

Robert Louis Co. Ultimate Practice Shooting System

All shooters agree nothing takes the place of repetitions, which lead to muscle memory and helps to develop instinctive shooting. This is what our Laser Shooting System accomplishes.

Using the brightest legally available red or green lasers, the LaserShooter fits in the muzzle of your gun and fires when the trigger is touched. You can practice your entire shooting routine — swing, mount, lead, fire and follow-through — in the comfort of your home without the cost of ammo or going to the range. Available in gauges 10 through .410 bore, the dual electric sensing connections on the LaserShooter will function even with dirty chokes.

Practice shooting with the LaserShooter is most effective when coupled with the LaserPro, which projects one or two laser targets. The LaserPro can be adjusted for any kind of target (Skeet, Trap, Sporting Clays), different speeds, directions and can be set to release either continuously or on voice command.

For the Sporting Clays, 5-Stand shooter and upland bird hunter, mounting the LaserPro back and forth, bringing more curved, challenging, real-life target presentations to your practice sessions.

Many high school trap and skeet programs across the country successfully use our Laser Shooting system for both the introduction of new shooters and team training.

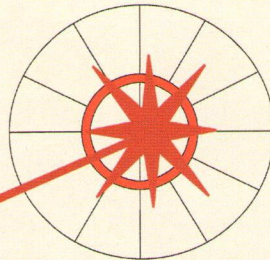

One of the many benefits the LaserShooter provides is the perfecting of the shooter's mount so critical in games such as FITASC and the Olympic clay target disciplines. In a typical practice session with our system, a shooter may mount his gun 200 or more times. Multiply that by the number of practice sessions a day, times how many days a week they practice, and you begin to understand the true value of this system.

With over 15,000 units in use worldwide and a starting price of $159, it is affordable for the shooting public, clubs and teams. Made in the USA with a conditional lifetime warranty.
