

And let's don't forget the facilities connected to the Chapman Cultural Center:

The Spartanburg Art Museum, which we hear from, from time to time.

The Artists' Guild of Spartanburg Gallery, which we no longer hear from.

The Stairway Gallery

The Student Exhibit Gallery

And, the Showroom at Hub-Bub, which is located on Morgan Avenue in downtown Spartanburg

And, recently I began hearing about the new Mayfair Art Studios, which the Chapman Cultural Center is developing, which when opened, will be a dynamic arts incubator in the Arcadia village of Spartanburg, bringing together a diverse constituency to learn about and make art, discover each other's cultures, and build a new, vibrant and economically sustainable community in Spartanburg County. It's projected to feature two new gallery spaces, that I may never hear from.

That's a lot of gallery spaces that we're not able to tell you what they are offering each month. We've heard from them all at one time or another, but not on a regular basis.

Now, here's the chicken or the egg question. Is it my responsibility to contact all these facilities and drag the info out of them or their responsibility to provide info to us? I'm covering the visual art communities in two states each month. I don't have time to track all these people down. And, I'm sure all these facilities listed above are getting funding from the Spartanburg community, some from the State of SC, and I'm sure a few from the Federal government, which in many cases means our tax dollars.

In my 31 years of offering a publication to all of these venues to publicize what they are offering to the public for free, I have come to the conclusion that they should be contacting me, and that any facility who receives funding from any public group - city, state, and national, or any commercial group - should be required to publicize what they are offering - every exhibit. And, that info should be offered to any outlet - print, broadcast, or internet, that wants it. I have never understood why anyone would organize an exhibit and then not publicize it. That's just stupid, but that's what's going on in SC and in Spartanburg. It's a secret that shouldn't be kept to themselves.

In 2015, the SC Arts Commission, SC's official state arts agency, awarded cultural district status to the City of Spartanburg for Downtown Spartanburg. It says, this area includes 21 indoor live performance venues; nine outdoor performance venues; 43 galleries or exhibit spaces; 38 murals and other public art displays; five museums; 64 studios and workshops; six historic sites; 15 green spaces and arboretums; 251 creative industry and cultural jobs; and 1,335 events and festivals open to the public.

And according to this claim, beyond the 16 art spaces I've mentioned here there are 27 others I'm not hearing from on a regular basis. So, things are worse than I think.

What's the point of this commentary? I've tried reaching out to Spartanburg, but they don't seem to be interested in responding - at least on a regular basis. I think the community is doing great things there and offering a lot of support, but some folks are not doing their job in promoting what they have there, and that's a shame. Tourism opportunities are being missed and locals are going uninformed. I've reached out, but now I'm calling Spartanburg out - "Are you doing all this, funding all this, for yourselves or are you hoping others will stumble upon your secret? I'm waiting to tell our readers your good news - don't hide it from the rest of us."

My last word on this problem is that things could be improved if there was a list of outlets willing to provide free info in their outlets in South Carolina. I put that responsibility on the shoulders of the SC Arts Commission. And, the problem in every organization out there where someone is doing marketing or publicity is that no one trains their replacement. So every time someone leaves that position, whether paid or a volunteer - that info is lost and it takes a lot of time before the new person can catch up - if they ever do. I've seen it happen hundreds of times and many times new people don't even know which outlets they should be dealing with. I can guarantee you that if this commentary is brought up at an art venue in Spartanburg, you're going to hear someone say - "I never heard of Carolina Arts!". And, all I can say to that is if you're working in the visual arts in SC and you haven't heard of us - who's fault is that? We've been doing this 31 years here - how long have you been in our visual art community?

The Flip Side

Some people have asked me if I'm an official agent for the pottery community in Seagrove, NC. My answer is usually - not technically. Those potters do support us with advertising, but the main reason you read so much about them in our publication or on our social media outlets, is that they keep us well informed. Seagrove is a small town in NC where close to 100 potters work - a tradition that has been going on in that community for many generations. There's not much else there, but that's OK. People who have discovered Seagrove fall in love with it and make lifelong connections. The Seagrove pottery community is no best kept secret. If you know pottery, you know Seagrove. It's called the Center of Pottery in North Carolina, but it's more like the center of the pottery community in the South. That didn't happen on its own, those potters learned long ago to tell their story, where ever and when ever they can. And that is key to their success - beside the talents of the artists making the pottery.

This large community of potters in a small community are very organized (most of the time). I say that because when I first heard about Seagrove the potters were having a fight over an old pottery festival - the community was split in half. Now, no event (with one exception - that one old festival) happens there that I'm not well informed of - in advance. That's why you've heard about them so much from me and in our publication.

They're always ready to send or post beautiful photos of their works on social media and I share them. If I need something at the last minute, there are people I can contact and they'll respond with what I need - instantly.

Except for the dead of Winter, they have filled their yearly schedule with a host of events which are designed to bring pottery lovers into their community.

They spend money supporting Carolina Arts and I spent money with them by collecting pottery, but more importantly, they keep me informed and I return the favor by keeping our readers and followers on social media informed about what's going on in Seagrove. It's that simple.

Are You Part of a Best Kept Secret?

If after reading this, you feel like you, as an artist, an art gallery, a non-profit artspace or art museum, are part of a best kept secret, but you don't want to be - it's simple - create reasons for people to come check you out and inform us of those events, well in advance, so we can inform our readers.

Of course we'd love for you to advertise your events with us - advertising is how we exist, but your first step is to send us information, make contact, give us a call, or send an e-mail. You have to inform us, before we can inform anyone else.

We've got info posted on our website at (www.carolinaarts.com), just check out the section called, "How the Paper Works". We've got info there about what we need for gallery listings, press releases, and advertising.

Again, we're not a "you pay - you play" type of publication - sometimes I wish we were like most of the other publications, but we think it's more important to get the information for our readers, so you don't have to be an advertiser to get in Carolina Arts. Look, we treat our advertisers better than all the others, but that just makes sense.

So reach out to us - tell us and our readers your secret - we'll tell all we know. Carolina Arts, January 2019 - Page 5

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Carmen Osborn

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present The Art of Wander, featuring a collection of new works by Carmen Osborn, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Jan. 1 - 31, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 4, from 5-8pm.

Osborn's work is an expression of our individual journeys; encounters with the world around us, and the beauty in it. She has been drawing since she can remember. Growing up on a farm in the Midwest, her two favorite pastimes were drawing and wandering the countryside. As an adult, she continued to draw and paint, doing portrait commissions in both black and white charcoal and also portraits in oil and acrylic. She then began to experiment with soft pastel and sold her pastel landscapes at juried art festivals, winning awards for many of them over the years.

Osborn has traveled far beyond her Midwestern home since childhood and uses paint as a way to share not just the visual experience of her wanderings, but also the emotional response these places evoke. She believes her artwork is her most effective method of communication. Now, based in lovely Charleston, SC, Osborn is making the shift from creating landscapes in pastel, to acrylic. And of course, the inspiring low-country of South Carolina is always a great source of inspiration.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or call Steve Jacobs at 843/722-2454.

Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, Offers Two New Exhibits for the New Year

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, will offer two new exhibits this new year, including: Anna Heyward Taylor: Intrepid Explorer, on view in Gallery 9, from Jan. 18 through May 12, 2019, and Lying in Wait: Sporting Art by Ogden M. Pleissner, on view in Gallery 8, from Jan. 18 through May 12, 2019.

A native of Columbia, South Carolina, Anna Heyward Taylor (1879—1956) is best known as one of the principal artists of the Charleston Renaissance, a period of cultural rebirth in the city from roughly 1915 to 1940. Prior to settling in Charleston in 1929, Taylor traveled and studied widely, including trips to Holland in 1903 and England in 1904 as a student of William Merritt Chase. During 1908 and 1909 Taylor toured Europe with her sister Nell and in 1914 she visited Japan, Korea, and China. Taylor's travels also took her to the exotic locations of British Guiana in 1916 and 1920, the Virgin Islands in 1926, and Mexico in 1935 and 1936.

British Guiana, marking the life of a truly remarkable artist, scientist, and explorer.

This exhibition is sponsored by Blue-Cross BlueShield of South Carolina, Gaylord & Dorothy Donnelley Foundation, South Carolina Arts Commission, The City of Charleston and Charleston Mercury.

Addition support provided by Mariana Heyward Taylor Manning Family, John and Rebecca Shockley and Ellen Taylor Shockley Story, Dr. Edmund Rhett Taylor Family, and Reba and Dave Williams.

On view in Gallery 8 is Lying in Wait: Sporting Art by Ogden M. Pleissner.

Ogden Pleissner was a master of the watercolor medium. His paintings are luminous and expressive, yet also capture his subjects in wonderful detail. Pleissner had a gift for capturing fleeting moments of time - the tug on a fishing line or the pregnant pause as a hunter sets his sights. These reflective moments immerse viewers in the beauty of the land and convey the importance of protecting our natural environment.

Lying in Wait celebrates Ogden Pleissner's life and work as a noted sporting arts painter. His hunting, fishing, and landscape paintings reflect his deep reverence for wildlife and the natural world. The forty-eight watercolors on view depict scenes from Wyoming to Maine to the South Carolina coast during his illustrious career that spanned from the late 1920s until his death in 1983.

Lying in Wait was organized by the Shelburne Museum in Shelburne, Vermont.

This exhibition is sponsored by Blue-Cross BlueShield of South Carolina, Gaylord and Dorothy Donnelley Foundation, South Carolina Arts Commission, The City of Charleston, Garden & Gun Magazine and Charleston Magazine.

"Carolina Paroquet", 1935, by Anna Heyward Taylor (American, 1879-1956); Woodblock print on paper; 11 x 9 1/2 inches; Gift of Anna Heyward Taylor.

This exhibition focuses on Taylor's visits to British Guiana as she created a substantial body of work during these trips. Taylor traveled to British Guiana as a staff artist for the scientific expedition led by naturalist William Beebe. There she created sketches and watercolor paintings of jungle foliage and animals. Once back in the United States she created batiks and woodblock prints based on her observations.

Drawn from the Gibbes Museum's collection, this exhibition features stunning watercolor paintings that have never been on view to the public. Several paintings on loan from The Charleston Museum provide insight into Taylor's scientific interests as well as her artistic pursuits. For the first time, this exhibition brings together Taylor's watercolors, batiks, and woodblock prints inspired by her adventurous travels in

The Gibbes Museum of Art is home to the foremost collection of American art that incorporates the story of Charleston. The Museum connects the city and region's artistic past to a vibrant contemporary art scene. This is what we believe. When the Gibbes Museum opened in 1905, the nation celebrated what Charleston has always understood: the power of art - to inspire our imagination, heal our hurt, revel in our experience, rebuild what's broken, nourish our souls, and release all that holds us back.

Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, Offers Works by Palmer Family

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Generations, featuring works created by eight members of the renowned Palmer family of artists, on view from Jan. 5 through Feb. 25, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 17, from 5-7pm.

The Palmers' connection to Hilton Head Island began over fifty years ago and since then family members have been active in the local art community while also enjoying critical and professional success well outside the geographic confines of the Lowcountry. This exhibition will showcase their spectacular works of art, but it will also share stories of this area's history and personal reminiscences. Jim Palmer and his wife Barbara moved to Hilton Head Island in 1965, initiating this creative family's long-standing connection to and influence on the community.

According to Addison Palmer, Jim's son and one of the featured professional artists on exhibit, his family "has been and continues to be very creative. Having a family that is so strong in the visual arts, is unique. Being able to have everyone together to showcase our artwork and to tell our history of being on Hilton Head Island, is a true pleasure for the Palmer family."

The Palmer family's artworks, and connection to the area make this exhibition a perfect match for the Coastal Discovery Museum. Natalie Hefter, Vice Present of Programs, explained that the unique part of this exhibition, "is sharing many of the family's stories from the past five decades." The museum is dedicated to bringing the area's history, culture, environment, and art alive for our visitors and residents.

