

MAMA TREE

Sweet summer greetings,

After an extraordinarily cool July, we're getting hit with an intense heatwave, but we're not letting that stop us from our To-Do list. Here is a long and non-exhaustive list of all the things we've been up to this summer:

We trialed raw wool "waste" as fertilizer and planted two beds of the "three sisters" (corn, beans and squash) between our orchard rows; plastered our cob bench for the Saplings program; filled our new Saplings day (Wednesday); beefed up our nursery to prepare for Fall plantings; fixed irrigation and replaced predated plants; harvested citrus for local restaurants and distributions to local schools via Farm Cart Organics; kept the animals fed and watered; designed plans for future infiltration basins; and made new connections with local schools to increase regenerative agriculture education for high schoolers.

With everything going on, we're offering fewer public workshops this Fall. But we need to hear from you! If we can host 1 or 2 additional workshops, what do you want to attend? Fill out our Fall Programming Interest Survey here.

Here are the ways to connect with us this Fall (plus some new product highlights!):

Curious About our Farm Pod?

Saplings, our early childhood education program, is starting back up in September on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings for toddlers and children up to 10 years old. Though the program is currently full, we offer rolling enrollment and we're keeping a waitlist. Inquire via our enrollment form and learn more about the program here.

Farm Tour

Saturday, October 4th 2025

Join MAMA TREE's Land Stewardship team for a closer look at our approach to regenerating the health of the land and growing nutrient dense food. Come see how we're increasing biodiversity, building soil, supporting the local water cycle, and improving climate stability across 60 acres. Hear about the process of transitioning a conventional citrus orchard into young, agroforestry trial plots.

This walking tour will showcase MAMA TREE's orchards, trial plots, earthworks, plant nursery, and regenerative grazing (yes, there will be goat snuggling), as we discuss the principles behind our management approach. Afterward, MAMA TREE products will be available for sampling and purchase.

This is currently the only scheduled Farm Tour this Fall so please share with friends!
