Update #7 – 8/3/22:

We're ready to go! Inspection starts tomorrow morning! All of our signs are up, vendors are moving in, the entire village is just about ready for all of you! Our famous Blue Lines are in, center lines on both courses. Most turnouts have a blue line too. Our road from Lands End to the pits is clearly marked with a double blue line & signs. Courses are groomed! Waiting on you!

Update #4 – 7/31/22:

Work continues on the Salt. Course #1 was finished up today. Dragging on Course #2 has started. Course #1 is looking very good! Work continues on the pits, making great progress! Return roads are marked, the road from Lands' End to the pits is marked. Everyone is doing a GREAT job! Everything is really taking shape! As they say, "A picture is worth a thousand words" so I leave you with a picture of Course #1. More updates tomorrow!

Update #3 – 7/30/22:

Dragging in the Pit area started early today, of course after picking up numerous fire pits. Ugh! Pit dragging is now complete! Nice and smooth! Pit set-up has started also. The perimeter will be done soon.

Dragging on Course #1 has started, of course after picking up fire pits, it just never ends! The course is smoothing out nicely with just the first pass! Things are looking really good! Weather has been good too. Warm & sunny. More tomorrow!

Update #2 – 7/29/22:

Today is our first full day on the Salt. Surveyor is here marking the courses which takes most of the day. Salt is still in excellent condition! They have had some weather in the area which actually kept the Salt from getting too hard. Dragging will start tomorrow. Of course we still have some clean up to do from campfires left on the Salt. I guess they'll just never learn. Not too many idiot donuts this time. That helps. Because the Salt is still growing, we will be dragging the pits just to make it nice & smooth. More tomorrow! Enjoy the pictures!

Update #1 – 7/28/22:

Today we spent most of the day in SLC picking up trucks & parts. The surveyor will be here in the morning & will give you another update with photos.