This exhibition will bring attention to our natural beauty as well as stories of our more recent past. In a recent conversation with Jim Palmer, Hefter says, "he shared many personal reflections about Hilton Head and Lowcountry events and the family's connection to them. Jim has lots of great stories to share!"

Work by Addison Palmer

Born in Columbia, SC, Jim Palmer attended the University of South Carolina in 1960 before going on to study at the Atlanta School of Art in 1964. In 1965 he and his wife, Barbara, moved to Hilton Head Island. Immediately after moving to the island he became involved with the Hilton Head Island Chamber of Commerce and was involved in the origins of its monthly publication, Islander, designing its cover (including its masthead and providing original works for the covers). Jim was also a contributing artist to the Island Events Magazine and has painted many Lowcountry scenes that grace homes and businesses throughout the country.

Jim Palmer was the illustrator for two books written by local authors: A Corner of South Carolina (by Edith Inglesby) and Moonshadows. His work has been included in many regional and national juried and museum exhibitions, in multiple "one-man" shows, and his pieces are in many private, corporate, and public collections around the country and the world. A few noteworthy individuals and collections with Jim Palmer paintings include: former Presidents Jimmy Carter and Dwight Eisenhower, former South Carolina Governor Robert McNair, singer John Denver, and Arnold Palmer's Bay Hill Club in Windemere, FL.

In his more than 45 years of creating what he calls "people cleverly disguised as birds" Walter Palmer has been commissioned to create his flights of fancy for luxury hotels, commercial sites and a long list of private collectors here and abroad. After graduation from Atlanta College of Art, Walter Palmer divided his time between Hilton Head Island and the Florida Keys, where he became an active participant in the art communities in both areas.

He has donated work annually to the Evening of the Arts since its inception. Local public examples of his work may be seen here at Honey Horn, The Westin Resort, Belfair Plaza, Van der Meer Tennis Center. Currently Walter Palmer is involved with the town of St. Mary's, GA, where he has been commissioned to begin an ongoing project, "Owls on Osborne," placement of small bronze owls in key areas of interest around the town.

James Addison Palmer III was born in Savannah, GA, in August of 1970. He has spent most of his life on the coast of South Carolina on Hilton Head Island. Since an early age, Addison has drawn and painted the world around him. He comes from a strong artistic background. His Great Grandfather (Harry Palmer) was a pen and ink artist in New York. He created and developed animation and short films and did portraits for publications around the world. His father (Jim Palmer) is a renowned landscape painter.

Addison graduated from Hilton Head High School in 1989. He had full scholarships to go to the Chicago Institute for the Arts and others, but he chose to attend Brevard College because of its strong art, academic, and running programs. He attended Brevard on a full scholarship in the arts.

Addison was a competitive runner for many years. Trying to make the 1996 Olympic team, he had an Olympic standard time in the marathon in 1995.

After attending Brevard College, Addison moved to St. Simons Island, GA, where he opened his own art gallery and studio in 1995. Since the age of thirteen, he has been painting full time, doing commissions, shows, and work for galleries. From day one he has painted the world around him in his landscapes, seascapes, wildlife, and portraits. His work is in many business and personal collections in the United States and internationally.

Along with his painting, Addison is asked to teach painting workshops throughout the eastern United States. Since 1997 he has been invited to teach painting classes and to demonstrate his work on world cruises including those on the Cunard and Seabourn lines. He was the first fine artist (painter) to teach on world cruises.

Addison has won numerous awards and has also shared his paintings to support numerous organizations and fundraisers. In September 2018, Addison was invited to show one of his paintings in the internationally renowned exhibit "Birds in Art." Only ninety artists (both 2 and 3 Dimensional) were invited to participate in the 43rd annual exhibition at the prestigious Leigh Yawkey Woodson Art Museum in Wasau, WI.

The Coastal Discovery Museum is located on Honey Horn Drive, Hilton Head Island, SC.

University of South Carolina Upstate in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Mana Hewitt

The University of South Carolina Upstate in Spartanburg, SC, will present Persistence, featuring works by Columbia, SC, based artist, Mana Hewitt, on view in the Curtis R. Harley Gallery, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 15, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 31, beginning at 4:30pm, in the gallery located in the Performing Arts Center.

The exhibit is offered, "In recognition of the courage and perseverance of women who have challenged societal perceptions and worked to improve conditions for all."

Rooted in metalsmithing and jewelry, Mana Hewitt's work varies in media, scale and execution, including sculpture, painting, and wearable objects. Hewitt holds undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of South Carolina where she teaches in the School of Visual Arts and Design, and serves as director of Undergraduate Studies. Hewitt has been awarded grants from the South Carolina Arts Commission, was named Visual Arts Craft Fellow in 2006, and has exhibited her work throughout the southeast. As former director of the McMaster Gallery at USC in Columbia, Hewitt has curated numerous exhibitions and continues to serve as judge for competitive art exhibitions.

a boy's job. Girls could sweep and clap the erasers, and eating dust became a metaphor for being left behind. These little insults fester, they reside in the psyche throughout our lives. But as my life progressed, an idea percolating deep within my thoughts was unleashed. I wanted to recognize women and their struggle to be heard. Historically men have received medals for service and bravery. I have chosen to create a series of commemorative medals in recognition of the courage and perseverance of women who have challenged societal perceptions and worked to improve conditions for all. They are intended familiarize and instruct, lest we forget the women that have forged a path to give us voice today."

Upstate Gallery Director Jane Nodine stated, "I am pleased to present the work of Mana Hewitt whom I have known and respected for many years. Mana has a keen interest in materials and processes that she merges with content and meaning. The 'Persistence' series will interest all types of visitors to the Harley Gallery with a focus on historical female figures in well-crafted brooch-like medals. It is a great example of history, commemoration and art converging."

West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by New Members

West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, will present New Creations, an exhibit showcasing the creative work of its seven newest members, on view from Jan. 2 through Feb. 2, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 17, from 5-9pm.

The seven presenting artists will be photographer Pete Harding, glass artist Richard Debus, ceramist Patrick Henry, painter

Andy Donnan, glass artist Judy Martin, painter Roderice Cardell "TheMaddArtist," and leather artist Dewi Maya.

"This is a most-important exhibit for the Co-op," Chair Beth Regula said. "This is the opportunity for our newest members and their work to be introduced to the community and for the community to see what is new at the Co-op. This year, the exhibit is especially nice because of the diversity of the work. We have two painters, two glass artists, a ceramist, a photographer, and a leather artist. Each one of these artists had to apply to be a member at the Co-op, which included submitting samples of their work for consideration. These artists are at different stages of their artistic careers, but each has the quality and creativity that we look for at the Co-op. I encourage everyone to see this exhibit and get to know them and their work."

Pete Harding said, "Growing up in England, my mother would take me for walks across the local fields and tell me about all of the wild flowers, birds, insects, and wildlife we would chance upon. I marveled at the wonders that might be found on a blade of grass or under a petal or leaf, and as I grew up and began to travel and hike across the UK I fell in love with the majestic landscapes. This is the inspiration for my photography, the desire to bring all the splendor and majesty of nature back from wherever I travel."

Richard Debus has chosen fused glass as his favorite medium. He enjoys mixing glass colors, a little unbalanced and sometimes against the norm. Making plates, platters, and bowls, he describes them as, "Color Makes Eating Fun." Debus has always liked art, starting at a young age watching his grandmother make mosaics using seeds and small pieces of tile. His hobby of stained glass kept him busy for 40 years while working for Ma Bell (Bell Telephone Company), and now enjoys fused glass since retiring in 2012.

Patrick Henry said, "I am moved to make things that share harmony and humor. The classical ceramics of ancient Greece and Asia have a timeless balance that guides me to find harmony in my own work. And I want to have fun! There is a playfulness to much of my work, although I'm quite serious about getting to the smile. Good humor often sits atop something severe, asking us to pause and think beyond the laughter. And harmony would not exist without discord. Those are my guides to making."

Andy Donnan said, "I continually find differences in my style an adventure. The chance to escape the real world and to fall into my painting is a gift that I want to share with everyone. My subject matter is as varied as my color palette, and I hope some of my work speaks to you. I am lucky to show with such a diverse group of talented and supportive artists."

Judy Martin said, "The inspiration for my work comes from colors, water, sounds and nature in general. Almost anything that strikes me at the time that makes me smile, relax, and think. A rusted steel beam, a tombstone, and a building have inspired me. Thinking of what I can do with that image and putting it into glass is my real inspiration for my work."

Roderice Cardell, a.k.a "TheMaddArtist" said, "I believe everything is connected and everything is art. I usually begin a new painting with random brush strokes of color, or I sling paint onto the canvas to create violent and uncontrolled responses to the music. The work's unpredictability and intuitively create a responsibility to the rhythm of the music and emotional connection I have with the content of the music. I connect sound to emotion, and I see colors when I hear the music. The music gives me a sense of direction when I create. Nothing is ever planned! I guess it takes the fun out of creating. Most of my most recent work has been influenced by taking a big risk and finding new combinations that I had not done before. It excites me to see my experiments come alive. Sometimes I think my paintings have a mind of their own. The way they speak to me while I meditate. I listen and the vibrations of the music in the room help me connect to my abilities and allow me to surrender to the canvas and become one with the art. As a musician, everything I create is full circle. When I create, life makes way more sense."

Dewi Maya said, "Good work in my opinion is art that does not imitate the work of others. Good material and leather selection also support the beauty of a work of art. I am learning to be better and more honest in my art. Thank you for appreciating my creativity."

West Main Artists Co-op is a non-profit arts gallery located on West Main Street in Spartanburg. It has about 50 members printmaking, ceramics, and sculpture.

Each artist has grown in artistic practice since graduating from Converse College, taking on new media and shifting subject matter that progressed from their original course of study. In addition to their campus connection, the work of these artists shares overarching themes of memory, nostalgia, storytelling and the idea of their work being more than what meets the eye at first glance. Participating artist Linda Hudgins '61 said, "I am grateful to be selected for this exhibition as an alumnae and also to have the opportunity to share my visual voice with Spartanburg."

Featuring glass walls on two sides, Miliken Art Gallery provides an exhibit space with visual access to exhibitions around the clock. During much of the year, the gallery is filled by the work of a wide variety of professional artists. In addition to exhibiting, visiting artists present workshops and lectures that are open to the public. In April and May, the gallery displays exhibits by Converse students.

eastern Cuba, Hensley and his wife Brigid began making regular visits to the area, delivering art materials from village to village. To do this, Hensley established the Eastern Cuba Cultural Exchange Association, enabling him to take in supplies and, at the same time, acquire a unique collection of artworks directly from the artists. In 2006, Art and Antiques Magazine nominated Hensley and his wife for inclusion into the Top 100 Collectors of Art in America.

Included in the exhibition are three artists that exemplify the diversity, vibrance, and range of the collection: Jorge Rodríguez Cedeño, Jorge Luis Hernández Pouyú, and José Julián Aguilera Vicente.

Gallery director Jane Nodine said, "In our continued efforts to promote the Upstate Gallery on Main as an outreach venue to the community, I am pleased we were able to connect with the Center for International Studies and offer an exhibit representing works of artists from Cuba. We welcome the chance to showcase international exhibits."

Jorge Rodríguez Cedeño was born in Bayamo, Cuba in 1973 and obtained prominence through his specialty of classical Cuban landscape painting. His paintings evoke the spirit of the Cuban countryside, portraying the "campesinos," the peasant farmers and their way of life, beautifully capturing the unique atmosphere of this tropical region. Works by Jorge Rodríguez Cedeño were included in the recent 4-year tour of the US titled, Cuba Oriente: Contemporary Painting from Eastern Cuba.

