

BOIL WATER NOTICE LIFTED

July 24, 2026

The City of Jenkinsburg has lifted the Boil Water Advisory that was issued following the recent water main break. Water quality testing has been completed, and the results confirm that the water is safe for normal use. Residents may resume using tap water for drinking, cooking, making ice, brushing teeth, and all other household purposes.

We appreciate the patience and cooperation of our residents during this emergency and thank our Public Works employees and assisting crews for their hard work in restoring service.
