

When a Business Becomes a Trap

A story about ambition, financial pressure, and the one decision that changed everything.

David Had Always Dreamed of Being His Own Boss

After 8 years working under a dental group, David felt ready — to step out, to build something of his own, and to take control of his future. So, he did. He opened his very first dental clinic.

Everything Had to Be Perfect

For David, this was more than a business – it was his identity and his pride. He took out a large loan to renovate with modern equipment, beautiful interiors, and a premium environment.

He invested heavily in social media marketing – advertisements, promotions, discounts, and giveaways. He wanted people to notice his clinic.

And they did.

The First Taste of Success

👶 Patients Were Coming

Appointments filled up. The discounts and promotions were working exactly as planned.

👏 True Independence

For the first time, David was truly his own boss — no one to report to, no one to answer to.

✅ Going to Plan

Everything seemed to be unfolding exactly as he had envisioned from the start.

1) CASHFLOW WEAKENING

Month-on-month trend downwards.

2) REPEAT PATIENTS DECLINING

Regular appointments are stretching out or dropping off.

3) NEW PATIENT STRUGGLES

Increased difficulty and cost to attract new inquiries.

4) DISCOUNT DEPENDENCE

Patients only return for deals, forcing deeper discounts.

The Silent Problem

After about 12 months, something started to change – slowly at first, then more noticeably. Financial pressure began to creep in.

David's savings were declining. To keep the business going, he had to offer even bigger discounts – and deep down, he knew this was not sustainable.

When patients only come for discounts, your business is running on borrowed time.

The Night Everything Changed

"If your business depends entirely on paying customers for income... it is not a business. It is a trap."

That evening, David closed early. Sitting alone in the silence, he scrolled through social media — and saw an advertisement from ALGOINSIGHTS PTE LTD. That one sentence hit him harder than anything before. He couldn't sleep. "Am I trapped?"

A Serious and Honest Conversation

The next morning, David requested a face-to-face meeting with the Founder of ALGOINSIGHTS PTE LTD, Mr. Victor Ang.

During their conversation, David realised something critical – he had built a business, but he had also built financial dependency on a single income source: his clinic.

And that made him vulnerable. He knew he had to change something.

Building a Financial Safety Net

David needed an alternative source of income – a financial buffer not dependent on his dental services. He began his journey into the financial markets using the trading algorithm introduced to him: ABUNDANCE.

1

Step 1

Started small and with caution

2

Step 2

Trusted the process and Victor

3

Step 3

First attempt at trading the financial markets

Steady Growth, Real Relief

2.8%

Monthly Growth

Equity in his trading account grew steadily each month

1

New Income Stream

Trading income began supplementing his clinic earnings

For the first time since opening his clinic, David felt relieved from financial anxiety. He now had a safety net – one that could only grow bigger and stronger over time. He felt secure.

A New Sense of Freedom

Purpose Over Pressure

His clinic is no longer a source of stress – it is a source of purpose, fun, and strength.

Growing Financial Strength

His trading account continues to grow, providing passive income and long-term security he never had before.

The Lesson He Learned

A single source of income is a risk. One decision – that night – changed everything.

David is grateful for discovering ALGOINSIGHTS PTE LTD and the ABUNDANCE trading algorithm that helped him break free from the trap.