Jorge Luis Hernández Pouyú, born in 1967, first studied art at the José Joaquín Tejada School of Visual Arts. In 1985 he moved to Havana, where he joined the Eduardo Abela Experimental Painting Workshop and worked at the Rene Portocarrero Silkscreen Workshop, affiliated with the Cuban Cultural Foundation. He participated in the Julio Le Parc Workshop and the 2nd Biennial of Havana in 1986. Hernández Pouyú currently lives and works in his hometown of Santiago de Cuba.

José Julián Aguilera Vicente (1933-2013) received his artistic education at the José Joaquín Tejada Academy, where he subsequently worked as a director and instructor for generations of painters, sculptors and engravers. He also taught at the Normal School, the Higher Education Institute of Santiago de Cuba, and Eastern University. Aguilera was one of the founders of the Artistic Collective in Oriente and a member of the Gallery Group, a collective that revolutionized arts in Santiago during the 1950s. He was included in 11 solo exhibitions internationally and participated in more than 100 group exhibitions in Cuba.

UPSTATE Gallery on Main extends a heartfelt thank you to Rob Rowen, founder of Nuance Galleries, for the generous loan of these artworks. Additional information on the Clyde Hensley Collection of East Cuban Art can be accessed at Nuance Galleries' website at (www.nuancegalleries.com).

Anderson Arts Center in Anderson, SC, Features Two New Exhibitions

The Anderson Arts Center in Anderson, SC, will present two new exhibits including: Cuatro Caballeros, featuring works by Tom Gibson, Craig Johnson, Frank Mathias, and Bill Rush, on view in the Main Gallery, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 14, 2019, and Celebrating Women in Art, features 25 abstract expressionist artists, all members of Inside/Out, from across the US, from California to New Jersey, and Massachusetts to Florida, on view in the Atrium Gallery, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 14, 2019. A reception will be held for both exhibits on Jan. 11, from 6:30-8:30pm.

Kathy Roman, an exhibiting artists defines our abstractive works as: "The rhythms and energies that flow throughout the exhibit unite the diversity of the group who share an intuitive approach to painting. Twenty-five individual voices, each with her own perspective and style, share a common starting point - the process. Feelings, experiences and memories are expressed using mark, shape, and color to reveal an inner narrative. The paintings are meant to be experienced, rather than to depict or to mean something concrete. Viewers are invited to interpret them through their own life experi-

Furman University in Greenville, SC, Offers Works by Laura Tanner Graham

Furman University in Greenville, SC, will present Everything That Rises, featuring works by Laura Tanner Graham, assistant professor of art in the School of Art at the University of Arizona, on view in the Thompson Gallery of the Roe Art Building, from Jan. 22 through Feb. 22, 2019. A reception including a talk with the artist is set for Feb. 4, from 6-7:30pm in the Roe Art Building.

Tanner Graham's work references historical socio-political events to probe the contradictions between perceived and experienced narratives in contemporary Western society. Implementing appropriated and invented imagery, she says her work "exposes the unceasing current of systemic colonialism."

In a statement, Tanner Graham says, "My drawings act as a visual archive of research that examines the consequences of American colonialism and addresses the sense of white fragility that continues to pervade Western culture."

diversity." Tanner Graham has exhibited nationally in both group and solo exhibitions including the Weatherspoon Art Museum, the Ogden Museum of Southern Art, and the Jonathan Ferrara Gallery in New Orleans. She has been invited to participate in several national art fairs including Pulse!, Miami; Prospect.4 in New Orleans; and the Art on Paper fair during Armory week in New York City.

She has also served as a visiting artist at several academic institutions, among them, Tulane University and the University of Alabama.

Tanner Graham's work has been supported through fellowships and residencies at the Ucross Foundation, the Vermont Studio Center, and Hambidge Center for the Creative Arts and Sciences.

She holds a Master of Fine Arts from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and a Bachelor of Fine Arts from Florida State University.

University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Lauren Kalman

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, will present Devices for Filling a Void, with excerpts from But if the Crime is Beautiful..., featuring a solo exhibition by Lauren Kalman, on view in the McMaster Gallery, from Jan. 24 through Feb. 28, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 24, from 5-7, with a Gallery Talk at 6pm.

This exhibition will literally fill the voids of the facial orifices, but the title also implies a psychological filling of emotional or erotic voids. The title points to ideas about women being incomplete or lacking, requiring augmentation by men, objects, dress, makeup, and adornment.

Many of the pieces directly reference historic reconstructive surgery devices, but rather than coaxing the body into an ideal position they distort it through actions like expanding the nostrils and holding the mouth open. The work references objects of desire and beauty through the lexicon of jewelry and the uncontrolled body with forms similar to growths and medical devices. The ideal and its corollary, the grotesque, are implied in each piece.

The objects are built using gold-plated electroformed copper, fabricated brass and silver, and slip cast and hand built ceramics that are molded to the body and used to produce photographs.

Kalman is a visual artist based in Detroit, MI, whose practice is invested in the history of adornment, contemporary craft, video, photography and performance. Through her work she investigates beauty, adornment, body image, and the built environment through performances using female body.

Raised in the Midwest, Kalman completed her MFA in Art and Technology from the Ohio State University and earned a BFA in Metals from Massachusetts College of Art.

Her work has been featured in exhibitions at the Renwick Gallery at the Smithsonian Museum of American Art, Museum of Arts and Design, Cranbrook Art Museum, Contemporary Art Museum Houston, Museum of Fine Arts Boston, Mint Museum, World Art Museum in Beijing, and Musée d'Art Moderne de la Ville de Paris. Her work is in the permanent collection of Museum of Fine Arts Boston, Smithsonian

Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, Offers Works by Robert Childers, Kevin Morrissey, and Walter Simpson

The Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, will present Southern Gentlemen, featuring works by Robert Childers, Kevin Morrissey, and Walter Simpson, on view in the Dalton Gallery at the Center for the Arts, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 10, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 10, from 5:30-7:30pm.

With a drawl that's slow and sweet as molasses, this exhibit offers reflections and deliberations on the dualities of spirituality, explorations of rural and mill life, and an emphasis on the musicality of life that is inherently Southern.

Robert Childers' southern folk art draws from his experiences growing up in a small town in the Carolinas. His work is inspired by the historical, musical, religious, and political aspects of southern culture he has experienced firsthand. He uses art as a means of telling stories relating to themes such as religion, racial tension, and small-town life.

Childers is a visual artist and musician from Mount Holly, NC. He has always been engaged with the arts and continues to create music, stories, visual works of art, and graffiti.

Work by Walt Simpson

Kevin Morrissey's artwork depicts his reactions to growing up in the south, placing an emphasis on the southern community and alluding to the remnants of an agricultural and industrial presence. Morrissey emphasizes philosophical binaries in his unique works featuring tools, which symbolize free will, as canvases which he contrastingly marks with religious icons of both a historic and personal nature.

Morrissey is an art educator who has taught art classes for MonArts in Charlotte NC, Queens University Summer Camp in Charlotte, NC, and the Gibbes Museum of

Work by Robert Childers

Art in Charleston, SC. He currently teaches visual art at Rollings Middle School in Summerville, SC. The artist received his BFA in Art Education from Winthrop University in 2003 and is currently enrolled in the Masters of Arts Administration program at Winthrop.

Walt Simpson captures the essence of the rural south and its roots in his renderings of rural imagery, mid-twentieth century factory-town houses, animals, and landscapes. His works acknowledge the extent to which mills and manufacturing played a role in defining the south and are inspired by outsider and contemporary art.

Simpson is a visual artist, graphic designer, and educator living in South Carolina. He received an MFA degree in Graphic Design from the Savannah College of Art and Design in 2009.

Also at the Center for the Arts: Familiar, works by Andrew Davis will be on display in the Perimeter Gallery at the Center for the Arts, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 10, 2019, and The South Pointe High School Photography Exhibit will be on display in the Edmund D. Lewandowski Classroom Gallery at the Center for the Arts, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 10, 2019.

The Arts Council is headquartered in downtown Rock Hill, a state-recognized cultural district.

Davidson College in Davidson, NC, Features Works by Hiwa K

Davidson College in Davidson, NC, will present Eyes See Far, Hands Too Short to Reach, featuring works by Hiwa K, on view in the Van Every/Smith Galleries, from Jan. 14 through Mar. 1, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 31, from 7:30-9:30pm, with an artist talk at 6pm.

Born in 1975 in Sulaymaniyah, Kurdistan, Iraq, Hiwa K creates sculptures, videos, and performances that are often more about the process than the product. Weaving together oral history, anecdotes, political events, and personal memories – including the artist's journey on foot from Iraq to Germany, seeking asylum – Hiwa K's participatory, collaborative works explore migration, colonialism, war, protest, violence, and identity.

Using video to document his actions and interactions, he illuminates otherness and the in-between through his occupation of diverse roles, such as artist, musician, interviewer, instigator, and infiltrator. He plays a harmonica while walking through a crowded protest, dances within the walls of an abandoned prison, melts down old weapons to cast an ornate bell, and cooks a communal meal with his mother via Skype, in an effort to shift our perspective both literally and symbolically between the sky and the ground, the individual and the collective, place and placelessness, belonging and alienation, East and West, terror and beauty.

Hiwa K attended the Akademie der Bildende Kunst in Mainz, Germany, and was a guest student at Städelschule Frankfurt. His awards include the Arnold Bode Prize; Schering Stiftung Art Award; Kunstfonds Grant; and Goethe Institut Grant. He has had major exhibitions at S.M.A.K. Museum of Contemporary Art, Ghent; New Museum, New York; Documenta 14, Kassel and Athens; KW Institute for Contemporary Art, Berlin; Venice Biennale; La Triennale, Paris; Serpentine Gallery, London; and Manifesta 7, Bolzano. Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Features Group Show

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, will present When Worlds Collide, featuring works by photographers Nancy O. Albert and Meg Greene Malvasi, and painter Leigh Williams, on view in the CPCC Art Galleries, located in Overcash Center, from Jan. 10 through Mar. 14, 2019. An Artist Group Lecture will be offered on Jan. 31, from 5-6pm, in Tate Hall, with a reception held from 6-8pm in Ross Gallery.

The exhibition features Nancy O. Albert, Meg Greene Malvasi, and Leigh Williams, whose works employ different approaches while addressing the idea of chemistry and art.

At first glance, it may seem that the relationship of chemistry and art could not be further apart. But in art, chemistry is desired, even necessary, for creation and expression. While not all chemists are artists, it can be said that all artists are chemists in their pursuit through experimentation and study of various materials – whether paint, photographic film, metal, glass or clay.

In this special exhibition, each artist explores the idea of chemistry as both a literal and symbolic process in her body of work. Nancy Albert's digital photographic images focus on the interaction of nature's processes with urban and industrial structures. Meg Greene Malvasi submerges Polaroid images into tubs of water and other chemicals, to create corroded-like images rearranging color, light and shapes. Leigh Williams' works draw on the interaction of alcohol inks and acrylics with a variety of substrates. Active experimentation, resulting reactions, and creative controls all contribute to each artist's process.

Personal chemistry too, plays a role. Working with each other, the artists combine their own energies and vision to the idea of chemistry and art. The end result is a collection of work showcasing how chemical compositions, creative processes, and the interactions of people come together to create art.

Queens University of Charlotte in Charlotte, NC, Offers Annual Exhibit of Latino Works

Queens University of Charlotte in Charlotte, NC, will present the eighth annual exhibition Arte Latino Now 2019, on view at the Max L. Jackson Gallery in Watkins Building, from Jan. 17 through Feb. 17, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 17, from 5:30-7:30pm. There will be a reading of works by the writers included in the exhibition at 7:30pm.

Sponsored by The Center for Latino Studies at Queens University of Charlotte in partnership with Queens' Departments of Art and World Languages, Art Sí and artist Edwin Gil, Arte Latino Now 2019 seeks to highlight the exciting cultural and artistic contributions of Latinos in the United States. We invite artists who self-define as Latino and live and work in the United States to submit an original creative work in their medium of choice. Categories considered include New Media, Visual Arts, Performing Arts (including dance, theater, and music) and Creative Writing. Queens has been pleased to support this event for the last eight years and is excited that entries have increasingly been submitted from across the United States.

belief that the "hispanization/latinization" of the American South and the southern Piedmont in particular is one of the South's and one of the United States' most compelling stories. Latino and Latin American migration to the South has dramatically changed the region's workforce, economy, culture, politics and everyday life.

