

An aerial photograph of a coastal residential development. In the foreground, a large, flat, paved area contains a small, white rectangular lot outlined in yellow. A white beam of light originates from this lot and points upwards towards the text. The background features a dense cluster of multi-story residential buildings with brown roofs, a parking lot with several cars, and a body of water (likely a canal or bay) to the right. The ocean and beach are visible in the far background under a clear sky.
