A Letter from Co-Founder, Jaffer Dakroub

Aloha to our Future Partner,

My name is Jaffer Dakroub—and I'm the one in the center of the photo on the front of this flyer.

I co-founded Tech Savvy Teens along with my friends in 2022 because I wanted to create something real, something that would help both kūpuna and teens feel more connected, more confident, and more valued. What started as a simple idea has grown into a program where teens like me support kūpuna with technology, lead workshops on scams and AI, and even earn certifications to kickstart their careers.

I've seen firsthand how a little bit of patience, a simple "you got this," or a $50 stipend can go a long way—for both generations.

But we need help to keep this going.

Your donation helps us do what we can't do alone. It gives kūpuna access to devices, printed guides, and a friendly face to walk them through it all. It gives teens the support they need to show up, serve, and build a future in tech and service.

Whether you're able to give $10 or $1,000, your support does more than fund a program—it helps build a real, lasting bridge between generations here in Hawai'i.

If you'd like to connect, donate, or learn more about our program, I'd love to talk story. You can email me directly at jafferiscool@gmail.com or visit www.techsavvyteen.org and fill out our contact form; one of our tech-savvy teens will ensure your message reaches me.

With heartfelt gratitude,

Jaffer Dakroub