Among other efforts, the Center for Latino Studies at Queens University of Charlotte has collected more than 100 oral histories that highlight the personal stories of individual Latino immigrants. We are in the process of establishing a method to make these oral histories available to researchers. The Center is also developing embedded research in classes to create a greater awareness of Latino artists, musicians and writers (See Student Products here: <https://queenslatinostudies.wixsite.com/queenslatinostudies>) in the US by providing increased visibility on a national level, and multiple Queens faculty have increased participation in Charlotte area initiatives supporting the Latino community.

Dr. Michele Shaul, the Director of the Center for Latino Studies, co-founded and co-edits in collaboration with Dr. Kathryn Quinn-Sánchez of Georgian Court University the literary journal Label Me Latina/o (www.labelmelatinao.com). Label Me Latina/o is an online, refereed international e-journal that focuses on Latino Literary Production in the United States in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. The journal invites scholarly essays focusing on these writers for its biannual publication. Label Me Latina/o also publishes creative literary

This exhibition features the works of Latino artists selected through a national competition and will include works by visual artists: Luis Ardila, Diego Camposeco, José Esquivel, Carla Forte, Julio Gonzalez, María Hasbún, Michael Irizarry-Pagan, Zaire Kacz, Rocío Llusca, Tina Medina, José Pardo, Gustavo Plascencia, Jeanny Sandoval, María Senkel, Byron Tenesaca, Al Torres, Alexey Taran, Al Torres and as well as literary pieces by Melissa Coss Aquino, Gabriel Aquino, Ayendy Bonifacio, Yvette Corredor, Oswaldo Estrada, Kurma Murrain, Dahlma Llanos Figueroa and Alberto Quero.

Arte Latino Now is a project of Queens' Center for Latino Studies which began more than eighteen years ago because of the pieces whose authors self-define as Latina or Latino regardless of thematic content. Interviews of Latino or Latina authors will also be considered. Label Me Latina/o is indexed by the MLA International Bibliography, is listed in the MLA Directory of Periodicals and is a member of Latinoamericana: Asociación de revistas académicas en Humanidades y Ciencias Sociales. Our articles are discoverable on EBSCOhost research databases. ISSN 2333-4584.

The projects undertaken by the Center for Latino Studies seek to tell the story of the Latino presence in the greater Charlotte area and, in some cases nationally and internationally, not only recording history and culture, but also opening dialogue between people about the future of the community in which we live. Such dialogue will encourage creative and cooperative solutions to problems and create a more humane and generous community.

Mint Hill Arts in Mint Hill, SC, Offers Work by Jennifer McCormick

Mint Hill Arts in Mint Hill, SC, will present There is Healing in a Story: An Invitation to Spiritual Art, featuring works by Jennifer McCormick, on view from Jan. 23 through Feb. 22, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 25, from 7-9pm.

Mint Hill Arts is proud to feature the stunning, provocative spiritual art of Winston-Salem, NC, artist Jennifer McCormick. McCormick, a certified medical illustrator, uses x-rays of real injuries submitted to her in her work and transforms them into images of healing and hope.

McCormick earned a master's degree in Medical and Biological Illustration from Johns Hopkins University and worked as a medical illustrator at the University of Miami Leonard M. Miller School of Medicine. After a second career teaching figure drawing and animation at the International Fine Arts College in Miami, she founded Art for Law & Medicine, Inc., which provides medical demonstrative evidence for attorneys and their clients.

McCormick found that illustrating trauma on a daily basis led her to wonder about the spiritual aspects of healing. She discovered that a diagnostic image can become an emotional Rorschach test that inspires meditations on the patient's recovery. The resulting art, which she refers to as "x-ray visions," has been shown in both solo and group exhibitions around the country and was the subject of a Tedx talk in 2015 called "Mindful Creativity." She was invited recently to address the attendees of the Spiritist Medical Association in Miami; there she learned how clinicians are acknowledging spirituality in therapeutic settings and at the bedside.

McCormick's show is co-sponsored with Mint Hill Arts by the Marianne Oberg Foundation for the Spiritual Arts (MOFSA). MOFSA was founded by Robert Oberg in memory of his wife Marianne, an accomplished artist, student, and practitioner of spiritualism and active member of Mint Hill Arts until her untimely death in 2012. The mission of MOFSA is to inspire, encourage and support the creation of spiritual art.

McCormick is the recipient of MOFSA's first spiritual grant. She says that MOFSA's grant gave her full permission to explore spirituality in a way she had not done before. The results of her exploration will be the focus of There is Healing in a Story: An Invitation to Spiritual Art.

Hickory Museum of Art in Hickory, NC, Features Works by Elliott Daingerfield

The celebration of Hickory Museum of Art's milestone 75th birthday will center on the first-of-its-kind blockbuster exhibit A GRAND VISION Elliott Daingerfield Paints Grandfather Mountain and the Grand Canyon, on view through Apr. 20, 2019. Organized by the Museum's team in collaboration with the artist's grandson, Joe Daingerfield Dulaney, the exhibition evokes the days of the Museum's founding and spotlights the creative processes of the acclaimed National Academician Elliott Daingerfield, even while it anchors in the present with a series of related events and activities.

Elliott Daingerfield was born in Harper's Ferry, VA (now WV). In 1886, then 25 years old and already an established New York City painter, Daingerfield traveled to Blowing Rock, NC, with his wife to recuperate from diphtheria. It was the beginning of his long devotion to Blowing Rock where he maintained summer homes with his family for the rest of his life. Simultaneously, he continued his successful artistic career in New York City and, after 1910, in the Southwest and in California. In particular, Grandfather Mountain and the Grand Canyon would emerge as recurring subjects that brought both inspiration and fame throughout Daingerfield's artistic career. He is considered one of North Carolina's most prolific artists.

Hickory Museum of Art's exhibit will be the first to bring together Daingerfield's magnificent portrayals of these two geographical monuments. A GRAND VISION will include masterworks on loan from the Morris Museum of Art in Augusta, GA, The Johnson Collection in Spartanburg, SC, Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, as well as many more works and artifacts from private collections and the artist's family. All were chosen to create a first-of-its kind story about Daingerfield's creative process, life, and relationship to the two beloved landmarks.

HMA Executive Director Jon Carfagno described the exhibition, "Designed to engage audiences of all ages, the show will feature breathtaking and art historically significant masterworks, as well as many features that are perfect for children. From a working model train that follows the route Elliott Daingerfield took from Chicago's Dearborn Station to the south Rim of the Grand Canyon, to a special galley guide brochure filled with activities for kids, the galleries will be filled with opportunities to learn about creativity through a great story."

Also in the exhibit will be works from Hickory Museum of Art's own permanent collection, some of which have not been on exhibit for going on twenty years. These works have been chosen to celebrate this community's commitment to building a world class museum ever since the Museum's founding 75 years ago. "This exhibition is such a fitting tribute to our Founding Director Paul Whitener's vision for bringing the best in American Art to Hickory" said Carfagno.

A series of events will surround and enhance the exhibit, including:

On Jan. 12 - "DAINGERFIELD + DANGERFIELD NIGHT" featuring a tour of the exhibit at 6pm and then at 7pm a film screening. (Free for HMA Members or $10 Non-Members) This will be a unique pairing of everybody's favorite Da(i)ngerfields - Elliott Daingerfield [1859-1932] & Rodney Dangerfield [1921-2004]. First, join Jon Carfagno, HMA Executive Director, in the galleries for a tour of A GRAND VISION. Then at 7pm, walk down the hall to the Drendel Auditorium for a screening of Back to School starring Rodney Dangerfield.

On Mar. 9, from 10am-noon - DIRECTOR'S CIRCLE EVENT. HMA's Director's Circle Members ($1,000 and up) will be invited to a special Daingerfield program and brunch. (Invitations will be mailed.)

On Mar. 26, at 10:30am - WHO CARES SERIES: ELLIOTT DAINGERFIELD. (Free for HMA Members or $5 Non-Members). HMA's March Who Cares series highlights why anyone should care about the life and work of Elliott Daingerfield. This event is taking place on what would have been Daingerfield's 160th birthday, so there will of course be cake.

On Apr. 20 - MEMBERS-ONLY TRIP: FOOTSTEPS OF ELLIOTT DAINGERFIELD BLOWING ROCK TOUR. (Call Molly Blanchard at 828/327-8576, ext. 201 for more info). A special trip that follows the footsteps of Elliott Daingerfield during his summers spent in Blowing Rock. See the vistas and architectural features depicted in his artwork, and tour Daingerfield's former residences. The day will end with "Glow Time," a reception on the west lawn of Westglow, the mansion Daingerfield built that is now home to Westglow Resort and Spa.

The Hickory Museum of Art was founded by Paul Whitener in 1944 to collect, foster, and preserve American art. Faced with the challenge of bringing art to Hickory, Paul connected with artists in their various forms. Eight works were collected that year. Today, almost 75 years later, the museum has evolved into an arts center featuring an extensive permanent collection of art objects across all mediums as well as a variety of education classes and events for all ages. Hickory Museum of Art brings people together from all walks of life and inspires creativity in a way that launches the Unifour region (Catawba, Caldwell, Burke, and Alexander Counties) forward as a leader in innovation and culture. The museum represents and promotes our community as a center of innovative creativity and inclusivity through its commitment to visual arts, education, and collaboration. Hickory Museum of Art is located on the SALT Block, on 3rd Avenue NE in Hickory.

Blue Moon Gallery in Brevard, NC, Features Works by Olga Dorenko

Blue Moon Gallery in Brevard, NC, is featuring selected works from Asheville, NC, artist Olga Dorenko in an exhibit titled A New Life of Feelings, on view through Feb. 28, 2019.

Dorenko, who now lives in the Asheville area, is originally from Uzbekistan in the former Soviet Union. She spent her childhood living in different regions including Siberia and the Ukraine. She also traveled extensively throughout the regions with her family during school breaks. These travels and the natural beauty she experienced shaped her art and is evident in her work.

After completing her education at the Krivoy Rog Art Institute and working as a poster and mural painter for the Russian National Theater, Dorenko moved to the United States. She has lived in North Carolina since 1998, becoming an American citizen in 2008. Her gallery, the Olga Dorenko Fine Art Gallery, opened in 2006 and is in the River Arts District in Asheville. She also has a fine art studio in Leicester, NC.

Rob Travis is a photographer and owner of Blue Moon Gallery. He often seeks out local artists for exhibits who complement the variety of photography, jewelry and three-dimensional art at the gallery. "I was introduced to Olga through another talented Blue Moon Gallery artist and I was immediately drawn to her work. We have a great synergy of artists here and we're delighted that Olga is exhibiting her work in Brevard. Her colorful palette and expressive paintings communicate joy. Visitors to the gallery often remark on the playful and joyful attitude that comes across when they see her paintings."

Among the works in the exhibit are Mad River Canoe and Lake, a serene mountain lake. Most of her paintings in the exhibit are oil on canvas that are presented as embellished giclée's. Dorenko's book, The Art of Olga Dorenko, a colorful rendition with many examples of her painting is available at the gallery.

Blue Moon Gallery specializes in nature and landscape photography and offers paintings and three-dimensional art and jewelry.

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Lonnie Holley

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting Somewhere in a Dream I Got Lost: Works by Lonnie Holley, a solo exhibition showcasing the multi-faceted art and music of this prolific self-taught artist, on view through May 18, 2019.

Curated by Wendy Earle, Somewhere in a Dream I Got Lost will tie together the various threads of the artist's output, showcasing found-art sculptures, works on paper, steel sculpture and music and video selections from Holley's three albums. The works of art and music present a snapshot of Holley's artistic output from the last several years, mainly 2012–2018.

