MESSAGE

GOD ALONE

Being called to a higher order could be the theme that runs through today's Gospel. Humans are pretty good about making an idol of about anything. We can even make an idol of the Law of the Old Testament. We can love the Law more than we love God. If we do this, we're making an idol out of the Law.

The Law does not exist to be worshiped, but to help us worship. It does not exist to be adored, but to help us adore the supreme God.

This goes for many things concerning the spiritual life. Anything that is good - and no matter how good it is - should be considered a steppingstone to God and not God himself. These things exist to help us to come closer to God, and not to replace God with them. The Law - and even the Gospel - should be the foundation and the support by which we can come to God. They exist in the service of helping us understand better who and what God is. But we all always must remember that it is God himself in His very being - His unfathomable and inexplicable being - that is adored above all.

May this very God bless you all!
Father Rob.
