Grateful Client

March 16, 2015

Dear Michael,

Carol Mytyk first met Smokey when he was five and a half months old, and after two hours of play at the shelter, Carol decided he was definitely coming home with her.

Now at 14 years old, whenever Smokey's not snuggling on Carol's lap, he loves to bat at water dripping from the kitchen faucet or get into other kinds of mischief zooming around the house. However, late last year, Carol noticed he wasn't his usual ornery self and came to realize something was wrong with his eye.

She brought her beloved pet to a local clinic where the vet discovered that Smokey had developed an eye tumor. The vet called Dr. Jean Stiles, professor of ophthalmology at the Purdue University Veterinary Teaching Hospital, to schedule an appointment for him.

Ten days after that first examination, Smokey was in West Lafayette to have eye surgery. Although he had to lose his eye, Carol was more than impressed with the care, compassion and understanding that Dr. Stiles and the Small Animal Hospital staff provided. In fact, she couldn't be happier:

"After the surgery, I brought Smokey home and he just promenaded around the house. Even though he lost his eye, he was back to normal. He was running around, jumping up on things, batting water from the faucet again, and generally being his normal mischievous self! I'm so grateful for everything the staff at the Purdue Small Animal Hospital did for Smokey and me."

After this experience, Carol was moved to make a contribution in honor of the caregivers at the Purdue University Veterinary Teaching Hospital, and I invite you to join her today.

The hospital provides constant care for patients 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. With this in mind, please consider a gift of $365 ($1 per day). Your investment will allow us to continue providing excellent and compassionate care for all animals. Your financial support will also benefit the next generation of veterinarians and veterinary technicians.

Thank you in advance for promoting the health and well-being of our animal friends, like Smokey.

With appreciation,

Becky Hershey