"Lonnie Holley is a fantastic artist and was due for a solo exhibition at SECCA, having first been exhibited here back in 1990 as part of the group exhibition Next Generation: Southern Black Aesthetic," said Wendy Earle, Curator at SECCA. "His work in every media illustrates his amazing energy and creativity. Holley can imbue each song, sculpture, even his iPhone collages, with deep meaning and historical reference. He is constantly questioning the world we live in and his place in it, and visitors to this exhibition will be able to create a lot of their own meanings from looking at his art."

Holley was born on Feb. 10, 1950, in Birmingham, AL. From the age of five, he worked various jobs: picking up trash at a drive-in movie theatre, washing dishes, and cooking. He lived in a whiskey house, on the state fairgrounds, and in several foster homes. His early life was chaotic and Holley was never afforded the pleasure of a real childhood.

Since 1979, Holley has devoted his life to the practice of improvisational creativity. His art and music, born out of struggle, hardship, but perhaps more importantly, out of furious curiosity and biological necessity, has manifested itself in drawing, painting, sculpture, photography, performance, and sound. Holley's sculptures are constructed from found materials in the oldest tradition of African American sculpture. Objects, already imbued with cultural and artistic metaphor, are combined into narrative sculptures that commemorate places, people, and events. His work is now in collections of major museums throughout the country, on permanent display in the United Nations, and has been displayed in the White House Rose Garden.

Holley did not start making and performing music in a studio nor does his creative process mirror that of the typical musician. His music and lyrics are improvised on the spot and morph and evolve with every event, concert, and recording. In Holley's original art environment, he would construct and deconstruct his visual works, repurposing their elements for new pieces. This often led to the transfer of individual narratives into the new work creating a cumulative composite image that has depth and purpose beyond its original singular meaning. The layers of sound in Holley's music, likewise, are the result of decades of evolving experimentation.

Holley continues to make art, record music, and tour occasionally, either alone or with collaborators. The songs and the shows are never the same, as Holley never performs the same song twice. He released his third album in September 2018 entitled MITH, which has already made numerous best album of 2018 lists.

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) is a creative leader of the arts in the Southeast, a museum boldly giving artists of the region a platform for visibility while connecting local communities with the international world of contemporary art. SECCA is an affiliate of the North Carolina Museum of Art, a division of the NC Department of Cultural Resources. SECCA receives operational funding from The Arts Council of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County. Additional funding is provided by the James G. Hanes Memorial Fund.

Andrejev Galleries in Louisburg, NC, Celebrates First Anniversary

Andrejev Galleries in Louisburg, NC, is celebrating their first year of business with an exhibit of contemporary modernist abstract painting, on view through Feb. 2, 2019.

"We have been exhibiting the best mid-century modernist art and abstraction available to us from family estates as well as contemporary modernist works," says the owners. "We decided modernist art was our specialization, especially the art of mid-century, because every artwork carried the artist's belief it was new, better than before and was shaping the future. Such positivity is in short supply now days and it has been our job to turn that around and conserve a market for mid century art and promote contemporary art grounded in modernist ideals and working methods."

"We are located in the downtown historic district of the city of Louisburg, NC - 105 S. Main Street, across from the old courthouse. We were fortunate to have collaborated with the city in the labor-intensive renovation of this 1912 storefront - you all can't imagine - and to have worked with Jonathan Franklin, an enlightened visionary city manager.

Partner Pamela Andrejev designed our space for its retro mid-century spirit. Partner Everett Mayo tapped fifty years of contacts to find quality art to market. We are proud to be a part of the for-real city renaissance.

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, Offers Work by Edward Christiana, Guy Danella and Helen Lowe Kendall

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, will present Mid-Century Modern Exhibition, featuring original artworks from Edward Christiana, Guy Danella and Helen Lowe Kendall; artists who flourished professionally between the 1940 and 90s, on view in the Mims Gallery, from Jan. 11 through Feb. 17, 2019.

All three of these artists were gifted painters with a half century of historic personal and significant modernist influences like Wassily Kandinsky's Non Objective Abstraction, Picasso's Cubism and Hans Hoffman's Abstract Expressionism that shaped their personal artistic developments, exhibitions and inclusion in important collections world-wide.

Edward Christiana [1912-1992] was a modernist painter interpreting ideas and observed subjects with free abstract expressionist handling of paint both in oil and watercolor. Christiana's energetic spirit is found in all his paintings. Evident bold brushwork and knife-work build his pictorial structure with color both washed on thin and applied impasto thick.

As a young man in the 1930s, Christiana was exposed to both conventional art training at Pratt Institute followed by an experimental unconventional modernist teaching program in the School of Related Arts and Sciences in upstate NY. His work can be found at the Albany Institute of History and Science; The Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, OH; Currier Gallery of Art, Manchester, NH; The Everson Museum, Syracuse; the Munson Williams Proctor Museum of Art, Utica, NY; and the Worcester Art Museum, MA.

Guy Danella [1928-2006] was a dedicated modernist from his early personal contact and immersion into the world of pioneering leaders Josef Albers, Hans Hoffman and Alfred Stieglitz. His maturation into a personal style benefitted from his parallel running experience as an illustrator and cartoon animator where pictorial and narrative simplification were at play. A deep thinker Danella was well read in psychology and in painting his intuitive probing found abstract shapes that suggested humanity, animal life, exotic places, and the plant world too.

With a keen sensibility for color and appropriate paint technique, most times Danella found his arena for personal expression in the flat mapspace of the canvas. His work was posthumously exhibited 2011 at the Kouros gallery in NYC and will share billing with artist Michael Tice at Andrejev Galleries 2019.

Helen Lowe Kendall [1892-1970] was an active member of the group of Non-Objective abstractionists organized in NYC by the German ex-patriot artist Baroness Hilla Rebay between 1939-1949 around famous Bauhaus ex-patriot Wassily Kandinsky. Kendall exhibited at the Museum of Non-Objective Painting on 54th Street with such notables as Wassily Kandinsky, Rudolf Bauer, Rolf Scarlett, Irene Rice Pereira and Hilla Rebay. The group also exhibited together in Paris at both the Palais des Beaux-Arts and the Galerie Carpentier. The Museum of Non-Objective Painting, its artists and collection led to the establishment the Guggenheim Museum in the 50s.

Because Kendall was a design teacher shuttling between NYC and Hampton Institute in Virginia, she developed a friendship with famous African-American soprano and Hampton graduate Dorothy Maynor and sometimes painted in Maynor's Carnegie Hall studio. In this exhibit we will find only her personal gouache studies from which she made the large oil paintings found in private collections from NY to Paris, France.

Craven Arts Council in New Bern, NC, Offers Two New Exhibits as Fundraisers

The Craven Arts Council in New Bern, NC, will present two new exhibitions which will serve as fundraisers including: Bear Face Tessellations, on view in the Main Gallery at the Bank of the Arts, from Jan. 2 - 12, 2019, with a reception on Jan. 11, from 5-8pm, and Craven County Valentine's Day Card Sale, featuring Valentine Cards made by local public school students, on view in the Director's Gallery, from Jan. 2 - 31, 2019, with a reception for students, teachers, and parents on Jan. 8, from 4-5:30pm.

Craven Arts Council is proud to present Bear Face Tessellations, featuring uniquely decorated bear faces, these pieces will be for sale for $1 each to support outreach programs by the Craven Arts Council.

Originally designed by local artist and former CAC&G Director Carol Tokarski, the Bear Faces Project features cardstock bear tiles that form a tessellation when laid together. Craven Arts Council sent bear tiles to local schools and hosted special events to decorate the tiles, including Mumfest and holiday workshops, and distributed them to visitors in the galleries at Bank of the Arts. Over 1000 tiles were submitted back to the Arts Council for the two week display in January.

Craven Arts Council and the Twin Rivers Artists Association are proud to present the 2019 Craven County Valentine's Day Card Sale in the Director's Gallery for the month of January 2019. Created by students in all grades in Craven County Schools, all proceeds are donated to Craven County art teachers for purchasing classrooms supplies. Craven Arts Council will host a

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, Offers Group Show

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, will present, Resolutions 2019, its fifth annual statewide juried art show, on view from Jan. 7 - 31, 2019. A reception will be held on Jan. 25, from 6-9pm.

Following the success of the juried shows of the previous four years, HGA held its open call to artists for Resolutions 2019 this fall. Artists from throughout the state entered works in a wide variety of media. This year's exhibit features work in metal, wood, ceramics, textiles, and photography. Also represented are paintings in oil, acrylic, watercolor, pastel, and encaustic. As in previous years, the exhibit has drawn participation from artists living as far east as Wilmington and as far west as Asheville.

art exhibits dedicated specifically to North Carolina artists. The artist-owners of the Hillsborough Gallery of Arts have enjoyed the new challenges of organizing and curating these exhibits. Each year's exhibit presents the group with unique situations, testing the artist-group's creativity in new ways.

Guest juror for awards for Resolutions 2019 will be John Coffey, Deputy Director for Art and Research and the Becher Curator of American and Modern Art of the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC. A native of Raleigh, Coffey holds undergraduate degrees in History and Art History from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and a masters degree

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, Features Works by Bert Beirne

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, will present New Still Life Oils by Bert Beirne, on view from Jan. 5 through Feb. 12, 2019.

Beirne has been painting still-lives for nearly four decades and is considered one of the important painters of the genre living today. Since receiving her BFA from the University of Cincinnati, Beirne's work is most often compared to the Dutch and Flemish masters of the early Seventeenth Century; painters such as Kalf & Heda.

Working with only natural light from a northern exposure and using multiple layers of translucent oil glazes, Beirne is able to create works of great depth and astonishing realism.

This exhibition showcases work produced by Beirne over the past year.

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Danielle Fontaine

The Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, is pleased to showcase six contemporary artists in Potential and Limits: Visions in Encaustic, an exhibition inspired by the historic medium of encaustic art, on view through Jan. 23, 2018. A 2000-year-old medium, it reemerges fresh, modern, and dynamic in the hands of artists Danielle Fontaine (Greenville, SC), Pat Kilburg (Greenville, SC), Michael Ziemer (Piedmont, SC), Roger Bruckner (Taylors, SC), Jess Stone (Piedmont, SC), and in Gallery B, Theresa Gooby (Beacon, NY). The Potential explored here ranges from the abstract to the figurative, from the organic to the built environment, from the textural to the smoothly fused. For further information call 864/735-3948 or visit (www.artcentergreenville.org).

Work by Scotty Peek

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, is presenting a new exhibition entitled, Places and Things, featuring works by artist and educator Scotty Peek. The exhibition will remain on display in the main gallery through Jan. 31, 2019. Peek received his Master's in Fine Arts from the University of South Carolina in 2000 and his Bachelor's of Fine Arts from Austin Peay State University (TN) in 1995. He was included in the 2004 Triennial at the South Carolina State Museum and was one of four artists selected for 701 Center for Contemporary Art's inaugural 2008 exhibit. For further information contact Wendy Wells, Gallery Director, at 803/252-3613 or visit (www.cityartonline.com).

Work by Diana Greene

Salem College in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting Proof + Disappearance, featuring works by Diana Greene, on view through Jan. 25, 2019. As a child, Greene remembers being taught that you were guilty if "caught in the act". That phrase stirred a curiosity, the way it suggested truth, action, consequence, possibly danger. Greene focuses her lens on scenes in which women are caught in the act of dreaming, loving, leaving, or coming. Through the exhibition, she aims to capture the paradox that photographs provide proof of what disappears. For further information call Kimberly Varnadoe at 336/721-2636 or email to (kim.varnadoe@salem.edu).

