

MAMA TREE

Greetings dear friends 🌻

With a June rain under our belt, we're feeling nourished and hopeful for the season ahead.

Some updates from the farm: our Saplings program is expanding and we're hosting a knitting summer camp with Brie; we started building an earthen bench for our outdoor classroom; chickens are laying an abundance of delicious eggs (come to our 6/14 farm tour or another event to enjoy some), and another goat yoga session is on the calendar before our baby goats leave to join the Wachters Hay and Grain family in downtown Ojai. Our 3-sisters garden bed, planted with the help of the DirtGirlsCollective, is thriving. And our YouTube channel is growing 🌱

Sun, June 22nd | 8:30 - 10 AM

Led by Zoya Yaseka

Baby Goat Yoga

Let us introduce you to our two new baby goats, Freya and Frankie. We will start with some cuddle time and then move into a playful, mindful yoga flow that invites their curious interaction. We will end with some tea and some more cuddles before we say goodbye. Check out the recap video from our last Baby Goat Yoga here for some adorable inspiration.

Earthen Bench Build Update

Join us for either 1 or 2 days for our additional workshops on July 5 & 6 as we continue to work on an adobe and cob bench for our outdoor classroom space that we started this past weekend during our 2-day Basics of Earthen Building workshop led by Sasha Rabin (@EarthenShelter) and Abudu Nenwero (@Abudu.Tauo).

Using clay, sand, fiber, and water, we learned how to prepare and apply cob, adobes, and earthen plaster. The workshop was attended by students, families, teachers, first-time builders, contractors, architects, and more. It was amazing to gather with so many people interested in natural materials. We all left with a better understanding of how to choose and source natural materials, what types of natural building might be most appropriate for different contexts, and we reconnected with the timeless art of building with earth.

Thank you to all who joined us, and we hope you can join for the upcoming workshop!

Knitting Handcraft Summer Camp

Led by Brie Wakeland.

Over the course of our week together, participants will make and customize their own knitting needles and project bag that will be used to create a variety of small knitting projects.

Sign Up for Handcraft Camp

With gratitude,
