

EPGI Awarded 11m Sq. Metre Oil and Gas Project

28th January 2013 in Iraq Industry & Trade News, Iraq Oil & Gas News

International developer EPGI has announced that they have been awarded the development management contract to develop and build the new Basra Oil and Gas International Free Zone in Iraq.

The project is the second largest of its kind in the world covering over 11 million square metres, and is strategically located near the southern Iraq oil and gas production areas. The development comprise of a mixture of uses dedicated to the oil and gas industries, including industrial, warehousing, oil storage, commercial and residential accommodation, as well as ancillary uses, and will have its own dedicated customs and future air transport facilities.

The project will be developed by BIOGH (Basra International Oil and Gas Hub Limited) in joint venture with the Iraqi Free Zone Authority (FZA), an independent authority under the Ministry of Finance.