Work by Tom Spleth

The North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, is presenting Cast, But Not Least, featuring the slipcasting method, on view through Feb. 23, 2019. Less heralded in the popular imagination than wheel-throwing, slipcasting - the technique of pouring liquid clay, or slip, into molds - has increased in popularity in the last 40 years with studio potters as a method of producing both simple and complex forms. Cast, But Not Least explores the landscape of North Carolina slipcasting, past and present, to show that it is not secondary to turning; the technique presents complex challenges and requires a different way of thinking about and creating ceramics. Featured artists include: Stormie Burns, Herb Cohen, Amanda Crowe, Heather Mae Erickson, Bruce Gholson & Samantha Henneke, Lisa Gluckin, Chris Gryder, Bill Jones, Nick Moen, Tom Spleth, Mark Warren, and Erin Younge. For further information call the Center at 336/873-8430 or visit (www.ncpotterycenter.org).

The NC Museum of History in Raleigh, NC, is presenting The North Carolina Roots of Artist Ernie Barnes, a new exhibit showcasing original paintings by and artifacts from the life Ernie Barnes, a native North Carolinian and NFL football player who became one of the nation's foremost African-American artists, on view through Mar. 3, 2019. Widely-known as the real painter behind the character J.J. Evans' artwork in the groundbreaking African-American sitcom Good Times, Barnes' unique style of painting made him one of the premier figurative artists of the late 20th and early 21st centuries. His style, which has been widely imitated, is best exemplified by his celebrated Sugar Shack dance scene that appeared on Marvin Gaye's I Want You album cover and in the closing credits of Good Times. Barnes was born and raised in Durham, NC, and is best known for his unique style of elongation, energy, and movement. Affectionately nicknamed "Big Rembrandt" by his teammates, he is the first professional American athlete to become a noted painter. In his prolific body of work, Barnes chronicled his personal experiences with football, music,

Jackson Pollock's "Mural"

The Columbia Museum of Art (CMA) in Columbia, SC, will offers visitors Jackson

Pollock's Mural, the 20-foot-wide painting that catapulted the artist into the spotlight, brought audacious new scale and experimentation to Abstract Expressionism, and changed the destiny of modern art. The mural is coming to the CMA in a landmark exhibition on view through May 19, 2019. The exhibit, featuring the single, iconic work as well as in-depth scientific research on it and its creation myth, is part of a whirlwind international tour that includes premier European and American museums. Pollock is among the most influential painters in American history, and Mural is widely recognized as a watershed moment for the artist in 1943. For further information call the Museum at 803/799-2810 or visit (www.columbiamuseum.org).

is also to confront the weight of preconceived notions about this place, thick with stereotypes, encoded in the artistic, literary, and media records. Southbound engages with and unsettles assumed narratives about this contested region by providing fresh perspectives for understanding the complex admixture of history, geography, and culture that constitutes today's New South. "Southbound" will comprise fifty-six photographers' visions of the South over the first decades of the twenty-first century. Accordingly, it offers a composite image of the region. The photographs echo stories told about the South as a bastion of tradition, as a region remade through Americanization and globalization, and as a land full of surprising realities. The project's purpose is to investigate senses of place in the South that congeal, however fleetingly, in the spaces between the photographers' looking, their images, and our own preexisting ideas about the region. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-6pm & Sat.-Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 843/958-6484 or (<http://citygalleryatwaterfrontpark.com/>).

"Carolina Parakeet", 1935, by Anna Heyward Taylor (American, 1879-1956); Woodblock print on paper; 11 x 9 1/2 inches; Gift of Anna Heyward Taylor.

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Galleries 8 & 9, Through Jan. 6 - "A Dark Place of Dreams: Louise Nevelson with Chakaia Booker, Lauren Fensterstock, and Kate Gilmore". Thirty years after her passing, "A Dark Place of Dreams" revisits the monochromatic assemblages of Louise Nevelson, one of the pioneering American sculptors of the twentieth century, alongside three contemporary artists: Chakaia Booker, Lauren Fensterstock, and Kate Gilmore. In her most iconic works, Nevelson utilized wooden objects gathered from urban debris piles to create monumental installations. This exhibition celebrates Nevelson's lasting impact on contemporary sculptors who expand the tradition of assemblage in innovative and provocative ways. Gallery 9, Jan. 18 - May 12 - "Anna Heyward Taylor: Intrepid Explorer". A native of Columbia, South Carolina, Anna Heyward Taylor (1879-1956) is best known as one of the principal artists of the Charleston Renaissance, a period of cultural rebirth in the city from roughly 1915 to 1940. Prior to settling in Charleston in 1929, Taylor traveled and studied widely, including trips to Holland in 1903 and England in 1904 as a student of William Merritt Chase. During 1908 and 1909 Taylor toured Europe with her sister Nell and in 1914 she visited Japan, Korea, and China. Taylor's travels also took her to the exotic locations of British Guiana in 1916 and 1920, the Virgin Islands in 1926, and Mexico in 1935 and 1936. Gallery 8, Jan 18 - May 12 - "Lying in Wait: Sporting Art by Ogden M. Pleissner". Ogden Pleissner was a master of the watercolor medium. His paintings are luminous and expressive, yet also capture his subjects in wonderful detail. Pleissner had a gift for capturing fleeting moments of time—the tug on a fishing line or the pregnant pause as a hunter sets his sights. These reflective moments immerse viewers in the beauty of the land and convey the importance of protecting our natural environment. Lying in Wait celebrates Ogden Pleissner's life and work as a noted sporting arts painter. His hunting, fishing, and landscape paintings reflect his deep reverence for wildlife and the natural world. The forty-eight watercolors on view depict scenes from Wyoming to Maine to the South Carolina coast during his illustrious career that spanned from the late 1920s until his death in 1983.

Rotunda Galleries 2 & 3, Through Feb. 17 - "Charleston Collects: South Asian Art". Debuting the "Charleston Collects" series, this exhibition features selections from a major private collection of South Asian art in Charleston. India - the birthplace of three major world religions, Hinduism, Buddhism, and Jainism - is also a nation where Judaism, Christianity, and Islam have deep roots. South Asian traditions of sculpture, painting, and architecture stretch back millennia. This rich and varied visual culture is reflected in the naturalism of Western-influenced Buddhist sculpture from ancient Gandhara, and in the bold Matisse-like stylization of religious and secular Indian painting of the 16th and 17th centuries. The collection's early Buddhist bronze sculptures; paintings by artists from the imperial courts of the Mughal emperors; and the rich and varied paintings of regional kingdoms, reveal the diverse sources and traditions of South Asia. The exhibit was guest curated by Daniel Ehnobom, Ph.D., professor of South Asian Art at University of Virginia. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm; closed Mon. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Redux Contemporary Art Center, featuring Redux Studios, 1056 King Street, Charleston. Main Gallery, Through Jan. 11 - "Care Work," featuring new work by Camela Guevara. The exhibition is a continuation of the Guevara's exploration of objects in the home. Pool noodles, shaker lids, and sponges are activated with fiber art in Guevara's signature bright colors and embroidered and painted surfaces. She explores our connection to sewing as unpaid labor in the home, in the form of mending or sewing by a caregiver contrasted with mass-produced quotidian objects. She envisions a future where all labor is honored and people are compensated fairly for their work. Ongoing - In May, 2017, Redux relocated to 1056 King Street with 38 studios, three galleries, a larger print shop, classroom, dark room, and photo studio. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-6pm & Sat., noon-5pm. Contact: 843/722-0697 or at (www.reduxstudios.org).

Columbia Area

Jackson Pollock's Mural

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Through Feb. 24 - "Midcentury Masters: Jasper Johns' Gifts to the CMA," featuring a varied collection of 35 prints gifted to the CMA by Jasper Johns himself and shown in its entirety for the first time. With several prints by Johns as well as the work of such postwar heavyweights as Robert Rauschenberg, Josef Albers, Roy Lichtenstein, Ellsworth Kelly, and Andy Warhol, plus archival materials documenting Johns' time living and establishing his artistic identity in Columbia, this unique exhibition provides insight into the mind of South Carolina's most famous artistic son. Through May 19, 2019 - "Jackson Pollock's Mural," featuring the 20-foot-wide painting that catapulted the artist into the spotlight, brought audacious new scale and experimentation to Abstract Expressionism, and changed the destiny of modern art, is coming to the CMA in a landmark exhibition. "Jackson Pollock: Mural," featuring the single, iconic work as well as in-depth scientific research on it and its creation myth, is part of a whirlwind international tour that includes premier European and American museums. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiuseum.org).

McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. Through June 30 - "Founding Feathers: Extinction and Conservation of Southern Birds". Undergraduate students Maddie Colvin and Karli Sinclair have teamed up to curate McKissick Museum's newest exhibition. What started as a group project in a University classroom has been transformed into an educational museum exhibition on extinct and endangered birds. By showcasing the stories of the extinct ivory billed woodpecker, the Carolina parakeet, and the passenger pigeon, the exhibition brings to light the conservation efforts inspired by their disappearance. Their legacy sparked the beginning of conservation efforts around the United States including the successful conservation of the Bald Eagle. This exhibition features objects from McKissick Museum, the Irvin Department of Rare Books and Special Collections, the Museum of York County, the South Carolina State Museum and more. Through July 20 - "Swag & Tassel: The Innovative Stoneware of Thomas Chandler," the first retrospective exhibition of a 19th century Edgefield, SC, potter since "I Made This Jar: The Life and Works of the Enslaved African-American Potter, Dave". Building upon the research in Philip Wingard's 2014 Ceramics in America article, "From Baltimore to the South Carolina Backcountry: Thomas Chandler's Influence on 19th Century Stoneware," the exhibition will bring new archaeological and archival research to bear on our understanding of the nature and scope of Chandler's technical and aesthetic innovations within the context of mid-19th century Edgefield District pottery manufacturing. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. And, "Natural Curiosity: USC and the Evolution of Scientific Inquiry into the Natural World". Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. to the exhibition, collection, preservation and documentation of South Carolina's visual artists, past and present, through a variety of exhibitions and programs. This year marks the museum's 30th anniversary, and to celebrate the diversity of South Carolina art, we will host a juried exhibition. Artists from across the state will have the opportunity to exhibit their work at the State Museum in Columbia, and to win cash prizes up to $1,500. Ongoing - "ART: A Collection of Collections." The SC State Museum is home to over 4,000 works of art, hand-made objects and various collections within its collection. Many of these pieces have never been on display in the museum. ART: A Collection of Collections will highlight some of these one-of-a-kind collections within the museum's entire collection. Guests will get to explore works of fine, folk and decorative art made by South Carolina artists that are being grouped into collections within the exhibit based on medium, subject or artist. This exhibit will showcase rarely seen artwork by South Carolina artists, enhanced by the fascinating stories of their inception and why they belong with other works of art to give us a new look at South Carolina and its visual culture. The Crescent Café, second floor mezzanine of the Museum. The house menu offers a variety of baked goods, juices, coffee, hot chocolate and tea. Lunchtime offerings include deli sandwiches and alternating daily soups, as well as grilled chicken salads and sandwiches. Greenville Center for Creative Arts, 25 Draper Street, Greenville. Through Jan. 23 - "Potential and Limits: Visions in Encaustic". GCCA is pleased to showcase six contemporary artists inspired by the historic medium of encaustic art. From the Greek word enkaustikos - "to burn in" - encaustic refers to the process of painting with fused layers of melted beeswax and resin. A 2000-year-old medium, it reemerges fresh, modern, and dynamic in the hands of artists Danielle Fontaine (Greenville, SC), Pat Kilburg (Greenville, SC), Michael Ziemer (Piedmont, SC), Roger Bruckner (Taylors, SC), Jess Stone (Piedmont, SC), and in Gallery B, Theresa Gooby (Beacon, NY). Save the date for the ARTalk "From A to B: How Art Moves Us" scheduled for Jan. 8 from 6 - 7pm, where the artists of "Potential and Limits" will talk about the many ways in which creating art moves us. Ongoing - Home to 16 studio artists. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. Contact: call 864/735-3948 or at (www.artcentergreenville.org).

