

Banks of the Rye
Andree Nolen & Tad Tuleja

Lyrics started 2:30 AM April 19, 2016

I remember a time I remember it well
Your singing as sweet and as clear as a bell
While the thistledown danced in the fair April sky
And we sat hand in hand by the banks of the Rye

I remember the time just as clear as today
Our hearts were so full we had nothing to say
The sun made a star of the tear in your eye
As the morning light danced on the waters of Rye

Now you're so far away and the walls are so strong
And there's no one to hear the heart of your song
If I wove you a spell over walls you would fly
To rest here by me on the banks of the Rye

A breeze shook the grass by the old linen mill
A cloud shadow came and went over the hill
Amid the buzzing of bees and a grey heron's cry
We sat hand in hand by the banks of the Rye

End:
To rest here by me on the banks of the Rye
