Quality Consulting Services – Operationally Focused

Transcompss offers Quality consulting services to transportation companies. Of course, this service is of a high “quality”, but it is focused on developing a Quality Management System (QMS) for the internal Quality Department processes that drive Operations.

Solution 1 – Build the QMS

Every company has some items already built that are pertinent to a QMS, but very few have it organized and ready to be audited by the finickiest client. Transcompss will achieve this with you.

We will begin by performing a Gap Analysis to evaluate exactly where a customer is and what needs developed. Many times, this can be done in one business day. The findings of the Gap Analysis will provide the road map to completion. To reach the final goal, these items will need to be 100% developed and implemented:

- Quality Manual
- CAPA Process
- SOP Development (Including Document Control, Record Control, Management Review, etc.)
- Training Process

Although four items may seem few, these items encompass large amounts of development in a lot of cases.

Solution 2 – Continue with ISO, or GDP Certification

Some customers want to have a Quality run organization but have no need for further certification. Others, however, have specific reasons for needing further certification. Over 90% of companies in the United States can be ISO certified and receiving this certification will achieve 100% of their client’s needs regardless if that need is ISO, or GDP. Minor differences exist between the two programs, but the required deliverable can be mapped out and achieved.

Simply, Transcompss wants you to feel confident that your organization operates with Quality principles and processes. This will allow your customers to feel completely confident in the services you offer.