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Through Jan. 13 - "Andrew Wyeth Watercolors: Selections from the Greenville Collection". The watercolors in this show reflect Andrew Wyeth's career-long project of transforming his subjects into forceful and compelling meditations on how we conceptualize what we see. The visual power of each painting relies on simple contrasts between dark and light. Much like ancient Chinese calligraphy or modern abstract expressionist techniques, Wyeth's intuitive, efficient brushstrokes internalize the dynamic energy of gesture as they simultaneously define and anchor each composition's overall structural framework. The viewer's eye sees only what is necessary to construct meaning from experience. Ongoing - "Anna Heyward Taylor: GCMA Collection". Born in Columbia, artist Anna Heyward Taylor (1879-1956) was at the forefront of the Charleston Renaissance at the turn of the 20th century. She graduated from the SC College for Women, and later studied in Holland with William Merritt Chase. In 1916, and again in 1920, she traveled to British Guiana as a scientific illustrator drawing native plant life. She returned to South Carolina in 1929 and settled in Charleston, where she collaborated with Chalmers Murray on "This Our Land," a book of prints inspired by the crops--indigo, rice, cotton, tobacco--and natural life--birds and flowers--of the Lowcountry. Ongoing - "Art and Artists of South Carolina: David Drake, Jasper Johns, William H. Johnson, and Grainger McKoy". The contributions of South Carolina artists to our culture are as varied and rich as the stories of the artists themselves. The GCMA is proud to dedicate an entire gallery to the accomplishments of four of the nation's greatest artists, each of whom has called South Carolina home. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcma.org).

for Feb. 4, from 6-7:30pm in the Roe Art Building. Tanner Graham's work references historical socio-political events to probe the contradictions between perceived and experienced narratives in contemporary Western society. Implementing appropriated and invented imagery, she says her work "exposes the unceasing current of systemic colonialism." Hours: M-F, 9am-5pm. Contact: 864/294-2074.

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Greenville Centre Stage Theatre Gallery, 501 River Street, Greenville. Through Jan. 4 - "West Greenville Fauna: Kate Furman". This series of mixed media drawings tells stories. It serves as a sketchbook, or journal, relying on mark-making, line and whimsy to highlight our simple moments and interactions. Each intimate image invites you in to explore a quiet moment in appreciation of our everyday lives. Jan. 11 - Mar. 1 - "Mid-Century Moods," featuring works by Sarah Farrar. A reception will be held on Jan. 11, from 6:30-9pm. The exhibit is inspired by mid-century modern style. The art. The furniture. The fashion. It was a time when the design movement was explosive. The work included in this exhibition explores new paths of movement while referencing the divergent patterns of the mid-century era. Ongoing - Featuring works by visual art members of MAC. Exhibits are offered in collaboration with the Metropolitan Arts Council. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 2-6pm & 2 hr. prior to shows. Contact: MAC at 864/467-3132 or at (www.greenvillearts.com).

Showcasing work by Liz Spear, Karen Donde, Cara May, Joan Berner and Paula Bowers, the exhibition showcases a broad spectrum of tastes and trends. From the hipster millennial to the refined conservative female, each of these pieces is handmade and unique to the style and aesthetic of its designer. Hours: daily from 9am-5pm. Contact: call 828/298-7928 or at (www.southernhighlandguild.org).

Southern Highland Craft Guild on Tunnel Road, 930 Tunnel Road, Asheville. Ongoing - Work by members of the Southern Highland Craft Guild in various media. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9:30am-5pm. Contact: 828/298-7903.

The Center for Craft, Creativity and Design, 67 Broadway, Asheville. Benchmark Gallery, Through Jan. 26 - "In Times of Seismic Sorrows". When reflecting on the current state of the environment, it seems that we have entered into times of seismic sorrows. Carbon emissions, water pollution, fracking, and changing climate patterns all point to a troubling reality with serious consequences for human and non-human populations. Through weavings, installations, sculpture, and print, artists Rena Detrixhe and Tali Weinberg (Tulsa, OK) explore the complex relationship between humans and the planet, offering insights, expressing grief, and creating space for resilience and change. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-6pm. Contact: call 828/785-1357 or at (www.craftcreativitydesign.org).

YMI Gallery, YMI Cultural Center, 39 S. Market Street @ Eagle Street, Asheville. Ongoing - "In the Spirit of Africa". Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Mayer Gallery, Through Feb. 2 - "The Broken Fragments of My Heart: Rachel Stevens". During the Holocaust in western Ukraine, Rachel Stevens' cousin, Lorenz Kleiner, fought the Nazis as a partisan in the forest. His Polish comrades did not know that he was Jewish. Lorenz hid his identity, as he surely would have been killed by the men who served with him. When Stevens conceived of this series of sculptures she imagined the forest as a sanctuary. However, she soon learned that the Ukrainian landscape's deep ravines and plush earth were the site of countless mass graves. More than a million people were shot in these otherwise bucolic landscapes.

This relatively unknown tragedy is called the "Holocaust by Bullets." Community Gallery, Through Jan. 12 - "The Elephantine in the Anthropocene: Kelsey Merreck Wagner". The exhibition will explore historic hunting practices in African countries as linked to the ivory trade in Asia, and how modern conservation is working to save the species. This exhibition is made possible, in part, by the generous sponsorship by Dennis and Marcia Quinn. Mezzanine Gallery, Through Jan. 12 - "The Persistence of Weeds: Hannah Cole". Cole is a painter living in Asheville. She studied at Yale University and Boston University, and has exhibited internationally. She is represented by Slag Gallery in New York. Her work was shown recently at The Drawing Center and at Volta, Basel. Last year she had her fourth solo show in New York at The Lodge Gallery and her first solo museum show at the University of Maine Museum of Art. Her show Caring for Surfaces was on view this fall at Boston University's Sherman Gallery. Hours: 10am-6pm, Tue., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri., noon -8pm. Contact: Hank T. Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Second-Floor Gallery, Through Feb. 17 - "Framing It!" Many factors must be weighed when exhibiting a work of art, from framing to installation to critical contextualization. A clumsy frame can transform a masterpiece into a visual offense while an elegant one can elevate an average picture into a showstopper. A colored wall can compete or accent a work's formal composition while a white wall can let the work project stronger or fall in upon itself. All of these visual details can become lost if historical context is not provided, but too much may overwhelm the piece. An artist creates the work, but then must trust future owners and exhibitors to display it at its best. In their turn, private collectors, dealers, and museum curators all add their artistic flourish when it comes to frame a piece: matte or float? Color or neutral? Period or aesthetically simpatico frame? This exhibition examines the different considerations that go into displaying an artwork and how it affects perception of the piece from meaning to value. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Work by Hiwa K

Davidson College, Belk Visual Arts Center, 315 North Main and Griffith Streets, Davidson. Van Every/Smith Galleries, Jan. 14 - Mar. 1 - "Eyes See Far, Hands Too Short to Reach," featuring works by Hiwa K. An ARTIST TALK will be offered on Jan. 31, at 6pm and a reception will follow from 7-8:30pm. Born in 1975 in Sulaymaniyah, Kurdistan, Iraq, Hiwa K creates sculptures, videos, and performances that are often more about the process than the product. Weaving together oral history, anecdotes, political events, and personal memories – including the artist's journey on foot from Iraq to Germany, seeking asylum – Hiwa K's participatory, collaborative works explore migration, colonialism, war, protest, violence, and identity. Ongoing - While on campus, be sure to take a tour of our Campus Sculpture. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 704/894-2519 or at (www.davidsoncollegeartgalleries.org).

males in the United States encounter. The representation and depiction of black males in popular culture has long been governed by prevailing stereotyped attitudes about race and sexuality. Far too little is known about the range of internal values and dynamics of this group. Scientists, theorists, historians, politicians and activists have investigated the plight of the African-American male on various levels and from diverse perspectives, yet not enough has been done to represent a multi-faceted and self-determined representation of this demographic. Ultimately, black males are at greatest odds with themselves. The question is, "Why?" Through Mar. 2 - "Hank Willis Thomas: What We Ask Is Simple". The exhibit investigates 20th century protests, reminding us that societal tumult is part of a hard-fought battle for equality. Screen-printed onto retroreflective vinyl and mounted on an aluminum composite material, Hank Willis Thomas' latest body of work depicts protests and the direct actions of 20th century social movements: the civil rights movement, women's suffrage, the American Indian movement, and the Stonewall riots – among others. The photographic works on view are largely inspired by artists such as Andy Warhol, Robert Rauschenberg, and Michelangelo Pistoletto; social activist photographers like James "Spider" Martin, Charles Moore, and Dorothea Lange; and the courageous human rights work of Gloria Richardson, Elizabeth Eckford and Elizabeth Spencer, and Amelia Boynton Robinson. Notably, the series shares Warhol and Rauschenberg's simultaneous fascinations with the hand of the artist and the repetition of mass-produced imagery. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. 1-5pm. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Lake Norman Art League Gallery, 442 S. Main St., located across the street from Wooden Stone, next to Masterworks; enter at the rear of the building, and turn right into the lobby, Davidson. Ongoing - Featuring works by Lake Norman Art League members. Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Through Jan. 19 - "The Daydreamer and the Bucolic Life He Will Never Get," featuring works by Buenos Aires-based artist Santiago Quensel. This is the artist's third solo exhibition with the gallery. Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

Levine Museum of the New South, 200 E. Seventh St., corner of College St & Seventh St., Charlotte. Ongoing - "Cotton Fields to Skyscrapers," featuring a permanent exhibition featuring interactive environments that trace the history of the New South from the end of the Civil War until today. Admission: Yes. Free on Sat. Parking: next door in Seventh Street Station. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 704/333-1887 or at (www.museumofthenewsouth.org).

McColl Center for Art + Innovation, 721 North Tryon Street, Charlotte. First-floor Gallery, Through Jan. 5 - "New Works / Alumni One". The exhibition is the first in a series of exhibitions presenting exceptional alumni artists from McColl Center for Art + Innovation's residency program as it celebrates its twentieth anniversary in Charlotte. Featuring Michaela Pilar Brown, Erika Diamond, and Jonathan Prichard, the exhibition explores the secular, sacred, and symbolic grounds these Carolina-based artists know personally and collectively. Using media including photography, drawing, printmaking, textiles, and performance, the artists share a recognition of the human body and its power to communicate through image, movement, and touch. Hours: Thur.-Fri., 3-9pm & Sat., 11am-6pm. Contact: 704/332-5535 or at (www.mccollcenter.org).

Mint Hill Arts, Mint Hill Town Hall, 4430 Mint Hill Village Lane, Mint Hill. Jan. 23 - Feb. 22 - "There is Healing in a Story: An Invitation to Spiritual Art," featuring works by Jennifer McCormick. A reception will be held on Jan. 25, from 7-9pm. Mint Hill Arts is proud to present the stunning, provocative spiritual art of Winston-Salem artist Jennifer McCormick. McCormick, a certified medical illustrator, uses x-rays of real injuries submitted to her in her work and transforms them into images of healing and hope. Hours: Tue.- Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact: 980/226-5532 or at (www.minthillarts.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tariton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardenes. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Apr. 7 - "Michael Sherrill Retrospective". In his delicately rendered sculptures Michael Sherrill seeks to elicit a sense of wonder from viewers, and to make them see things fresh. Working with clay, glass, and metal, his exquisite floral forms have the allure of Martin Johnson Heade's passion flower and orchid paintings and the botanical engravings of John James Audubon, at the same time they are remarkably new. This retrospective will illustrate the artist's evolution over his more than 40-year career and highlight his contributions to contemporary art, craft, and design. Primarily a self-taught artist, Sherrill moved from Charlotte, North Carolina to the Western North Carolina mountains in 1974. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown will house the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Now Fri. till 9pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Projective Eye Gallery, UNC-Charlotte Center City Building, 320 E. 9th Street, Uptown Charlotte. Through Mar. 3 - "Double Vision: Photocentric Paintings by Richard Heipp, 1975-2018". Florida artist Richard Heipp investigates the dialogue between painting and photography in an attempt to equate the two media. His airbrushed paintings are manually produced imitations of photographs or digital scans that explore the language and role of photography in contemporary culture. Heipp intends to curtail traditional assumptions about the separation of manual craftsmanship and mechanical production in order to recondition the viewer's visual consumption of the artwork as image and the artwork as object. He reevaluates what we know as photography and what we think we know as painting. Hours: Mon.-Sun., 9am-9pm. Contact: Crista Cammaroto, Director of Galleries at 704/687-0833, 704/687-2397.

Hickory Museum of Art, Arts and Science Center, 243 Third Avenue NE, Hickory. Through Apr. 20 - "A GRAND VISION: Elliott Daingerfield Paints the Grand Canyon and Grandfather Mountain". The celebration of Hickory Museum of Art's milestone 75th birthday will center on the first-of-its-kind blockbuster exhibit. Organized by the Museum's team in collaboration with the artist's grandson, Joe Daingerfield Dulaney, the exhibition evokes the days of the Museum's founding and spotlights the creative processes of the acclaimed National Academician Elliott Daingerfield, even while it anchors in the present with a series of related events and activities. Elliott Daingerfield was born in Harper's Ferry VA (now WV). In 1886, then 25 years old and already an established New York City painter, Daingerfield traveled to Blowing Rock with his wife to recuperate from diphtheria. It was the beginning of his long devotion to Blowing Rock where he maintained summer homes with his family for the rest of his life. This exhibit will be the first to bring together Daingerfield's magnificent portrayals of these two geographical monuments. "A GRAND VISION" will include masterworks on loan from the Morris Museum of Art in Augusta, GA, The Johnson Collection in Spartanburg, SC, Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, as well as many more works and artifacts from private collections and the artist's family. All were chosen to create a first-of-its kind story about Daingerfield's creative process, life, and relationship to the two beloved landmarks. Whitener Gallery, Through Jan. 6 - "Dear Paul Letters: The Correspondence that built HMA's Collection". The Museum is fortunate to have letters written to Paul Whitener, HMA's founder and first director, from artists and donors regarding early acquisitions to the Collection. Works of art by Wilford Seymour Conrow, Ella Richards (the first work by a woman artist acquired by HMA), Guy Carlton Wiggins and others are on display alongside the letters, offering an "insider" perspective to HMA's early days of collecting. Windows Gallery, Through Jan. 6 - "POP: Everyday Imagery as Art," featuring selections of Pop Art and works inspired by that movement from the Museum's collection and on loan from private collectors. Artists include Andy Warhol, Roy Lichtenstein, James Rosenquist and more. This etching of a Pizza is by Claes Oldenburg (b.1929). It is dated 1964, and was a gift of John Van Kirk in memory of Ruth H. Van Kirk. Third Floor Mezzanine, Ongoing - "Discover Folk Art: Unique Visions by Southern Self-taught Artists". Explore re-creations of artist work environments, including a school bus and a barn, family activity stations, more than 250 folk art objects, interactive touch screens and more. the University of North Carolina at Pembroke. Serving the university and local community, the gallery provides a venue for student and faculty work, as well as that of local, regional, national and international artists. The gallery helps fulfill the department's goal of providing outstanding educational opportunities for its students by bringing quality visual arts to the university and the community at large. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-5pm; Fri., 9am-3pm and Wed. evenings, 5-8pm. Contact: Dr. Nancy Palm at 910/775-4264 or e-mail to (nancy.palm@unp.edu).

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@unp.edu).

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Through Feb. 10 - "All the Possibilities of Filling In Sixteenths (65,536)", featuring a work by the late Durham artist and jazz musician Vernon Pratt (1940-2000). The exhibition is the first complete showing of a massive 256-panel work centering around Pratt's interest in systems and the variations, permutations, and the rhythms and harmonies within. At 18 feet high and 110 feet wide, it is the largest and most complex work of Pratt's ever exhibited, and has been called his "magnum opus" by Gregg Museum director Roger Manley. Jan. 10 - June 23 - "Left-Handed Liberty - Self-Taught Art from the Permanent Collection". The self-taught North Carolina artists featured in this exhibition sometimes achieved recognition as innovative creative minds, but often started out exploring their art in deeply personal ways. They made art in their homes, their workshops, or while in prison; some were plagued by physical and emotional difficulties, and hard times. A few sold their art on the side to admirers and tourists, and some even used their own homes as their canvases or raw materials. The works exhibited in this show represent but a small portion of the works by these inspired and courageous artists collected over the years. Ongoing - The Museum along with the 15,000 sq. ft. addition currently under construction will increase the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

Jones Street, downtown Raleigh. Through Jan. 27 - "Wildlife Portraits," featuring works by Raleigh-based photographer and retired scientist Keith Kennedy. All exhibited art is for sale. Kennedy is a recently retired entomologist who has been pursuing wildlife and nature photography for more than 10 years. Admission: Free. Gallery Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-4:45pm & Sun., noon-4:45pm. Store Contact: 919/733-7450, ext. 360 or at (<http://naturalsciences.org/visit/museum-store/nature-art-gallery>).

Georgia O'Keeffe, "Petunias", 1925, oil on hardboard, 18 x 30 in., Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, Museum purchase, gift of the M. H. de Young family, 1990.55; © 2018 Georgia O'Keeffe Museum

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Through Jan. 20 - "The Beyond: Georgia O'Keeffe and Contemporary Art" and "Candida Höfer in Mexico". Fall exhibitions pair pioneering female contemporary artists exploring themes of legacy, place, and culture. Alongside more than 35 paintings and sculpture by this founder of American modernism, the exhibit includes works by emerging artists including Louise Jones, Anna Valdez, and Britny Wainwright that evoke and expand upon O'Keeffe's innovative artistic language. "Candida Höfer in Mexico" features 25 large-scale "portraits" by photographer Candida Höfer of magnificent interiors of libraries, convents, theaters, churches, and museums throughout Mexico. For decades photographer Candida Höfer (German, born 1944) has made "portraits" of iconic buildings around the world, including the Louvre in Paris, the Uffizi Gallery in Florence, La Scala in Milan, Villa Borghese in Rome, and the Hermitage Museum in St. Petersburg. Höfer's technical mastery of composition, light, and symmetry offers viewers a glimpse beneath the surface, toward the heart and character of each place, in visually stunning, monumentally scaled photographs of the world's great architecture. African Art Gallery, East Building, Level A, Ongoing - Featuring African creativity spanning 16 centuries. The new gallery will be three times as large as the old West Building gallery, allowing the Museum to display nearly twice as many works - including some that have not been on view in a decade, and others that are newly acquired and have never before been on display. The new gallery will feature improved light control so that light-sensitive works of art, such as textiles and works on paper, can be given more visibility, shown in curated rotations. The gallery will include a designated space to highlight North Carolina collections of African art from private collectors and public institutions, beginning with work from Bennett College. It will also incorporate African and African Diasporic modern and contemporary art, including a site-specific wall drawing by Nigerian-American artist Victor Ekpuk. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Through Jan. 6 - "Look Again: Discovering Historical Photos". The North Carolina Museum of History will open a new exhibit featuring photos from the museum's own collection. Images in the exhibit include portraits, scenes and events from across the state and over the decades, from the 1850s to the 1960s. Through Feb. 24 - "A Thousand Words: Photographs by Vietnam Veterans". This collection of intriguing images, taken by North Carolina soldiers, explores the human elements and experiences of the Vietnam War; each snapshot is enhanced by commentary from veterans relaying what a photo means to them. Through Mar. 3 - "The North Carolina Roots of Artist Ernie Barnes," featuring a new exhibit showcasing original paintings by and artifacts from the life Ernie Barnes, a native North Carolinian and NFL football player who became one of the nation's foremost African-American artists. Widely-known as the real painter behind the character J.J. Evans' artwork in the groundbreaking African-American sitcom "Good Times", Barnes' unique style of painting made him one of the premier figurative artists of the late 20th and early 21st centuries. His style, which has been widely imitated, is best exemplified by his celebrated Sugar Shack dance scene that appeared on Marvin Gaye's "I Want You" album cover and in the closing credits of "Good Times". Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Admission: Free. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/807-7900 or at (<http://www.ncmuseumofhistory.org/>).

Work by Tom Spleth

North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Main Gallery, Through Feb. 23 - "Cast, But Not Least". Less heralded in the popular imagination than wheel-throwing, slip-casting - the technique of pouring liquid clay, or slip, into molds - has increased in popularity in the last 40 years with studio potters as a method of producing both simple and complex forms. "Cast, But Not Least" explores the landscape of North Carolina slipcasting, past and present, to show that it is not secondary to turning; the technique presents complex challenges and requires a different way of thinking about and creating ceramics. Featured Artists: Stormie Burns, Herb Cohen, Amanda Crowe, Heather Mae Erickson, Bruce Gholson & Samantha Henneke, Lisa Gluckin, Chris Gryder, Bill Jones, Nick Moen, Tom Spleth, Mark Warren, and Erin Younge. The exhibit was curated by Emily Lassiter. Back Gallery, Through Feb. 23 - "Historical Slip! Decoration in NC," curated by Hal & Eleanor Pugh. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". The Center also offers information on activities, maps and information about the potteries located in the Seagrove area and across the state. A display of representative works from more than 90 area potteries is also offered. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact 336/873-8430 or at (www.ncpotterycenter.org).

Work by Grainger McKoy

Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum, @ intersection of Independence Blvd. & South 17th Street, Wilmington. Through Jan. 6 - "Illumination 2018". Art, like a lantern, illuminates the mystery, empathy and wonder of human existence. Returning for the fourth year, Illumination 2018 draws inspiration from traditional lantern festivals, marking the transitional moment of season's change and year's end, reflecting on the past while creating energy and hope for the future. Through Feb. 17 - "Feather by Feather: The Sculptures of Grainger McKoy". From the detailed beginnings of the single iconic feather, Grainger McKoy transforms his intricately carved birds into gravity-defying sculptures that play with form and space. McKoy finds the greatest poetry from observation and understanding of the bird's upstroke, or recovery stroke, as he describes, "This motion of the bird is when it is least productive and most vulnerable, yet here can be found a grace and beauty that exist nowhere else." The renowned South Carolina wood carver and artist grew up in Sumter, South Carolina, and attended Clemson University, earning a degree in zoology, while also studying architecture. After graduating, McKoy apprenticed for eighteen months with the renowned bird carver Gilbert Maggioni in Beaufort. McKoy's work has been exhibited at the High Museum of Art, Brandywine River Museum and Brookgreen Gardens. Through Feb. 17 - "Along the Eastern Sea Road: Hiroshige's Fifty-three Stations of the Tōkaidō". Master printmaker Utagawa Hiroshige's Fifty-Three Stations of the Tōkaidō is among the most celebrated works of Japanese art. This series depicts the spectacular landscapes and fascinating characters encountered on the journey from Edo (now Tokyo) to the imperial capital of Kyoto. The Tōkaidō road was the most-traveled route between these two important cities, figuring heavily into popular Japanese art and culture in the mid-1800s. Cameron Art Museum presents the complete set of 55 prints from Hiroshige's monumental oban series, known as the Upright Tōkaidō, created in 1855. Through Feb. 17 - "Nearer to Nature". Humans have always been inspired and influenced by the world that surrounds us. Featuring artwork from CAM's permanent collection, Nearer to Nature highlights this fascination and contemplation of the natural world. Artists in the exhibition include Elliott Daingerfield, Minnie Evans, William Frerichs, Will Henry Stevens, along with contemporary artists such as Mark Flood, Guy Laramée and Hiroshi Sueyoshi. Pancoe Art Education Center, Exhibition Cases, Ongoing - View some of the Seagrove and contemporary pottery from the museum's permanent collection in the cases.
